211 Attend Anniversary Convocation

Morgan-Scott Home Bureau members Friday celebrated the silver anniversary of the formation of the organization at the annual meeting held at Centenary Methodist church. There are now 27 active units, with a membership of more than 500.

Four state officers were on hand for the occasion and a special guest was W. F. Colledge of Urbana, assistant state director of farm advisers, who founded Home Bureau in Morgan county in 1936 when he was the local farm adviser.

The special speaker was Rev. Norvin C. Blake of the Macon Baptist church. He told of the camping tour he and his wife made in Russia and what they saw there. He told his auditors that they could count themselves fortunate, that in Russia the women did most of the hard work, that consumer goods are scarce, poorly made and costly, that state medicine does not protect the health of the women, that food is scarce, high priced and of little variety, that housing is crowded and expensive, and Russian women simply cannot imagine the freedom and abundance the American woman enjoys.

The meeting opened with a morning business session with the president, Mrs. Lawrence Mallicoat, presiding. Reports were made by Mrs. Olin Clark, secretary; Mrs. Russell Vernon, treasurer; Miss Hazel Graves, home adviser; and her assistant, Mrs. Shirley Franklin Jones.

Sixty charter members were present. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Stella Cox, 82, of Mounds unit, the oldest member present, and to Mrs. Edward Brainer, 18, of Jersey College, the youngest member present. Mrs. Harry Driver and Mrs. James Luster won the door prize.

Each member who had a perfect attendance record for the year received a red rose.

The committees in charge of the day's program included: hostesses committee: Mrs. A. J. Stewart, Mrs. C. F. Strang, Mrs. Earl J. Myers, Mrs. John H. Reynolds, Mrs. William G. Rigg, Mrs. Everett Hester, Mrs. Marvin Schlicker, Mrs. James Adkins, Mrs. Earl Bourn, Mrs. A. J. Lonergan, Mrs. Ralph Sturgeon, Mrs. T. B. Ransom.

THE FIRST STEP

BOSTON (AP) — Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston tells of a succinct answer he received during a visit to a school for girls in Latin America.

"I introduced my remarks with this question: What is the first thing to do to make good chicken soup?" he wrote in 'The Pilot,' official publication of the Boston Archdiocese.

"After a brief silence, a hand went up and a 10-year-old girl said: 'Kill the chicken, your eminence.'"

THE DEVIL AT 4 O'CLOCK Next At The ILLINOIS

SPENCER TRACY and FRANK SINATRA, two of the screen's most important actors, are paired for the first time in "THE DEVIL AT 4 O'CLOCK" in Eastman Color coming Thursday to the Illinois Theatre. Playing a Pacific Island priest and a cynical convict, respectively, the stars give performances so filled with entertainment fireworks that they almost outshine one of the most explosive of all possible natural phenomena: an earthquake and volcanic eruption which completely destroys the South Sea island of the film.

Train U.S. Troops To Survive, Fight In Below Zero Weather

FT. GREELY, Alaska (AP)—
Memories of the harsh Italian campaign of World War II and a proud U.S. Army division live on at this sprawling military post in

Fort Greely is the home of the Army Cold Weather and Mountain School, where Uncle Sam's troops are trained to survive and fight in temperatures 50 degrees below zero.

Glaciers, the sheer cliffs of the Alaska mountain range, muskeg flats, jackless forests and rushing glacial streams comprise the training ground.

During World War II, the 10th
Mountain Infantry Division traveled light and fast up the Italian peninsula. Training for mountain warfare, they whipped Hitler's best at their own game.

The rigorous training of the men of the 10th, stationed in Colorado prior to the Italian campaign is being matched—and bettered—at Fort Greely.

There is one major difference.
"We are always faced with the problem of specialized units, and how far we should go toward specialization," explains Lt. Col.
Claude W. Baker, commander of the Cold Weather and Mountain School.

"For example, if you train a unit for cold weather and moun-

Why Young Men Under 25, Unmarried, Pay Higher Premium For Car Insurance

DETROIT (AP)—A man of 21 is at or near his physical peak. His coordination may never be better and his senses are at their sharpest.

Despite these attributes when this young man buys a car and applies for insurance he will be asked to pay, on the average, 2 1/2 times the base rate. If he isn't married, roughly 1 1/2 times the base rate if he is married or only drives the family car part time.

Even then many companies aren't eager for his business.

The insurance people say they'll probably lose money on the policy despite the much higher premium.

His particular age group—unmarried male under 25 in insurance company parlance—appears more accident-prone than any other. Men and women in this age bracket make up only 18.4 per cent of all licensed drivers, yet are involved in 28 per cent of all vehicle accidents and more than 28 per cent of all fatal vehicle accidents.

As yet young women drivers are not penalized by higher insurance rates, mainly because they are outnumbered by the men. But one insurance executive says "we are making a serious study of the situation. It certainly may become necessary to charge them more, too."

Motor vehicle accidents are the leading cause of death for both males and females from 15 to 24 and one of 17 in this age group gets injured in a car every year.

One conclusion, by Dr. Ross McFarland of Harvard University, is that such high accident rates must be regarded in terms of "inexperience, emotional and social immaturity, and temperamental qualities associated with youth."

A spokesman for Allstate Insurance, one of the nation's largest auto insurers, cites this hypothetical example:

"John is an excellent boy, president of the senior class, a straight student, a good family background. Friday night he's got the family car and he's driving home from a football game 30 miles away. Four of his friends are with him. He starts out at a conservative 50 miles an hour. His friends urge him to hurry up. He sticks to his guns until someone, somewhere along the line, asks sarcastically, 'What's the matter? You chicken?'

John is forced to decide 'do I want to be acceptable to my friends?' He speeds up—too fast—and suddenly there is a tragic accident.

"Historically the facts in front of you about this boy say he'd never do it. But we know that under given circumstances, under social pressure from within his group, he has done it."

Robb B. Kelley, vice president-secretary of the Employers Mutual Casualty Co. of Des Moines, Iowa, puts it this way: "We know we are penalizing the good drivers in this age group. The problem is how to find the good ones in advance."

The insurance companies are searching vigorously for some new answers, other than just raising rates to everyone. One method has been to support financially driver education programs in high schools. Almost all companies grant graduates of such courses 10 to 15 per cent discounts on their property damage and personal liability premiums, but these discounts come from the already high rate.

Another approach is being tried by Kelley's company along with four others—Allied Mutual Insurance Co. of Des Moines, Meridian Mutual of Indianapolis, Celina Mutual of Celina, Ohio, and Auto Owners Insurance Co. of Lansing, Mich. They have formed the Mutual Drivers Psychological measuring Bureau under the direction of Dr. A. C. MacKinney of Iowa State University.

MacKinney has set out to devise a test which will anticipate which drivers are likely to be involved in accidents, working on the assumption that temperament or personality traits hold the key for the under-25 males.

The tests have been written, examined and now are being tried by the companies for comparison against actual accident claims.

Kelley, as spokesman for the bureau, says no decision has been made on final use of the test, which includes 300 questions.

WHITE GOLD
BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Dentistry has solved the problem of using gold for its good filling qualities without making a patient's mouth look like a jewelry store window.

Dr. John F. Johnson of the Indiana University School of Dentistry told a dental meeting here recently that porcelain veneers baked to the gold filling surface cover the gold and closely resemble the color and surface texture of natural teeth.

RECREATION MAGNET—Black X on Newsmag locates a new recreational area, Flaming Gorge Lake, near Utah-Wyoming border. A huge lake will start taking shape late next year when Flaming Gorge dam backs up Green River waters behind it.

ISD Homecoming Win Led By Poncar's 5 TD's

Carries Five Times Scores Five Times In 39-6 Sixth Win

By JACK FAIRFIELD

Bob Poncar put on a one-man-scoring-show for the estimated 700 Homecoming fans Saturday afternoon as he carried for only four times and scored four touchdowns the first half and added a 60-yard punt return for a TD the second half, to lead Coach Bond's Illinois School for the Deaf Tigers past the Missouri School for the Deaf, 39-6.

Poncar went 66, 52, 42, and 19 yards for touchdowns in the first half and carried the ball five times for four touchdowns. The Eagles were stymied once again by the pressing forward wall of Coach Jim Bond's Tigers and were in a punting situation on their own 20. The attempted kick didn't even get back to the line of scrimmage and the fourth Poncar TD was set up. Following a plunge into the line by Miller, Poncar raced 19 yards over several tacklers and scored easily, added the PAT and led the Tigers into the dressing room at halftime with a 28-6 lead.

The Tigers' general play was a little below par as they committed several fumbles which could have been costly and although their line did good job charging through most of the contest, the Eagles offense was a little less than outstanding.

ISD received the opening kickoff and after some undecided steps by the prospective ball carrier it was fumbled and the Missouri Deaf recovered on the ISD 25 yard stripe. On the second play MSD fumbled and five Tigers finally fell on the ball on the 40. Marquis picked up eight yards off tackle and then Poncar took a Clausen pitchout and romped 52 yards for his first TD.

The map from center on the PAT was fumbled, so Poncar picked up the ball and stormed into the end zone for the seven to nothing ISD lead.

Poncar kicked off for the Tigers and the Missouri school seemed to perk up just a little. The Eagles picked one first down and were within two yards of another when they fumbled again. Jackson got 20 yards with a wide end sweep, the key to the Eagle defense all afternoon, and then with the ball resting on the Missouri 42, Poncar took the ball on a reverse and rammed over three tacklers to score again. The powerful senior then kicked the extra point, 14-0, ISD.

Following the ensuing kickoff the Eagles couldn't move and were forced to punt. ISD took over on the visitors' 25 and promptly fumbled on the first play, but recovered their own misdeed. They were penalized and lost yardage twice and finally yielded the ball to Coach Clarence Davis' Eagles on the 32 to end the first quarter.

On the first play of the second period, Gen. Manion swept around his own left end and went 40 yards before being knocked out of bounds on the ISD 16 by, you-know-who, Bob Poncar. In three downs the Eagles got only two yards to the Illinois Deaf 14 but with a fourth and eight situation facing the gritty visitors, Manion dropped back and fired a pass to Frank Morris who shook off one tackler and scored standing up for the Missouri school's only touchdown. The attempted run for the point after was stopped short.

The Tigers continued to play lax ball and following the MSD kickoff the host fumbled and Bryan Glascock recovered for Missouri on the ISD 42. The Eagles couldn't move the ball again and tried the always but Marquis intercepted for ISD.

On the first play Poncar rolled around his own left end and "plopped" 66 yards for the third Illinois Deaf six-pointer. The attempted kick for the point after

With all of the fine college scholarships that are offered in the present day we were still quite surprised to read of the latest one that came through the information basket at the Journal-Courier. The $10,000 Grantland Rice Memorial Scholarship for future sportswriters is a golden opportunity for some aspiring journalist. We suggest that any who feel that they might be slightly qualified investigate this golden opportunity and not let it pass unnoticed.

The Friday afternoon tussle between ISD and Triopia is shaping up as one of the most interesting of the current football year. The Tigers have been rolling over their last three opponents in much fashion that some of the starters and first string players don't see as much action as the second team.

Triopia, on the other hand, has never been a believer in the theory that the game is sacked away at 30-0 and their first team has played almost every contest throughout. They have played many common foes and naturally the scores will be compared by many, but we choose to ignore these irrelevant indications of the two's similarities.

It will be most interesting and probably most exciting before the final gun has sounded. The key seems to rest with Bob Poncar, the Tigers' powerful halfback. If he is stopped, ISD will be stopped but if Poncar, as we suspect, can run roughshod over the Trojans as he has everyone else, except Roodhouse, this year then Coach Jim Bond and his Tigers might very well have a FMSC championship in their pocket.

It was no doubt very disappointing to many that Merritt Norvell was unable to play in Saturday's televised contest between Ohio State and Wisconsin but to aggravate an injury would not help anyone's chances of future activities. Merritt has done an outstanding job for the Badgers and this was one of the few times that the home town fans had an opportunity to see their favorite Big Ten football player in action. Maybe later on in the year Wisconsin will figure in NBC's television production plans and Merritt will be at full strength.

Iowa Fumbles, Interceptions Give Purdue Win

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Mud-loving Purdue held Iowa scoreless for the first time in nine seasons and splattered the No. 5 ranking college team 9-0 Saturday.

Happy as a pack of otters in the steady downpour, Purdue's agile young men grabbed three Iowa fumbles and intercepted two Hawkkey passes.

Purdue center Don Paltani snatched a Matt Skovorny pass at the Iowa 46, shortly after the opening kickoff, and sophomore quarterback Ron DiGravio carried over for a touchdown. DiGravio hit halfback Tom Bloom with a 19-yard pass and halfback Dave Miller with a short one in the important early drive, and a 15-yard Iowa penalty helped considerably.

Purdue had not intercepted a pass in four previous games. The field deteriorated into a swamp, and the only other scoring was Skip Ohl's 27-yard field goal late in the third quarter. It, too, was set up by an Iowa mistake—halfback Bernard Wyatt's fumble which Purdue guard Stan Skurek pushed into the mud at the Iowa 45.

Illini Attempt Fails In Final Quarter As Trojans Triumph 14-10

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Illinois made a long and exciting journey in a vain attempt to escape the football wilderness Saturday — but Southern California hung on to win 14-10.

Southern Cal's Trojans went into the game as two-touchdown favorites, but had to come from behind in the third quarter. Sophomore quarterback Pete Beathard took to the air in a 65-yard scoring drive to turn the trick.

The angry thrower connected with Hal Bedsole for gains of 24 and 10 yards and then to Ben Rosin for 15 to the Illini two. Big Ben Wilson and the Trojans got the two point conversion on a pass from Beathard to Lynn Gaskill.

Few of the 28,694 in Memorial Coliseum left as Illinois began its march from the Illini 11 with 5:50 left. The Illini sophomore quarterback, Ron Fearn, cut loose with a 27-yard gallop to ignite the threat and the Big Ten visitors pounded on down to the Trojan 25. As the minutes ticked away, Illinois tried the airway.

From a shotgun-like formation, Mel Romani passed to Doug Mills for 19, to the Trojan six. But a second aerial was knocked down in the end zone, Romani lost two, and the gun sounded.

The Trojans scored after taking the opening kickoff and traveling 80 yards in six plays with Beathard passing for 26 to Bedsole for the score. The conversion try failed.

Southern Cal fumbled the ball away three times in the half. After Illinois had driven 80 yards in 19 rounds plays to score and convert, the fumbles popped up. One led to an Illinois field goal, a 22-yarder by Jim Plankenhorn. It gave the Illini a 10-6 halftime lead.

With the clock running out and Illinois on the Trojan 25, quarterback Mel Romani suddenly dropped back into the short punt or shotgun offense. It caught the Trojans by surprise and Romani completed a pass to Doug Mills for 19 yards.

This table is computed on basis of longitude 90° 12', which is the Jacksonville-Beardtown area. For points East, subtract one minute from the table for each 13 1/2 miles (airline). For points West, add one minute for each 13 1/2 miles. In applying the correction factor, there are inherent possible errors by reason of (1) showing time to nearest minute, and (2) yearly differences in time due to the effect of Leap Year. An allowance of two minutes after starting time or before the closing time should be adequate.

Yates And Coulter Score For JHS's Fifth Season Win

By BUFORD GREEN

SPRINGFIELD — Jacksonville's Crimsons slipped by the Lanphier Lions 9-0 on a muddy field which hampered the running game of both teams, but were sparked by the running of halfback Ron Yates and fullback Tom Ferry as the Saturday night contest at Memorial Stadium saw coaches Kraushaar and Rosenberger's squad do all their scoring in the first half then hang on to take their fifth game of the season.

The muddy condition of the field was the cause of several fumbles and the small yardage picked up by both teams rushing. Jacksonville's scoring came midway in the first quarter on a 20 yard run by Yates and with four seconds left in the half when Wes Coulter kicked an 18 yard field goal.

The Crimsons received to open the game and Tom Ferry took it on his own 15 and carried the ball back 20 yards to the 35. Ferry and Yates picked up two and six yards before Yates picked up the first down to the 48. Halfback Willie Brown carried on the next play for eight yards to the 44 of Lanphier. After a Sims to Roland pass fell incomplete, Yates fumbled and Lanphier recovered, taking over on Jville's 44.

Three running plays by the Lions netted only five yards and Rodgers was forced to punt. Yates gathered it in on his 20 yard line and rambled all the way down to the 35 of Lanphier before being halted down. After Ferry carried for five yards to the 26, halfback Yates broke loose and went all the way for the 28 yard TD gallop. Wes Coulter's kick for the extra point was wide.

The ensuing kickoff was taken by Lanphier's Williams on his own 20 and ran back to the 35. Lanphier then put on a sustained drive downfield which carried them all the way down to the Crimsons' four yard line where quarterback Mike Rodgers had two passes fall incomplete on third and fourth downs.

Jacksonville took over on their own four yard stripe to start the second quarter. Three running plays picked up 9 yards and the Crimsons elected to punt on fourth and one. Yates booted to the 40 off Lanphier where halfback Eandi took the ball and ran it back to the 42 of Jacksonville.

Fullback Heininger picked up ten yards and a first down on the next play from scrimmage. Rodgers carried for five yards on two plays before Eandi carried to the Crimsons 15 for another Lanphier first down. On the next play, Rodgers fumbled and Alvin Smith of the Crimsons recovered on the 12 yard line.

Three running plays picked up a first down for the Crimsons and they had the ball on their own 25. Then the Lion defense tightened and they were forced to punt again.

Yates punted to the 15 of Lanphier where the ball rolled yards and a first down was gained. After two Lanphier run attempts were stopped at the line of scrimmage, Rodgers quickly kicked to the 36 where Bill Sims fell on the ball.

On the next series of downs, Rodgers intercepted a Yates pass and ran it back to the 25. Wes Coulter intercepted a Lanphier pass on the next play and was downed on Lanphier's 25.

On the next series of downs, Rodgers intercepted a Yates pass and ran it back to the 25. Wes Coulter intercepted a Lanphier pass on the next play and was downed on Lanphier's 25.

MSU Homecoming Show Dumps IU

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Top-ranked Michigan State sparked by brilliant scoring plays in the second half for a 35-0 victory over Indiana Saturday.

The outcome was expected although a higher score had been predicted.

The Spartans looked uninspired in the first half except for a 39-yard scoring drive made the first time MSU got the ball.

Michigan State buckled down to business and delighted the homecoming crowd of 55,361 with four more efficient scores in the second half.

MSU powered 60 yards for one touchdown in four plays as Carl Charon scampered 46 yards for the score, George Salines, The Associated Press back of the week last week, ran six yards for another.

Quarterback Pete Smith, back on the Indiana 49, hit end Lonnie Sanders with a pass on the 20 and he skipped into the end zone from there.

First-string fullback Roger Lopez shook off two tacklers and ran seven yards for the final touchdown to cap a 51-yard march that took only seven plays.

End Art Brandstatter, a left-footed kicker, had a perfect average for the day as he booted five of five for the extra points.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Judge Dickson blasted across from the one to score the winning touchdown with 1:24 to go Saturday to give Minnesota a come-from-behind 23-20 victory over Michigan.

The touchdown came seconds after a Minnesota drive had been halted on Michigan's 9-yard line and it appeared the Wolves would hand Minnesota its first Big Ten setback of the season.

Michigan's Bennie MaRae then fumbled on the first play when smashed by safety Tom Telgen. Dickson pounced on the loose ball, then bulled over from the one on fourth down.

The victory left the Gophers with a 3-0 conference record and kept the venerable Little Brown Jug in Minneapolis.

It was all Michigan until the fourth period. Minnesota came to life in the final period, trailing 20-8. Sandy Stephens hit end John Campbell for 66 yards and a touchdown and then the Gophers regained control of the ball.

Dave Rainey sparked the Wolves to their three touchdowns, his 27-yard broken field run in the second quarter giving the Wolves a 13-0 lead and his four-yard jaunt in the third period wrapping up the Wolverines' scoring.

Bill Tunnicliffe scored the other touchdown early in the game on an eight-yard run after a Minnesota fumble.

Minnesota's first touchdown before the 65,888 homecoming crowd came in the second quarter when Stephens rammed 63 yards for the score.

Northwestern Dumps Irish On Benz Pass In Final Quarter

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Halfback Larry Benz tossed his only completed passes this season but both went for touchdowns to give Northwestern a come-from-behind 12-10 victory over eighth-ranked Notre Dame Saturday.

A spectacular 50-yard pass play from Benz to Bill Stinson provided Northwestern's first touchdown early in the second half and the payoff loss was a short 7-yard touchdown pass to Albert Kimbrough midway in the final quarter.

The triumph was the third straight for Northwestern in the renewed series and kept Coach Ara Parseghian's record of never having lost to the Irish.

Northwestern, kept from scoring touchdowns in its last two games against Minnesota and Ohio State, recorded its third victory against two losses. A crowd of 59,075 saw the Irish suffer their second successive defeat after triumphing in their first three games.

Notre Dame wasted no time in crashing into the scoring column. The first time the Irish gained possession they went for a touchdown with ridiculous ease. Angelo Dabiero reeled off a 28-yard run to the 14 and Mike Lind rambled across the goal line on the next play.

Although Northwestern, directed by sophomore quarterback Tom O'Grady, gained well in the first half, the Wildcats couldn't score. They drove from their 17 to the Irish 26 in the game's first series of plays but were repelled.

Midway in the second quarter with Benz, Stinson and fullback Paul Tostaky gaining ground, the Wildcats moved to the Notre Dame 14 only to be stopped again. Northwestern finally broke into the scoring column on the Benz to Stinson pass four minutes after the second half started.

Benz started the play by going around his left end. Suddenly he straightened out, and passed to Stinson on the Notre Dame 25. A perfect block by end Pat Riley gave Stinson daylight. He reversed his field, picked up blockers and went in for the score untouched. Northwestern tried for two points and a possible lead but O'Grady's pass was intercepted by Tom McCormick.

Notre Dame added to its lead minutes when Joe Perkovich booted a 35-yard field goal giving the Irish a 10-6 lead.

Early in the fourth quarter, Notre Dame was forced to punt. Riley blocked Daryl Lemonica's kick and the ball bounded into the end zone. The play was called dead, however, and the ball given to Notre Dame along with a first down.

The Irish couldn't capitalize and were forced to punt again. Northwestern then proceeded to march 51 yards for the winning score.

Key plays in the final drive included a 18-yard pass from Fred Quinn to Flately and a 10-yard run by Benz to the Irish 12.

With time running out, Notre Dame threatened as Frank Burke heaved a pass to Dabiero. The Irish speedster broke into the clear but Stinson, faked out once, recovered and knocked Dabiero out of bounds on the Northwestern 26. Chances of a final gasp field goal and victory for Notre Dame were eliminated when sophomore fullback Jim Swenson fumbled and Northwestern recovered on the 31.

FAILED IN A PINCH
CINCINNATI (AP) — Pinch hitters fared rather badly for the Cincinnati Reds during the World Series. Of 14 pinch hitters only one, Chico Carreras, produced a double. Jerry Lynch drew an intentional walk. The last eight Red pinch swingers failed to reach base.

Yankee pinch hitters produced a home run, by John Blanchard, and a walk in four efforts.

INDIES CRICKETERS TOPS
MONTREAL (AP) — The West Indian Cricket Club won all four major trophies in the A and B divisions of the Montreal Cricket Club this season, something that hadn't been done in the club's 35-year history.

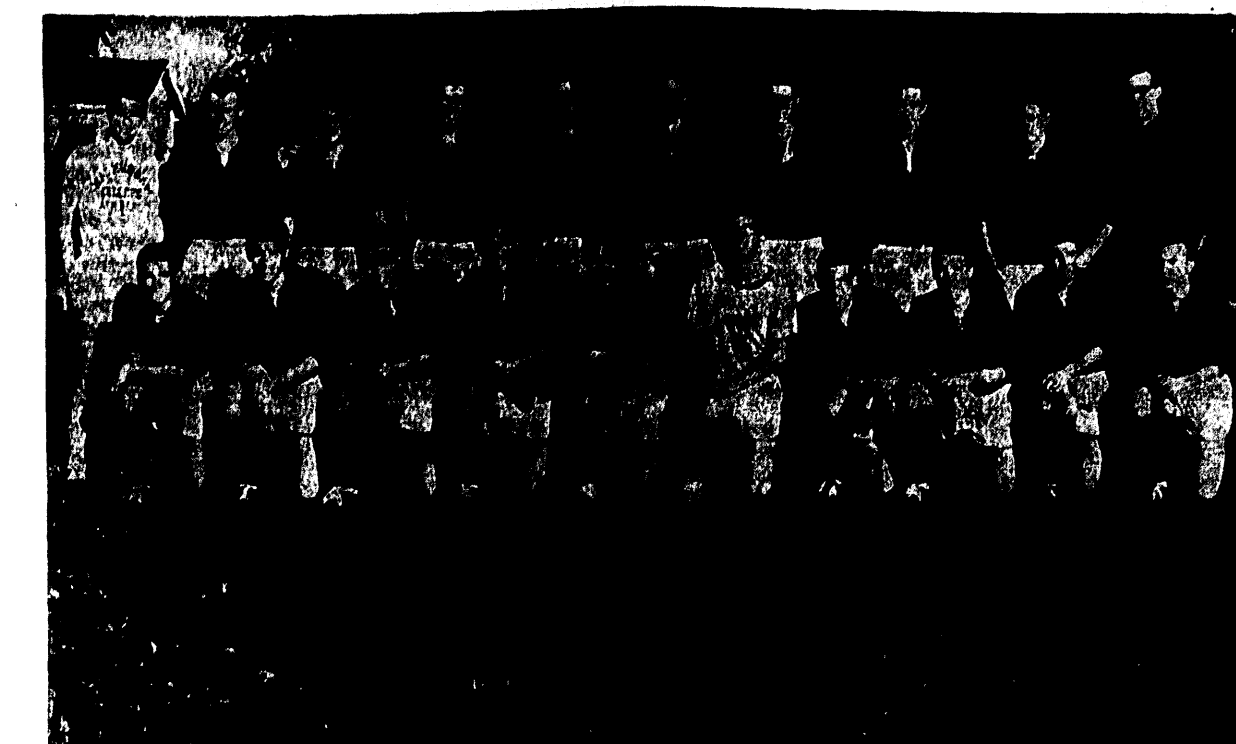

In four trips to the post in the Garden State, Jockey Eric Guerin won with Summer Tan in 1955, second with Carver Boy in 1956, third with Rose Trella in 1957 and third with Sward Dancer in 1958.

Brown, who previously broke Benny Leonard's record nine defense of the 135-pound title, was guaranteed $50,000. Somodio will get $15,000.

MANILA (AP) — Fast-punching Joe Brown of Houston, Tex., twice flooring the younger opponent, easily outpointed Bert Somodio of the Philippines Saturday night while making a record 11th successful defense of his world lightweight championship.

Brown, 35, sent the 27-year-old challenger to the canvas for no count in the fifth round and for a nine count in the 11th. He also ripped open a cut on Somodio's left cheek and staggered him with a solid right cross in the seventh. The champion also scored repeatedly with sharp jabs and uppercuts.

LSU Rides High In 23-0 Fifth Victory In Row

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Dramatic touchdowns by Ray Wilkins and Dwight Robinson sparked seventh-ranked Louisiana State to a 23-0 football victory Saturday over Southeastern Conference rival Florida.

The triumph was the fifth in a row for LSU, unbeaten since a season opening loss to Rice. Florida, taking its first SEC loss, has three victories, two defeats and a tie.

Halfback Wilkins capped an 88-yard scoring drive by racing 33 yards for a touchdown in the second period. Quarterback Robinson, a defensive specialist, intercepted a Florida pounce minutes later and sprinted 25 yards for another.

The Tigers covered 86 yards after intermission in only five plays for a third score on the passing of quarterback Lynn Amedee, who pitched 16 yards to end Danny Neuman for the touchdown.

Hornung May Stay At Green Bay As Army Hits Browns Next

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Green Bay Packers, powering their way toward a second straight Western Division title in the National Football League, may have high-scoring Paul Hornung on hand longer than they thought.

But the Cleveland Browns, struggling to stay in the Eastern race, are due to lose some of their prime offensive strength to the Army after Sunday's game.

Hornung, Green Bay's man of many talents, was to have reported for military duty this week but instead will check into the hospital for a physical examination which could take 10 days to evaluate.

However, the Packers still will have two regulars bound for the Army this week—linebacker Ray Nitschke and flanker back Floyd Little. And Cleveland will be hard hit by the military call-up with whipper runner Bobby Mitchell slated to go in.

The Packers, Western leaders with five victories in six starts, have a return match Sunday with the Minnesota Vikings (1-5) at Milwaukee, and the Browns (4-2) are at St. Louis (3-3). Also on the schedule: Philadelphia (5-1) at Washington (0-6), Dallas (3-3) at New York (5-1), Chicago (4-2) at Baltimore (3-3), San Francisco (4-2) at Pittsburgh (1-5) and Detroit (3-3) at Los Angeles (1-5).

With Hornung out for much of last week's game with a bad knee, the Packers uncovered a stellar replacement in Tom Moore, who was a running whiz as Green Bay smothered the Vikings 33-7. But as a point guard, he was not a man of Hornung's abilities. He set an NFL record last year with 176 points and is the current leader with 82.

Mitchell has combined with the Bears (4-2) stopped the free-wheeling San Francisco 49ers last Sunday and face another formidable job Sunday against the Colts (3-3). Baltimore is finding it hard to jell this fall, but must make an ever-dangerous opponent.

San Francisco (4-2) will try to improve its chances in the Western sweepstakes in the interdivision game against the hard-kicked Steelers, who've lost five of six but have been outscored by only three points (119-116).

Detroit's hot-and-cold Lions (6-3) could regain some lost momentum against the defense-weak Rams (1-5).

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP) — Potent Mississippi launched a massive attack Saturday and the second-ranked Rebels rolled to a 47-0 victory over outmanned Vanderbilt in a lackluster Southeastern Conference football game.

The Rebels, starting slower than at many times this season, showed little in punching across one touchdown in each of the first two periods, then picking up the tempo against the tiring Vanderbilt team after intermission.

The scoring parade featured two touchdowns by Reb Fullback Billy Ray Adams and one each by end Wes Sullivan, halfback A. J. Holloway, end Ralph Smith and quarterback Doug Elmore and Perry Lee Dunn.

Adams' 20-yard run in the first quarter was the longest touchdown play and the score was all his. The 210-pound senior piler-driver intercepted a pass by Vanderbilt's Hank Lesane and returned it 25 yards to the Vanderbilt 35. Adams carried to the 28 on the first play and scored on the next.

NINE FIRST STRIKES
CINCINNATI (AP) — Bob Purkey, Cincinnati's consistent right-hander, pitched a strike on the first pitch to the first nine Yankees during the third World Series game. However, he lost the game, 3-2, on a ninth-inning homer by Roger Maris.

Colorado Looks To Big 8 Title In 22-14 Win

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Tenth-ranked Colorado recouped twice Saturday to put down a fighting but out-manned Oklahoma football team 22-14.

It was the undefeated Buffaloes' fifth consecutive victory of the season as they continued driving for their first Big Eight Conference title in 15 years of membership.

The defeat was Oklahoma's fifth straight this season and eclipsed the school's all-time losing streak of four straight set in 1931 and matched in 1960.

Fullback Loren Schwinger scored the winning touchdown early in the fourth quarter capping a 50-yard drive.

Halfback Bill Harris gave the Buffaloes good field position for the clincher by returning a kickoff, after Oklahoma had gone ahead, 44 yards to the midfield stripe.

Tight guard Colorado a 16-14 lead and it proved to be enough. But the Buffaloes took advantage of an Oklahoma fumble to add another tally midway through the fourth quarter.

The Bears (4-2) stopped the free-wheeling San Francisco 49ers last Sunday and face another formidable job Sunday against the Colts (3-3). Baltimore is finding it hard to jell this fall, but must make an ever-dangerous opponent.

San Francisco (4-2) will try to improve its chances in the Western sweepstakes in the interdivision game against the hard-kicked Steelers, who've lost five of six but have been outscored by only three points (119-116).

Detroit's hot-and-cold Lions (6-3) could regain some lost momentum against the defense-weak Rams (1-5).

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP) — Potent Mississippi launched a massive attack Saturday and the second-ranked Rebels rolled to a 47-0 victory over outmanned Vanderbilt in a lackluster Southeastern Conference football game.

The Rebels, starting slower than at many times this season, showed little in punching across one touchdown in each of the first two periods, then picking up the tempo against the tiring Vanderbilt team after intermission.

The scoring parade featured two touchdowns by Reb Fullback Billy Ray Adams and one each by end Wes Sullivan, halfback A. J. Holloway, end Ralph Smith and quarterback Doug Elmore and Perry Lee Dunn.

Adams' 20-yard run in the first quarter was the longest touchdown play and the score was all his. The 210-pound senior piler-driver intercepted a pass by Vanderbilt's Hank Lesane and returned it 25 yards to the Vanderbilt 35. Adams carried to the 28 on the first play and scored on the next.

Comets Tally All In First Half; IC Starts In 2nd Half

OLIVET, Mich. — Freshman quarterback Forest Bone of Olivet College's Comets scored once on a nine yard run and fired two touchdown passes to pace the homecoming victors to a 40-20 decision over Illinois College's Blueboys Saturday afternoon.

The Blueboys opened the final half with a score after tackle Dale Williams recovered a fumble on Olivet's first series of downs. Ten plays later Carrollton sophomore Ron Carter scored from the one-yard marker and Ted McDonald added the touchdown on the two-point attempt.

With 52 seconds remaining in the third quarter Gary Duffield and Jacksonville's Gerald Brockhouse teamed up to recover another Olivet loose ball on IC's 49-yard stripe.

A Volk pass to senior end Ed Puck netted 14 yards as Francis went 15 yards to the 22, where Volk again hit Puck on the three. Three attempted runs put the Blueboys back on the nine from where Volk fired to sophomore end Bill Baker from North Norwich, N.Y., for the second IC score. The attempt for another two-point conversion failed.

Three minutes and 21 seconds remaining in the game as the Blueboys scored their final tally. Starting on their own 23 yard line, Volk passed Harry Lee Sweet, senior half, rushed as Francis busted loose from the Olivet 27 for the score after two decisive blocks from Frank Moriconi and Bob Downer cleared the way.

The Blueboys started their scoring in the third period when Ron Carter scored from the one and again in the final period as quarterback Bob Volk opened up and passed the Blueboys down to the three where he hit Bill Baker for the first score. Again the senior co-captain opened up and hurled IC aerials which put Coach Joe Brooks' squad to the 27 where sophomore Tom Francis from Franklin cantered 27 yards for the last tally.

The game was hampered with bone-chilling rain during the first half, and at the start of the second half, both schools agreed to shorten the game by three minutes per quarter because of the severe cold dampers.

Freshman half Roger Reinhardt opened the Comets' first half run, away as he broke into the IC defense and scored on the 10 yard marker and went in for an initial tally, with 5:53 remaining in the first frame. Senior Danny Dienoff booted the conversion.

Again the Comets chalked up touchdowns as quarterback Bone busted over from the Blueboys nine yard marker as a pass from Bone to his end Larry Melendy clicked for the third Olivet tally in the first period. Dienoff's PAT kick was good.

The Blueboys, still stalled offensively were not a worry on three times in the second quarter when the Tom Moran took a handoff and sauntered for a seven yarder into IC's end zone for a 26-0 edge.

Wayne Mansfield, Ray Bonner, Craig Ford, John Chipman, and Bill Windels again sparked the Highlander defense. All five repeatedly kicked the ball deep into Blackburn territory whenever the Carlinville squad threatened.

Brian Varner, playing goals in place of Dick Trout, who has been lost with a broken foot, had 14 saves for the Highlanders.

HALSEY PILOTS
CARTHAGE WIN
LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) — Senior quarterback Bob Halsey scored two touchdowns and passed for two others to pace Carthage College to a 42-13 victory over Lake Forest in a College Conference of Illinois football game Saturday.

Halsey scored his two TDs on runs of 1 and 28 yards. He connected with end Dave Warner on a 62-yard touchdown pass and hit end Pat Schrader on a TD aerial covering 25 yards.

Halsey shared the scoring spectacle with fullback Ev Olson who scampered 79 yards for a touchdown with halfback Jim Payne, who sprinted 39 yards for another. Halsey kicked six extra points.

Lake Forest's first tally came on a 52 yard play starting on a pass from quarterback Herb McDowell to fullback Dave Gaiser, who lateraled to fullback Jim Halsey.

The lone scoring strategy used when Lake Forest quarterback Tom Deuman hit end Pat Warner on a 62-yard touchdown pass.

Voters To Select Justices Of Peace, Constables Nov. 7

Morgan County voters will visit the 49 precincts to select their choices for County Commissioner, Justices of the Peace and Constables on Tuesday, November 7. Traditionally, off-year elections draw meager crowds at the polls and most veteran forecasters expect a very light vote compared to the 20,000 or so registered voters in the county. Most predictions range from 2,500 to 3,500 total votes cast for the county.

Republicans and Democrats will strive to generate interest for their respective candidates during the next seven days in an effort to offset the general apathy on the part of prospective voters.

Top County-Wide Race

Top race in the county and the only candidates whose names will appear in all 49 precincts on the ballots will be the race for County Commissioner.

Republican William H. Jones of Waverly will attempt to unseat F. Byron Smith of Franklin, Democrat, for a three-year term.

District Races

All other election contests will be decided on a district basis. Three districts, drawn earlier by the county commissioners, will each select a Justice of the Peace and Constable. Both Republicans and Democrats have a full slate of candidates on the ticket. This will be the first election on a district basis and may be somewhat confusing to some voters. Careful attention to the precinct numbers in each district and candidates running should resolve any questions.

Alton Driver Dies Saturday After Attack

William Rodney Eisner, 47, of Alton died at 3:45 a.m. Saturday at Our Saviour's Hospital after being admitted about noon Friday. He had apparently suffered an attack or become suddenly ill while unloading glass at the Anderson-Clayton Company plant east of the city about 10:30 a.m.

Eisner was employed by the Evans Truck Lines of Alton, Ill., and was accompanied by his 17-year-old son, William, on the Jacksonville trip. He was rushed to Our Saviour's Hospital by Slaven ambulance for treatment.

Coroner John B. Martin conducted an inquiry into the death. The remains were removed to the Streeter Funeral Home in Alton. Further arrangements are incomplete.

Inland Waterway Traffic Increases On Mississippi

Inland waterway traffic on the Mississippi River between the mouth of the Ohio and the mouth of the Missouri Rivers amounted to 40,021,316 tons during the year 1960. This tonnage on the Mississippi has been progressively increasing over a long period. For comparison, in 1951 the tonnage for the same reach was 12,040,875 tons.

Colonel Alfred J. D'Arzo, District Engineer, U. S. Army Engineer District, St. Louis, said that the tonnage presently being carried reflects the continued growth of the mid-continent area and complements the navigation facilities on the river which makes possible this continued growth. It is also due to the fact that the towing industry has kept pace with transportation requirements by furnishing suitable equipment conducive to the increase in commodities carried by the inland waterway industry.

The Port of St. Louis maintained its status during 1960 as the leading inland port on the Mississippi River. It is well above any other Mississippi River inland port and 50 per cent greater than its nearest competitor, Memphis. The inbound-outbound traffic for St. Louis was 9,091,940 tons, a marked increase over the 1951 traffic of 4,939,412 tons.

The statistics so far do not include a breakdown of the commodities that are foremost in the makeup of freight, but in previous years, petroleum products have been the leader with grain and coal competing for second place.

Franklin Youth Wins 4-H Corn Contest

Bruce Bryant, 15, of the Franklin Straight Shooters is the 1961 4-H corn champ.

His peck sample in five acre contest sponsored by the Morgan County Service company was slightly inferior to some entered in Saturday's corn show held at the Farm Bureau. But the yield, 154.98 bushels per acre, and low production costs brought him the championship.

The judge was Dale Hewitt, Scott county farm adviser.

This is the second time Bryant has won the county title. He represented this county in the state contest sponsored by the Illinois Farm Supply Co. in 1959.

He and winners from other Illinois counties will be honored at a banquet to be held in Champaign next spring. At that time regional and state champions will be named.

Saturday's winner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bryant of rural route 1, Franklin. He planted a mixture of three popular hybrids in an insecticide band on May 28, 1961, and secured a stand of 19,000 plants per acre. His costs, including a 20c per bushel soil fertility charge, amounted to $231.08 for the 74.9 bushels produced on the five acres.

For bookkeeping purposes the value of the corn was set at $1 a bushel. He's not going to sell it of the crop, though, but will feed it to his eight sows and pigs and the 17 head of sheep he has for two of his Future Farmer projects.

The leaders of the Franklin Straight Shooters 4-H club are:

Poor Example To Follow

In this age of newly emerging nations, it has become a commonplace to say that many are drawn more to the Russian and Red Chinese example than to the American because what Communists have done seems more attainable to them.

The argument runs that the emerging peoples are impressed with the Sino-Soviet performance as having been achieved from a peasant society base much like their own today. "If these countries can do it, so can we," is supposed to be the insistent tune.

How ironic it is, then, that both Russia and Red China should have failed so dismally in the field of agriculture — fundamental to all growth and crucial to the lifting of living standards. A good proportion of the new nations need to master food and fiber problems before all else.

What do we actually find? The Soviet Union, for all its remarkable industrial advances over 40 years, today employs some 48 million people to feed and clothe a population of roughly 210 million. By contrast, the United States uses not much more than 6 million to supply the needs of 184 million—and has so much left over that it is a costly burden.

Accurate accounts of what transpires in Red China are of course impossible to get. But such fragmentary information as does filter out suggests that Peiping's whole economic development is threatened by inadequate farm production and crop failures.

In fairness, a few things must be pointed out in reference to the Soviet farm economy. The devastation and strains of World War II set agriculture development back to precollectivization levels. And Russian farmers are constantly and heavily troubled by the menace of drought.

War wiped out most of whatever mechanizing gains the Russians had managed and also slashed into vital fertilizer output and use.

In effect, the Communists had to begin all over again. But that is not the full story.

Specialists in the Soviet economy assert that Moscow's farm problem has not just been lack of machinery plus the accident of drought.

The Russians consistently misuse the machinery they have. Furthermore, their vast, collectivized "farm factories" have proved massively inefficient.

Their ambitious tree shelter belts designed to conserve moisture against the threat of drought are now judged a costly mistake. Many of their original irrigation programs were so badly conceived and managed they had to be scrapped. New ones, dependent on an intricate canal and ditch system, often conflict with the mechanized farmers' need for broad stretches of uninterrupted land surface.

Russia has learned painfully that machinery is not necessarily its own reward. Men must be properly trained in its organization and use.

And they must have incentive to work it.

Thus far neither Moscow nor Peiping have found these important keys. It would seem time that the emergent countries looked elsewhere for their "example."

Take It From Ann

LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Your cornball advice is making me sick to my stomach. When teenage girls write and ask how to be popular why don't you level with them instead of dishing out that goo about being loyal, friendly, interesting, and "fun to be with?"

Anybody whose skull is on straight knows that the way to be popular is to have a rich father so you can live in a beautiful home and buy the latest good platters for your stereo. It also helps if you have a new car.

If a girl doesn't have any of this she absolutely must have a beautiful face or at least knock-out measurements.

So muffle that 18th-century drawing-room rattle, Granny Landers and give the cats the hip scoop. —SAPHIRE NEEDLE

Dear Needle: I receive plenty of letters from girls who are sitting in their lovely homes—alone, with their beautiful faces and knock-out measurements, listening to the gone platters. The kids are gone, too. They left when they became bored. And it didn't take long. The way to have friends is to make people want to be around you. This takes warmth and sparkle. The expensive trappings may attract a few bees, but they slip the honey and then fly away.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter signed "Getting Tired" was the story of my life. My husband is wealthy. He owns eight apartment buildings. I used to clean the apartments when a tenant moved out, just as "Getting Tired" did. Finally I got tired, too, and quit. He had to hire two men to replace me.

My husband neglects his teeth and they are falling out of his mouth. He refuses to see a dentist because "they charge too much." His eyes are bad but he wears dime store glasses because eye doctors are "too expensive."

Our old car is falling apart. Our home is a disgrace to the neighborhood because it needs painting and repairing.

I make all our child's clothes because my husband won't give me money to buy anything. I haven't had a new dress in five years.

He claims he loves me, yet he says if I don't like the arrangement I can move out. I'm thinking of doing just that, but I must find a way to support myself and our daughter. Please help me. —GIVING UP

Dear Giving Up: Your husband sounds like a dingbat. Tell him to give you a decent allowance at once or you will leave and he'll have to pay for two homes—yours and his. The law says a husband must support his wife and family. Educate yourself with the help of a lawyer and then throw the book at him.

Confidential to S.O.S. 7-11: Your sister is trying to operate outside her orbit. These decisions should be yours, not hers. Tell her so promptly.

SCARED STIFF: You can't keep this kind of a "secret" much longer. Tell your parents immediately.

TORN BETWEEN TWO LOVES: If your wife is as wonderful as you say she'll urge you to go to your mother's bedside—alone. Leave the decision to her.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting—And How Far TO GO," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Peace Corps Tries Kennedy-Brand Touch Football

By WASHINGTON STAFF

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The Kennedy tribe's touch football pastime reportedly is on the verge of dying out. What with starwars burning the weekend candle behind huge mahogany desks or traveling halfway 'round the world on diplomatic missions, it's getting hard to scrape two teams together.

Recent recruits, drafted in desperation from office personnel and the press corps, have had their difficulties in keeping up with the rigorous demands of the Kennedy game. Says one:

"Those boys play touch football for keeps."

Touch football, however, is not dead yet. Peace Corps personnel are introducing their own brand of the Kennedy pastime with a weekly touch game on the Ellipse. "We're not in the big leagues yet," says one of the Peace Corps razzle-dazzlers, "but just give us a chance."

THERE IS SOME speculation in Washington to the effect that one of the few "good guys" in the 1958 novel, "The Ugly American," was patterned after Brig. Gen. Edward C. Lansdale, Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's ace Asian troubleshooter who accompanied Gen. Maxwell Taylor to Viet Nam.

The similarities are numerous. Colonel Hillandale, "The Ugly American" troubleshooter, was a mythical character who was instrumental in helping the late President Ramon Magsaysay stomp out communism in the Philippines. Strangely enough, that is the role attributed to Lansdale, who spent four years as Magsaysay's right-hand adviser.

Hillandale, like Lansdale, was an Air Force officer. Like Lansdale, Hillandale turned up on the southeast Asia mainland to fight the spread of communism following the Philippines adventure.

There also appears to be a slight similarity in names.

THE REAL REASON behind President John F. Kennedy's visit to the United States has caused much speculation in Washington. Diplomatic sources are prone to give the usual statements that Kennedy is the first president of Finland ever to visit the U. S., that he seeks to promote good will and that he is trying to develop closer relations between the U. S. and Finland.

One waggyish diplomat, however, confides carefully that he thinks Kennedy is really here to help get himself re-elected president of Finland — in January, 1962.

The diplomat points out that people of Finnish descent living in the U. S. are equal to 10 per cent of Finland's population. These people have a lot of relatives in Finland. He adds that it's going to be a close race in January, and that if Kennedy can pick up a few extra votes by handshaking amongst Finns here, he'll have the extra strength he needs to win.

There's been some talk in Finland that Kennedy, in his efforts to be neutral, has been too friendly to the Russians. His visit to the U. S. would help offset that feeling among Finnish voters.

A GROUP of conservative Washingtonians — congressmen, businessmen and editors — have been meeting. They call themselves the Stone Age Club.

One member cracked in jest: "Are we conservative? We're to the right of the John Birch Society." Another member explains the name thusly: "We knew that we'd soon be compared to the Neanderthal Man. We thought we'd just beat everybody to the punch."

The group meets irregularly. It has no officers, no duties, no membership lists and no organization. The members take on no causes. They have no plan of action. "We just talk and argue," says one member.

Since there are no members, it is proper to list any as such. But among those who reportedly have attended meetings of the Stone Age Club are Rep. John Rouselet, R-Calif.; Rep. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio; Rep. Bruce Alger, R-Tex.; Rep. Donald Bruce, R-Ind.; Rep. Edward Derwinski, R-Ill.; and Rep. Bryan Dorn, D-S.C.

The active "members" of the club are hoping their ideas will spread and become a national movement. "We mainly like to argue," says one. "Sometimes we argue so loud no one can hear the speaker."

FORMER President Eisenhower showed a flash of sharp irritation while campaigning in New Jersey for James P. Mitchell, his secretary of labor, who is running for governor.

His annoyance was stirred by comment from the Democratic nominee, Richard J. Hughes, who says Eisenhower Republicanism is a "diseased carcass." Ike insisted his brand of Republicanism is as vigorous and healthy as ever. With a smile, however, he conceded that age was making some inroads on his personality.

"My hair is getting pretty thin," he added. "In fact, there are so few hairs up there they are like lone soldiers on an abandoned battlefield."

NERVES AFFECT SCHOLARSHIP LONDON — Nervous children who bite their nails and suck their thumbs are poorer students than those without these habits.

That is the conclusion of a 15-year study of 5,000 children, published by Dr. James Douglas and Dr. David Mulligan in the October issue of the Royal Society of Medicine's proceedings.

The children have been carefully studied since birth by home visitors, parents, teachers and doctors, who kept records of nervous "symptoms."

The experts discovered that the more nervous children were more prone to be absent from school, had more trouble passing examinations, worked less and obeyed less.

Dear Arthur: When I was in my late teens and early 20s, I had such hopes of being a great person. I wanted to be a nurse who would be known and loved by everyone she served. That seems silly now, doesn't it?

Here I am, an old and wrinkled woman. I started a career in nursing, but had to quit to take care of my sick father. Years later I married, but never had any children. My husband died in 1952 and ever since I've been alone, and lonely, and so sorry that I never did become what I wanted to be. It's not only that, I feel useless. Nobody needs me and I am so self-sufficient that I don't need anybody else. I don't know what to do. I'm 57.

HELPLESS Dear Friend: You sound as if you were 157. If you were a child, I'd spank you. Not to punish you, but to startle you into your senses. Too old? You're too old to sit around feeling old, lonely, depressed, useless, and sorry for yourself.

It is just as necessary for you to make plans for your own happiness and social usefulness at 57 as it is at 20. As a matter of fact, the initiative to determine your own activities is more completely yours at these ages than

ARCHITECTURE INFLUENCES

HONOLULU — Architecture is playing a leading role in Japan's social passage "from feudalism to industrialization," an American architect believes. Antonin Raymond, who first went to Japan in 1919 to assist the late Frank Lloyd Wright in designing Tokyo's Imperial Hotel, told a conference of architects in Honolulu.

"Structures in Japan are huge today. The architects who design these buildings seem to be carried away by a vision of permanence, solidity, power and enormity of scale as an end in itself."

"They have opened the door for a number of social changes in Japan and have helped bring the country into the industrial age."

Raymond has designed a number of buildings in Tokyo, including the U. S. Embassy, St. Luke's Hospital, Women's Christian College, St. Anselm's Church and Gunman Music Hall.

FINDING THE WAY

'When I Grow Up, I'll . . .'

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"When I grow up, I'll . . ." Every little boy or girl has in that sentence, and every adult remembers the old, wistful hope. Growing up meant fulfillment of dreams, the arrival at some of the anticipated achievements. What were you going to do when you grew up?

Now the important question has a twist to it: "What are you going to BE when you grow up?"

This is the most difficult question in our highly complicated society. Look at the problems we confront from within our ranks: the high incidence of divorce, the increasing alcoholism, the lessening of moral restraints, the waste of time, talent and energy.

These and a thousand other symptoms indicate emotional instability just at a time in history when self-control and self-discipline need to be of the highest order.

Jesus told us to be childlike and we misunderstood and became childish.

The childlike forgive and renew their names.

The childlike remember their tering wounds, and slams that shame.

The childlike open their lives in humble reverence to the influence of good, for of such is the kingdom of God.

The childlike close all possibility of growth or of change, for of such is the kingdom of the Devil.

Except a man believe as a little child, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God, says Jesus. Except a man becomes childish and plays with armaments as a naive child holds matches over a can of gasoline, he cannot hold the world in horror says the Devil.

Something can always be done about growing up. It isn't just the addition of years or the automatic living out of life. It is the discipline of mind, the renewal of reverence, the understanding of a humility that trusts and the rebirth of a spirit of hopefulness (that helps a person to grow up).

"When I grow up, I'll . . ." answer each man writes in the commitment of that sentence could be the difference between heaven and hell where you live.

COUNTRY DOESN'T CARE

NEW YORK (AP) — Tax relief for the Broadway theater business can be obtained only through a "massive campaign" by show folk. Rep. John V. Lindsay (R-NY) told a drama gathering.

"The country as a whole, North and South, East and West couldn't care less about the theater's problems," the congressman said. "People assume the theater will go on forever. How wrong they are."

Lindsay, whose home district includes the White Way, said that besides repeal of the 10 per cent federal tax on tickets, the theater would benefit through reexamination of property taxes and extension of capital gains privileges to dramatists.

Frosted cranberries

Prepare 1 - 2 - 3 baked pie shell. Sprinkle gelatin over cranberry juice in a small saucepan. Let stand a few minutes to soften gelatin. Add sugar and stir over very low heat until gelatin and sugar are completely dissolved. Remove from heat. Stir in lemon peel. Chill to unbeaten egg white consistency.

CAUTION: If gelatin mixture becomes too stiff, texture of filling is less smooth and creamy. Add salt to egg whites and beat until stiff but not dry. Slowly add corn syrup, beating until smooth and glossy. Fold chilled gelatin mixture into beaten whites; chill until thick enough to pile up (about 4 hours).

Stir mixture occasionally while chilling for a very smooth filling. Fill lightly into baked 12-3 pie crust and chill until ready to serve. This pie keeps so well that it may be made a day ahead and refrigerated overnight. Decorate with frosted cranberries.

1-2-3. Pie Crust (One crust 8 or 9-inch)
1 cup plus 2 tablespoons unsifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cup corn oil
2 tablespoons cold water

Heat oven to 450 degrees F. (very hot.) To measure flour, dip dry nested measuring cup and measuring spoon into flour; level off with straight-edged spatula. Mix flour and salt in mixing bowl. Blend in corn oil thoroughly with fork. Sprinkle all of water over mixture; mix well with fork. Press dough firmly into ball with hands. If too dry, mix in 1 to 2 tablespoons more oil.

Flatten dough slightly; immediately roll into 12-inch circle between 2 pieces of waxed paper. Wipe table with damp cloth to keep paper from slipping. Peel off top paper; place pastry in pan. Paper side up. Peel off paper; fit pastry loosely into pan. Trim 1/4 inch beyond rim of pan. Fold under; flute. Prick thoroughly. Bake 12 to 15 minutes or until light golden brown.

Frosted Cranberries
1 cup fresh cranberries
1 egg white
1 cup sugar
Wash and dry cranberries thoroughly. Beat egg white until slightly foamy. Toss cranberries in beaten egg white. Place on cake rack until partially dry. Toss in sugar until coated. Allow to dry.

Kent Soybeans Make 47 Bushels Per Acre

The test plot of a new soybean variety, Kent, was combined Monday, Oct. 16, and yielded 47 bushels per acre. This was the best yield of any of the soybeans tested on the Chester A. Thompson farm this year, beating Clark, the next best variety, by 1.9 bushels. "Kent is truly a fine soybean, but it's not for us," says Farm Adviser George Trull. "It is too late in maturity. It worked alright for Morgan county this year, but in years with early frost Kent wouldn't yield anything."

The new variety was developed by USDA researchers working in conjunction with land grant colleges. It looks like a winner for the southern part of Illinois, and Mississippi and Arkansas. Both states are coming to the front in soybean production. Arkansas now ranks as the No. 4 soybean producer in the U.S., and many observers feel it will become much more important in the decade to come.

Feels Dairymen Apt To Turn Down Quotas

URBANA—Proposals to establish a milk marketing quota for each producer may not have the support of a majority of the milk producers themselves, a University of Illinois dairy marketing economist believes.

R. W. Bartlett cites the results of a recent survey among Michigan milk producers. This survey showed that 33 percent of the members opposed quotas and 71 percent opposed freezing of production bases. On another question, 50 percent opposed transferring or selling bases.

The most common reasons these milk producers gave for opposing a quota plan was that it would hurt small farmers and new farmers. Those who opposed quotas or freezing of bases believed that such moves would only help dairymen who were well established or who had money to invest.

The proposed quota system would attempt to raise prices by setting a quota for each dairy farm. Those who produced more than their quotas would receive a very low price for this milk. Bartlett believes that raising prices through a strict quota system would result in increased use of margarine in place of butter, increased use of margarine in place of ice cream, more use of chicken and other low-priced meats in place of beef, and substitution of lower cost fresh and sterile concentrated milk for fresh whole milk.

Such a plan might raise prices temporarily, but in the long run the result would be lower incomes for dairy farmers, Bartlett concludes.

The new process is based on a natural binding that exists between gold and porcelain when they are baked together.

Illinois Swine Men To Attend National Meet

Top authorities from all segments of the swine industry will gather in St. Louis Nov. 9-10 for the fourth national swine industry conference.

Producers, market representatives, processors and research workers will discuss some of the most pressing problems now facing the industry. Such topics as improving the demand for pork, producing to meet consumer preferences, artificial insemination, hog cholera eradication, trends in hog marketing, preventing swine diseases, new ideas in equipment and manure handling, and feeder pig production are scheduled for discussion during the two-day meeting.

University of Illinois livestock extension specialists H. G. Russell and G. R. Carlisle urge all Illinois hog producers to attend the conference. The conference presents more top swine authorities than will appear at any meeting in the state for several years to come.

Illinois participants on the program include A. H. Jensen, U. of I. animal scientist; Don Jeddle, U. of I. agricultural engineer; O. B. Ross, head of the U. of I. animal science department; Dr. J. D. Ray, White Hall; Alvin S. Lehmann, Pleasant Plains; W. D. Goeke, Hampshire; LaVerne Johnson, DeKalb; and Dr. Charles Greene, Whitehall and Clifford Cox, J. Russell Ives, Harvey Darrup, and Merle LeSage, Chicago.

PITTSFIELD — Gaye Hoskins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hoskins of New Canton, was judged top county winner in the Farm Bureau school poster contest. Her poster, "To Stay on Top of the World, Eat Good Food for Fitness," will be judged on a district basis to determine the six state poster winners.

Gaye was the winner in the 5-8 age group. Vicki Barriette, of Hull, was the winner in the 9-12 age group and Curtis Akin, Pittsfield, was winner in the 13-18 age group.

The top 21 posters are on display in the Farm Bureau office. More than 200 posters were made by students in the Pike County schools. The purpose of the contest was to create better eating habits among school children. Members of the Farm Bureau women's committee judged the posters.

ACROSS THE FIELDS AND FURROWS
Today as Mr. Pine's heirs, his widow, Mrs. Agnes Pine, Bluffs, a business woman of efficiency, who was at his side in helping amass his holdings, his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Dunham and his grandchildren, Sondra and Tom Pine of near Winchester, will carry on where he left off, although the cattle feeding is out. Harvest of corn crops, etc., are now underway. This family so close to kinship to the No. 1 farmer now deceased has ability too and he was proud of them.

QUITE A BITE!
Taxes now take a bigger share of your expenditures than food. In 1960, the nation's taxes totaled $112,000,000,000. The amount spent for food was $75,500,000,000. Back in 1939—remember pre-war—taxes took $12,400,000,000, and food cost $15,700,000,000.

POSITIVE THINKING
A father got home from work just in time to see his son out in their yard with a bat and ball. "Hey, Dad, watch!" was the boy's eager cry. He threw the ball into the air. There was a terrific whiff—and a miss. "Wait, Dad—watch this one," cried the boy, again throwing the ball up. For the second time he swung and he again scored a clean miss. "Here's the one, Dad," he called out. Again he threw the ball and missed. "Three strikes—and out," he shouted happily. "Gee Dad, ain't I a great pitcher?"

Outline Group Plan For Veterinarians

The group veterinary practice plan proposed at the recent University of Illinois Conference for Veterinarians could revolutionize the role of today's practicing veterinarian.

These changes would definitely benefit the livestock owner, according to Dr. J. F. Knappenberg, formerly a practicing veterinarian in Nebraska. Dr. Knappenberg is now president of Haverlockhart Laboratories in Kansas City, Mo.

Dr. Knappenberg's plan calls for each member of the group to specialize in one type of animal. The men would maintain their own mixed animal practices, but would be free to consult with the specialists.

"Specialization is absolutely necessary," Dr. Knappenberg explained, "because the field of veterinary medicine is so broad that no man can possibly know everything."

Each veterinarian would maintain his own office, but major work, such as surgery, would be performed at the central office and clinic. This office would be equipped with finer facilities than the individual veterinarian can afford, Dr. Knappenberg said, for the group would consolidate their capital.

The clinic or hospital would house a diagnostic laboratory, a pharmacy and a business office with technicians trained to do this work. This would free the veterinarian to improve his ability through constant study.

Advantages of specialization and better facilities should not cost the livestock owner "any more than he pays today." In fact, he might pay less, according to Dr. Knappenberg.

The group practice plan was introduced as a possible measure against some of the ills of veterinary medicine. Physical demands of a practice are too great, explained Dr. Knappenberg. "After ten years in the business, a veterinarian burns out—he can't take it any more."

Dr. Knappenberg believes the plan would also aid the profession in keeping up with integrated developments in agriculture.

The greatest problem would be the human element. The success of the plan would depend on the ability of individual veterinarians to work closely together, Dr. Knappenberg said.

John M. Pine Of Scott, A Farmer And A Trader

By MRS. E. J. KEARNEY

General Douglas MacArthur once said "Old soldiers never die, they just fade away." This phrase seems to hit the nail on the head insofar as the late John M. Pine, Bluffs, who for years also lived in Jacksonville and Winchester, is thought of and discussed by hundreds of people since his death on Oct. 12. He is just away, they feel.

Mr. Pine, 81, truly a landmark in a wide range of territory, not less than 100 square miles, traversed the countryside in his early days in horse drawn vehicles, but by automobile and truck. He was active and was here, there and everywhere in western Illinois, etc. Too much rest wasn't in his plan of life for he wanted to be up and doing. "If you have in mind to make money," he said "stay on the job and see it through." He did.

His way of life paid off well in friendship—also in dollars and cents for he was a wealthy land owner. His holdings were extensive but he remained common and well liked. He was a man who combined visiting, business and salesmanship and success with his and the story of his life will be retold over and over to a younger generation, particularly in Scott, Morgan and Pike counties where his acquaintance was large. It was in Missouri at Kansas City and St. Louis and also in the Chicago, Ill. stock yards that he and his employed farmers marketed thousands and thousands of cattle and hogs. They went to market by the train shipping methods in the early days; later by his fleet of trucks. The thousands of cattle that he bought on the plains of Texas, to feed were also brought into his shipping in point by rail and trucks.

Had Much Farm Land
Today as Mr. Pine's heirs, his widow, Mrs. Agnes Pine, Bluffs, a business woman of efficiency, who was at his side in helping amass his holdings, his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Dunham and his grandchildren, Sondra and Tom Pine of near Winchester, will carry on where he left off, although the cattle feeding is out. Harvest of corn crops, etc., are now underway. This family so close to kinship to the No. 1 farmer now deceased has ability too and he was proud of them.

But that isn't all about Mr. Pine the farmer and car dealer who had his own business which he sold out some years ago. He owned a building at Jacksonville and had the Ford agency there and at Winchester. He was a banner dealer for the auto industry and he thought he had not accomplished much if the volume of sales did not reach far more than a half million dollars annually. They always did. This meant the distribution of 1,000 cars and 1,500 trucks—some new and some not too new.

Writing in the March issue of National Business about that time Clyde W. Johnson described Mr. Pine's adventures as a modern counterpart of the well known "horse trader" of the old days because he accepted most anything the farmer wanted to sell on part payment on a Ford.

Tells Of Trading Ventures
In becoming a "trading fool" as competitors called him, Mr. Pine has only taken a page from history, writer Johnson said. Two centuries ago the French traded beads and gunpowder for the Indians' furs and skins in the prairie-land east of the Illinois river. Mr. Pine in the same territory in his hey day exchanged automobiles and trucks for corn and hogs.

Mr. Pine also followed up his newspaper advertising which told the farmers that the Pine Motor Company would also take livestock and farm produce on balances for cars and trucks. Thirty per cent of his business was transacted thus with Mr. Pine's men picking up their commodities in the corn field or barns.

A story that will continue to be told many times in the future as it has in the past is the Pine transaction that sets a record. De Silva, the "Hamburger King" of Jacksonville was opposite the Pine Motor Company and he offered 2,000 hamburger sandwiches as a down payment on a car. The deal was made and the Pine employees were given a bonus, as many hamburgers as they could eat. Customers were also invited to have a hamburger and in three months, that down payment was consumed. The hamburger deal reveals how deeply ingrained was Mr. Pine's love for trading. More than 20 men worked for Mr. Pine in the 100 square mile area and another 50 were on his farms. Mr. Pine the farmer-auto dealer, was proud of his rural patronage.

Mr. Pine often made trips to
St. Louis, to Detroit, Mich., Dallas, Texas, etc., to accept checks for being in the banner club of those in all the states that sold the greatest number of Fords and trucks in a given area. At Dallas he was one of 73 dealers who were in the "100" club. He sold 100 cars in two months.

Remained In Native Land
Much more could be written about Mr. Pine but brevity must follow and no one could tell all there is to tell. He was the son of a pioneer parents and his life has centered more or less around Bluffs, Winchester and Jacksonville areas. There were five sons in the senior Pine family—Harry, John M., Ross, Grant and William Bliss. The last named was in the United States senate from Oklahoma for three terms. The Pine brothers were all successful in their respective fields of endeavor. The only survivor of the five is Ross who lives in Okmulege, Okla., and who was not well enough to come to Bluffs for his brother's funeral.

Few men, if any, in the 100 square mile territory in which Mr. Pine operated can approach his knowledge of history in the making thereof. He was a member of the Republican party but he had many Democrats for friends. He lived more than ten years beyond the Biblical three score and ten years. From early manhood to his death he occupied a position of prominence and influence. He was a rare personality.

Visitors from many cities and states came to Bluffs to express sympathy to the family following Mr. Pine's demise. About 450 called at the Bates Funeral Home. All seats in the M. E. church, of which Mr. Pine was a trustee, were occupied. Rev. M. G. Goldsborough, pastor, paid a fitting tribute to the man who "faded away" Oct. 12. There were more than 100 floral offerings and the bereaved widow has received nearly 300 messages of condolence.

The body of Mr. Pine lies in terred in Diamond Grove cemetery, Jacksonville.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

SOYBEAN CROP WORTH $1.1 BILLION

The soybean harvest is almost completed in Illinois, but has been a little later than normal in most other states. Acre yields were disappointing in some spots of east-central Illinois and other areas where late summer drought was serious.

The official crop estimate was trimmed slightly on October 10. The crop total was listed at 710 million bushels or 1 percent less than the estimate made a month before. But the new figure is still big by any past standard. It is 27 percent more than last year and 22 percent more than the previous record crop harvested three years ago.

Compared with last year, the acreage being harvested this year is up 15 percent, and the per acre yield is up 7 percent. Those are national figures.

Illinois, with a yield of 29 bushels per acre, is in a four-way tie for top yield. Other states with 29-bushel averages are Iowa, Indiana and Texas.

Illinois farmers produced 160 million bushels of soybeans this year, or 22 percent of the nation's crop. With the price figured at $2.20 a bushel, the value of the Illinois crop is 350 million dollars.

New, Important
On the same basis the national crop is worth about 1,500 million dollars—or 13 billion. Just 30 years ago there was practically no soybean industry in the United States. The soybean is surely the most important new crop to be developed in the United States in many years.

In 1960 soybeans ranked an easy fifth among the nation's cash crops. Only wheat, cotton, corn and tobacco brought more money to farm communities. Now soybeans have moved into fourth place, ahead of tobacco, as a money crop. And this has come about with relatively little help from the government in the form of price support.

There was practically no carry-over of old soybeans, so the new crop is the total supply. It appears to be large enough to meet all needs for seed, crushing and exports—and still have at least 10 percent of the crop left over next fall.

The price support for last year's crop was $1.85 a bushel, but farmers sold their beans on the open market at 2 a. m. today.

USDA Sees No Way To Cut Expenditures

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farm officials said today it is not possible to make any sharp reductions in Agriculture Department expenditures this year despite a White House request that federal departments cut spending below appropriations.

The big bulk of the department's spending is under farm price support programs. They involve definite commitments to farmers. While there is legal authority to reduce present price support rates for most commodities, such action would be regarded, officials said, as a government renunciation of contracts with growers.

Some limited savings could be made in department spending on research, including construction of new facilities. Likewise, it would be possible to cut down a little on forestry service projects, such as building of roads and trails.

Also, some savings might be made in purchase of foods for distribution to needy families and the school lunch program. At the present time, the department is buying limited quantities of turkeys, chickens, and meats for these uses. But cutbacks here could have an unwelcome adverse effect on producer prices of these commodities, department officials says.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A buildup of cattle on feed for fattening continues unabated, an Agriculture Department livestock market report said Friday.

Supplies of feeder and stocker cattle moving to markets last week were the largest for the year. Yet they moved out, mostly to feeders, at steady to strong prices.

"Favorable weather conditions, abundant supplies of grain feeds and in many areas fairly good late pasture conditions all were factors tending to stimulate demand," the report said.

Prices of hogs, on the other hand, declined for the fourth consecutive week, reflecting a seasonal increase in slaughter supplies. The hog-corn price ratio at Chicago dipped from 16.3 to 15.1 to 1 last week. This means that week before last 100 pounds of live hog were equivalent in value to 16.3 bushels of corn. Last week it was equivalent to 15.1. The lower ratio the less the incentive to raise hogs.

Let's Go Birding—

Room For All

By Emma Mae Leonhard

It was the morning of October 7; the clear blue autumn sky hung high in the heavens and reflected in the calm lake below. Soon the blue was penetrated by a large black bird with a protruding neck that matched its tail in length.

Although this totally black bird was flying high, it was easily recognized by us as a Double-crested Cormorant, a visitant with us at this time of year.

Behind it were pursuing two small black specks. Our binoculars revealed them to be two Chimney Swifts, those small birds with cigar-like bodies and long, crescent-like wings, soon to make a dash for Brazil. They were outmaneuvering the cormorant and racing around their big companion, dodging and dashing in all directions.

Were they trying to hector this big black bird, six times as large as they were, or were they playing an innocent game of tag and just teasing? Were they driving it from their "banqueting place in the sky?"

Who knows? The cormorant itself just kept moving along, never veering to the right nor to the left.

Later we saw three Double-crested Cormorants rowing themselves steadily through the blue sky. Swirling and dashing and dodging around them were two Chimney Swifts which looked at most like dust particles in their relative size. Undaunted, they accompanied their three companions across the sky and then were lost behind tall trees.

Still later we saw three long, sooty black birds lying low in the water of the lake, their necks erect and snake-like and their bills pointed slightly upwards. These were the same three Double-crested Cormorants.

High in the sky above were capering two tiny cigar-like black birds, two Chimney Swifts. Who had won the battle if there had been one? Who had won the race, the big or the little ones? Perhaps neither party. The cormorants sat on the water, at peace with all below. The swifts, the only banqueters in the sky, hung high above them. And there was plenty of room for both the little and the big.

Rockets And Space—

They Fly The X-15

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

(UPI Telephoto)

In the picture above, Joseph A. Walker tells of piloting the X-15, March 30, 1961, when it zoomed 31 miles high and broke the altitude record. This record was broken on October 11, 1961, when Maj. White flew the X-15 to a height of 40 miles.

Joseph Walker is one of the three test pilots selected by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) to fly the X-15. The other NASA pilots who fly the X-15 are John B. McKay and Neil A. Armstrong.

Joseph A. Walker is one of NASA's most experienced test pilots. He has received the National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics Exceptional Service Medal.

The National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics (NACA) was the forerunner of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The NACA carried out experiments with improved types of planes, just as the NASA is doing with space ships. The scientists and engineers from the NACA now form the core of the NASA.

Joseph A. Walker was born in Washington, Pennsylvania, on February 20, 1921. In 1942 Walker graduated from Washington and Jefferson College with a degree in physics.

On August 4th of last year Walker topped the record speed for manned flight by going 2,150 miles per hour in the X-15.

When questioned by reporters after the historic flight Walker said, "There's not much difference between that speed and 1,000 miles an hour. . . . We'll be up to escape velocity, about 25,000 M.P.H. within my lifetime."

John B. McKay is a graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute with a degree in aeronautical engineering.

John B. McKay was born in Portsmouth, Va. During World War II McKay served as a fighter pilot in the Navy aboard a carrier in the Pacific Ocean.

After completing his military service, McKay joined the NACA as an aeronautical engineer. In 1951 he was assigned to that organization's High Speed Flight Station at Edwards Air Force Base, California. (This is the base at which the X-15 is being tested.) He has served as project pilot on the D-558 I, D-558 II, X-1B, X-15, F-102A, and F-107.

With his wife and six children McKay lives in Lancaster, California.

Neil A. Armstrong is the youngest pilot assigned to the X-15 program. He was born in Wapakoneta, Ohio, on August 5, 1929. During the Korean War he flew 68 combat missions in Navy jet fighters.

After the war Armstrong entered Purdue University where he earned his degree in aeronautical engineering. Upon graduation from Purdue he joined the NACA in July 1955 he was assigned to the High Speed Flight Station at Edwards AFB as a research engineer.

In this job he has been project pilot on the F-100A and C and the F-104. He has also flown the X-1B.

With his wife and son, Armstrong lives in Juniper Hills, California.

Though waves move across the surface of a lake or sea, the water itself merely rises and falls. A given volume of water sinks back into almost the same place.

Results We May Expect
No doubt we have things going on fine shape by this time. Remember, if you get stuck after much concentrated searching for a trouble, you may always ask some friendly radio amateur for assistance. Don't take him a messy assembly job and expect him to straighten it out for you; rather do a good assembly job the first time, look thoroughly yourself at first, then and only then ask for advice.

What may we expect from our own tuner results? How may we have a standard of comparison to judge our own by? Of course this must come from the plot or original unit itself, and its builder's experience with it.

Selectivity (ability to separate close together stations) was quite adequate in his west-central Illinois location. Sensitivity (ability to reach out for the distant weaker stations) was also quite good. Proof you want? Well, here's some results to date:

WLW, Cincinnati, Ohio; WMAQ, WLS, WBMM, all of Chicago, Ill.; KSD and KMOX, both of St. Louis, Mo.; WMAJ and WTAX, both from Springfield, Ill.; KOA, Denver, Colo.; WGY, Schenectady, N. Y.; plus other stations from Atlanta, Ga.; WSB, Nashville, Tenn.; WWL, New Orleans, La.; Columbia, Mo.; WMBD, Peoria, Ill.; and WTAD, Quincy, Ill., to name just a few. Cincinnati (WLW), WGY, Schenectady, and KOA Denver come into the author's location every night with good signal strength. Is that good enough? (Oh yes, we didn't mention the local station WLDS).

Correcting Troubles

Once we have located the defective stage (or stages) we tackle the one nearest to the output of our tuner first. If a careful check of wiring, parts, soldering, etc. fails to show up anything, then we must round up a voltmeter-milliammeter and check for plate B-plus voltage, make resistance checks of resistors in the defective circuit, continuity (ability of current to flow uninterrupted through a given circuit) via the aid of a V.O.M. in resistance position; checks of all circuits with voltages off!

It might even be necessary to check for current flow through the tube later (now with voltage on) by inserting our V.O.M. (in current-measuring position—in a scale setting that won't bang the meter pin over against the far scale pin H!) between the grounded end of the cathode biasing resistor and bus-bar. Obviously, our resistor's grounding end will have to be temporarily taken off of the bus wire in order to do this.

Open Wire?
If there is no plate voltage on a particular stage, check along the B-plus line to this tube's plate for an open wire or defective resistor. If there's no current flowing through the tube, check first cathode circuit and then the plate circuit and B-plus line back to power plug. Surely one of these checks should bring out your "bug!"

You say possibly that that impenetrable cascade R.F. amplifier is unstable and "taking off like a big bird" into oscillation? You need to experiment more possibly with vacuum tube neutralizing coil; try re-adjustment of wire turn spacing, atop the friendly old school house, wire (remove or add one turn; adding means winding a new coil on the resistor.)

A True Story—

School Bell Calls

By Mary Pence Claywell

To be sure . . . school opened in but every one got there . . . and on September in Hannibal's day, just, time at that.

as it does today, my children. The only difference was it always opened on the very first day . . . be it Monday, Wednesday, Friday . . . or any other week day.

There were no Labor Day celebrations, and no one expected another day's vacation . . . for after all, vacation had just ended as the sun lay smilingly on the hills.

You could hear it for more than a mile away, and as one country bell joined in after another until several would be ringing at the same time the whole countryside was filled with their musical notes . . . something like an orchestra with many instruments . . . for no two ever had the same tone or sounded alike.

Well Ringing An Art
Come to think of it, one had to know the art of ringing the old-time bells, and only practice could make one a success, and quite a lot of it. One had to be very careful to let the bell up and finish its instant of pause before the rope was pulled again, or the bell would turn over. And no amount of jerking righted it, until someone climbed up and turned it right side up again.

On the swing, after the first pull, the rope was allowed to go slack, so it could give the bell freedom of movement. It did indeed take skill. The first day of school was much the same in early years as it is now, except all the children walked then. Many walked a distance of two or three miles, unless . . . one was lucky enough to get to ride a horse. But that too, was uncommon for the horses were usually needed at home, and only the most lucky child, had a pony of his own;

As I See It
by E. W. BROWN

I guess it's no secret that most male entertainers past the draft age use a little coloring to keep their hair from showing their gray hairs. Still, gray hairs are only one indication of the march of time... as most of us realize after trying to run up a flight of stairs.

But now a couple of university biologists claim that soon you may be able to stay young even at 80. It has to do with the development of the pituitary, which controls growth and much other activity. The gland's about as big as a dime... but it can make you feel like a million bucks.

The professors have proved they can work wonders on rats whose age is equivalent to 80 human years, so they feel sure people can get the same results. That's encouraging... but not very complimentary.

The local philosopher who says every time he feels a little mean he remembers a sign he saw once—"Be kind to your friends. If it weren't for them you'd be a total stranger."

The Civil War --- 100 Years Ago

DEATH OF A HERO

A Dutchman Bayonets A Skunk

A hundred years ago the 14th Illinois Infantry, which was made up entirely of volunteers from this section of the state, was on the march in Missouri, moving generally to the southwest on the heels of Confederate sympathizers who were not exactly itching for a fight at the time. They had been promised support from Arkansas and were simply staying out of direct trouble with the Union forces until the Arkansas troops arrived.

For news about the regiment let us turn to the diary of William Camm, captain of Co. K, which was composed of Scott county boys.

"October 21st, marched at sunrise and are encamped for the night in the woods and grass near Versailles, in Morgan County. A green German from Company 'G' stationed near our tent bayoneted a skunk just before dark, and now my lieutenants, Case and Shibley are trying to neutralize the stench by making the air sulphurous with onions, and damping the Dutchman to the devil.

"October 22nd, made only 15 miles today. The land was rolling with loose stones. The fresh beef that should have been issued last evening did not materialize until after dark tonight. The men swore and grumbled, but half good-naturedly.

"They are not over the polecat episode of last night. There was a light air blowing up the creek and the swearing went to leeward as far as the laughing went to windward. When a German sergeant came to relieve the sentinel the fun began with 'Ack, mein Gott in Himmel,' and there was a sad confusion of the Dutch and English interrogatives and invectives. The men have reconsidered the vote to hang the 'Damn Dutch Fool.'

"Lying by the campfire I can hardly see to write. If half the rumors we get about the enemy prove true, a whole lot of us will never see our sweethearts again."

Co. C of the 14th Illinois was made up entirely of Germans, most of them from Springfield and a few from Jacksonville and Carlinville. They were "most proficient" in their drill, since they had been anathema to the Puritan section of Springfield for many years because they drilled on Sundays. On the same day the Germans held shooting matches, listened to band concerts, danced and drank lager beer—all to the consternation of their strait-laced neighbors.

But Co. G made a cracking good infantry outfit. Discipline was the rule with them, and when the sergeant told the private to let nothing get past him, he took the order literally. When the skunk came ambling along and wouldn't hunt and give the countersign, so what should be done? Bayonet him, of course! And right by the colonel's tent.

A Bunch of Singers
Co. G drilled by the bugle, or by commands in either German or English. They loved to sing good old lusty German songs and they helped keep up the morale of the entire regiment when it was marching here and yon.

The Dutchmen did something else that always amazed the rest of the regiment. As soon as they camped they put on the soup kettle. Everybody else had been brought up on hog and hominy and thought soup was for babies and sick people. The other companies gladly gave "the Dutch" their share of the dehydrated vegetables which came in a 12 pound package. When this package got wet it would swell up to about the size of a bale of hay. Co. G made soup out of the "damned dried-out rabbit food" and had the best health record of the regiment.

They also had the fewest desertions.

A Stable Outfit
But the most remarkable thing about the company was this: nobody ever wanted a promotion or asked for a transfer. Captain Louis Reiner was captain of the company when it trained at Camp Duncan and he was still captain on marching out day. There was no change in the lieutenants and husky, pol-bellied, jovial Charley Meyer of Jacksonville was first lieutenant from the first day to the last.

For contrast we might take the two lieutenants, Case and Shibley, mentioned by Camm. Henry Case was a lawyer in Winchester when he enlisted. He didn't see much chance of promotion in the 14th, so he got himself transferred to the 7th Illinois Cavalry, where he made major. In a couple of weeks he resigned and went home.

As the war went on he returned as lieutenant colonel of the 129th Illinois Infantry, and made colonel when Col. G. Price Smith resigned. A short time before the war closed he was breveted brigadier general; nobody at this date can figure out why.

But he enjoyed the title very much so long as he lived. He certainly didn't see as much of the war as Privates Bell, Reiser, Helmich, Apt, Heinemann, Bellinghausen, Fischer, Gutzman, Gottlob, Greiner, Ruckert, Klein, Kipp, Kraemer and their companions of Co. G, who went in privates and came out privates.

Like Case, Second Lieutenant William N. Shibley of Co. K also spent much time bucking for rank. But when he was appointed first lieutenant he seemed to have lost interest in the army, resigned and went home.

DEATH OF COL. E. D. BAKER.
The announcement of the death of Col. E. D. Baker, formerly of this State but lately of California, will cast a gloom everywhere. Especial sorrow will be felt here, where he was well known and greatly loved. In the death of Col. Baker the Union cause has lost a patriot and a great statesman. His loss will be severely felt on the Pacific, where he labored so faithfully in the cause of freedom.—Jacksonville Sentinel.

In the fall of 1827 a youth sat on a log alongside Otter Creek in Jersey county. He was 16 years old, of medium height, pleasant featured, with brown hair and blue eyes. He held a book and he was crying.

Edward Dickinson Baker had just learned that he could never be president of the United States, for his parents had come over from England when he was four years old. Although he had been an avid reader for years, this was the first time he had come across a book containing the Constitution of the United States of America.

EDWARD D. BAKER

But if he couldn't be president, he managed to do most everything else until he died in one of the silliest military maneuvers ever recorded.

And he did everything in a most interesting way.

His family first settled in Philadelphia, where young Edward went to school for a few terms before being apprenticed to a weaver. The father was struck by "Western Fever" in 1825 and migrated to Indiana for a year, then to Illinois, where he lived for short periods in Belleville, Jerseyville and Carrollton and other pioneer towns.

Young Baker found a real tutor in Moses Bledsoe, an educated Kentuckian who could do anything he wanted to do—but he never wanted to do anything. Moses was a natural, and wherever you found him you'd find young Baker. Folks around Carrollton called him "Bledsoe's shadow."

Amateur Preacher
Guided by his unpaid mentor, Baker was admitted to the bar when he was 19 years old. That same year he pulled one of the indicated what kind of timber he was made of.

The minister of the Baptist church in Carrollton decided to go back to Kentucky to see his ailing father, so he just shut up the church. Moses decided to try out his protégé in the preaching line so young Baker took the pulpit. When the regular preacher got back he was startled to see the church full, with crowds of people standing around the opened windows to hear the preaching. Young Baker, in four weeks, had converted the whole town. Even the Congregationalists were on hand to listen to his exhortations.

The regular preacher got back on his horse and Carrollton heard no more of him.

The next year, at age 20, Baker married a 37 year old widow, with two children, the flour mill, a block of commercial buildings, a half-dozen farms and most of the hard cash in the community. A volunteer in the Black Hawk war, he served as a private without distinction and never came across a hostile Indian. But he did meet many interesting folks, including Abraham Lincoln of Clary's Grove.

Defeats Lincoln
In 1835 Baker moved to Springfield and began practicing law and politics in earnest. He had been in Springfield less than six months when he was elected to the state legislature. After three terms he stood for Congressman and defeated Lincoln in the convention and then went on to win election, the only Whig Congressman in the state. Good old Democrats from Morgan and Greene helped put him over.

Then he enlisted in the Mexican War, raised the 4th Illinois regiment and was elected colonel. This regiment had a lot of fun traveling around, but met up with few hostile Mexicans. Upon discharge he glanced around and noticed that the Galena district was not only the wealthiest section of Illinois, but most the heavily Democratic, so Democratic that no Whig was insane enough to run for Congress.

This didn't phase Baker; he went up there, threw in his name, orated around and won the election although he had been a resident only 19 days.

After that hitch in Congress he took a contract to grade a section of the Isthmus of Panama railroad, got the fever, came back to Illinois to recover and then went to California, where he soon became known as the No. 1 orator and political fixer of the territory.

Wings in Oregon
After seeing to it that both U.S. senators were Republicans, he went up to Oregon in February, 1860, and was elected U.S. senator the following October.

His last visit to Jacksonville was on Dec. 26, 1860, while on his way to Washington.

Editor Bailey of the Jacksonville Sentinel wrote:

"COL. E. D. BAKER—This gentleman, formerly a resident of Springfield, and a distinguished lawyer and politician of this state, but recently elected by the state of Oregon as a senator of the United States, favored our city with a visit on Wednesday, while on his way to visit his aged mother, who resides near Winchester.

"The Senator received his friends at the Dunlap House, and being called out, delivered a short speech in reference to the exciting times upon which we have fallen. He deprecated disunion, and urged the justice which had been committed towards the South should be abated, the fugitive slave law should be enforced, &c., but that the men in the North who opposed the protection of slavery in the territories, would never submit to have slavery established as a rule, and free-

Conference With Abe
After he visited his mother Baker went over to Springfield for a visit with his friend, President-elect Abraham Lincoln, and a conference on the state of the nation. The two men were friends, no doubt about it, and perhaps Lincoln did name his second son Edward Baker Lincoln in his honor. And perhaps he didn't. A minority says the infant—who died when he was three years old—was named for Edward Baker, the peppery editor of the Illinois State Journal and Abe's favorite pool-playing and beer-drinking partner.

When the war broke out Lincoln promptly offered Baker a commission as general. Baker declined it, but took the colonelcy of "The California Regiment," which wasn't from California at all but was made up of $300 bounty men from Pennsylvania and New York.

There's been a million words written about the courageous action at Ball's Bluff the day Baker was killed. In short, here is what happened: Baker led his men in a frontal assault against an undetermined number of rebels who had infantry and artillery hidden on the wooded hillside; at the bottom of the bluff there was a shallow creek, and the bluff was of absolutely no military importance and could have been made untenable simply by walking around it.

Yes, Baker was a great orator and one of those citizen-commanders "unspooled by West Point," but who would want him for a military leader?

Moved By Progress
After a dozen funeral eulogies Baker was buried in the Presidio cemetery in San Francisco. But the grave was in the way of the approaches to the Golden Gate bridge and the casket was moved to another cemetery. A man at the bar the other night said progress has moved him again, this time to make way for a freeway.

That figures.

—Cecil Tendick.

DOMESTIC INTELLIGENCE

EXPECTED ATTACK AT JEFFERSON CITY—It is stated positively that Ben McCullough is marching on Jefferson City with ten thousand men, and warm work is anticipated. It is believed that the Union forces are well disposed to repel such an attack as this is reported. There are 12,000 of our forces at Cairo and Bird's Point, 4,000 at Cape Girardeau, 8,000 near Ironton; 5,000 at Sulphur Spring; 5,000 at Jefferson City, Lexington, and Kansas City; 7,000 at Rolla and 20,000 at St. Louis.

HOW HAVE THE MIGHTY FALLEN!—On the 25th ult. James B. Clay, a son of Henry Clay, was arrested with 16 of his men, while on his way to join the rebel General Zollicoffer, John C. Breckinridge, late Vice-President of the United States, was with the party, but succeeded in effecting his escape.

News, Views Century Ago

From the Jacksonville Journal:
BE POSTED—The new election law will be found on the fourth page. It will be seen that it imposes new duties on a certain part of our citizens. The liquor shops and saloons are to be kept shut during the election. Cheating, deceiving or false swearing will give a person a residence in the large stone mansion at Joliet. In fact, the law seems to be just what is wanted to prevent fraudulent voting.

From the Jacksonville Sentinel:
TRANSPORTATION TO CAIRO—The best plan is to leave Jacksonville on the 9:30 p.m. cars, arriving in Decatur at 1 a.m. Leave Decatur at 8 a.m. and arrive in Cairo at 12 midnight. Round trip ticket, $8. (ADV.)

LETTER FROM CAIRO—A letter from a friend in Cairo says he found Cairo very quiet and presenting a much more decent appearance than before he left. The drinking saloons have been closed, and orders of the strictest nature published, which are being carried out to the letter, make a big change. Fort Holt and Bird's Point are now strongly fortified and at the open end of Bird's Point there are a number of straw stacks, which will be ignited if the enemy makes an attack at night. Capt. Brown, from Winchester, is there with his company (Co. C, 28th Illinois Infantry) and the boys are looking fine. Capt. Brown is a splendid officer and bids fair to go still higher in rank, although he says he does not wish to leave the immediate control of his men.

THE RACES—We understand that the horse races to be held south of town on the last three days of October have not been gotten up for gambling purposes, but simply to encourage the breeding of fine thoroughbred horses in this country.

HUMORS of the day

REWARD FOR EARLY HOURS—We say to Young Ladies: "As you prize your beauty, as you value your future prospects, go to bed early. Look at Cinderella! When she went to a ball, she was bitten by her good godmother to leave off precisely at Twelve. And what was her reward? Why, she married a Prince!"

A doctor returned a coat to a tailor because it did not fit him well. The tailor, seeing the doctor at the funeral of one of his patients, said, "Ah, doctor, you are a happy man. You ne'r have any of your bad work returned on your hands."

"Matchless misery" has been defined to be having a cigar and nothing to light it with.

GET IT? When is a chicken's neck like a bell? When it is rung. In a back twisting a magistrate, who kept tavern, sold liquor to the patrons until they got drunk and fought in his house. He then issued a warrant, apprehended them, and tried them on the spot, and, beside fining them, made them treat each other to make up the quarrel.

—Harper's Weekly.

FOREIGN

SHELLY'S GRAVE—We hear from Rome that the tombs of Keats and Shelley are about to be restored. Mr. Severn, the newly appointed British Consul to that city, has resolved to give them his early attention. They have fallen into decay.

The rumor is received that the English Court has sought the hand of a continental princess for the Prince of Wales. The selected fair one is said to be Alexandra, the daughter of Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Glücksburg. The Princess was born in 1844. Her father is the declared heir to the Danish throne by the King under the treaty of 1853.

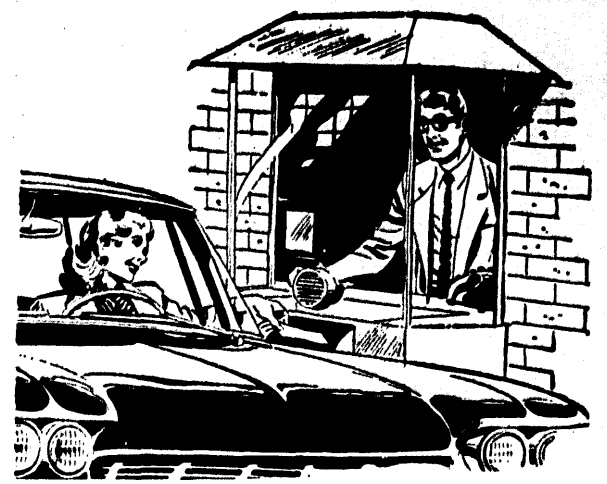

The vintage of France will this year be magnificent. It is now being carried on with great activity in the southern provinces and in Burgundy. Everywhere the grapes are fine. There seems, therefore, to be some truth in the supposition that come years are favorable to the cultivation of the grape.

DOMESTIC

WHAT WILL THE ARMY EAT—Taking the regulation ration as the basis of estimate, it has been computed that the army authorized by Congress—500,000 men—will require for one year's support in the way of provisions, 684,000 barrels of pork, 1,140,025 barrels of beef, 5,239,563 bushels of wheat, 456,250 bushels of beans. Supporting the army to employ but 75,000 horses, these would require 191,625 tons of hay and 10,265,225 bushels of oats, or their equivalent in corn or barley.

In the election just held, California has proved herself true to the Union. Leland Stanford, the Union candidate for Governor, is elected by 2,000 plurality. Both Houses of the Legislature are overwhelmingly Union.

THE PACIFIC TELEGRAPH—The telegraphic line to the Pacific is being carried rapidly westward. It already reaches to the city of the Mormons in the Great Salt Lake valley.

PUBLIC RECITAL AT MacMURRAY

Two members of the MacMurray College music department will present a recital open to the public Sunday at 4 p.m. in Annie Meiner Chapel at MacMurray.

William R. Hilbink, violinist, will play sonatas by Antonio Vivaldi and C. Saint-Saens, and "Concerto No. 4 in D Major" by Mozart. Hugh Beggs, now in his 20th year as professor of music at MacMurray, will assist at piano.

Hilbink has instructed violin and theory in the MacMurray music department since 1958. He previously taught music in the public schools of Cleveland, Ohio. He holds a bachelor's degree in music from Baldwin-Wallace Institute and a master's from Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N.Y.

Professor Beggs belongs to the College Music Society, National Association of Music Teachers, and the Illinois State Music Teachers Association. He received his bachelor's degree in music from Drake University and his master's from the Eastman School of Music.

Professor Beggs has also studied music abroad at the Ecole Normale de Musique in Paris, the Matlay Piano School in London, and the Music School for Foreign Students in Potsdam.

In 1772 French chemist Antoine Lavoisier and his colleagues pooled their funds to buy a diamond and proceeded to burn it up, proving that a diamond is nothing but crystallized carbon. The gas that resulted from the burning was carbon dioxide. In 1799, another Frenchman, Guyton de Morveau, furthered the research by converting a diamond into graphite, the form of carbon used in lead pencils.

Japanese Girl Of Postwar Generation Finds Emancipation Far From Reality

EDITORS' NOTE — A decade she believes is at the root of the changes are still under way.

TOKYO (AP)—Akiko Yamamoto is 24, an attractive, good-humored product of Japan's postwar democracy. She is a college graduate, and she has a job. That makes her a "B.G."

By KENNETH ISHII
Until a generation ago, a girl like Akiko would have been married and probably a mother by now. In those days nice girls didn't work.

But today there are almost two million of Akiko's kind in Japan, and the Japanese have coined the special term for them—"B.G."—an abbreviation of business girl.

Clerks, typists, receptionists, sales girls and others in white collar occupations, they are the first generation to reach adulthood under democracy, the first to break free from the bonds of subservience and inferiority that for centuries denied them all rights and shackled them to lives of drudgery.

But emancipation has brought problems of its own. For unlike the gradual social evolution through which women achieved equality in the West, Japan's took place overnight, by occupation decree, and tradition often has been reluctant to give way to the sudden onslaught.

The postwar constitution guarantees women equality politically, economically and socially. Divorce and property laws have been rewritten to safeguard their rights. Marriage, says the law, shall be by mutual consent. Yet in everyday life barriers of discrimination remain.

Akiko put her finger on what she believes is at the root of the changes are still under way.

By KENNETH ISHII
TOKYO (AP)—Akiko Yamamoto is 24, an attractive, good-humored product of Japan's postwar democracy. She is a college graduate, and she has a job. That makes her a "B.G."

"It's the men themselves," she said. "They've enjoyed being superior to women for so long that they don't want to give it up."

Other B.G.s at the Toyo Ryon Co.'s office in downtown Tokyo, where Akiko works, agree.

"In school," Akiko said, "we learn about democracy and equality, but once we go out into the business world, we soon find out how feudalistic things still are."

Akiko is a documentation clerk in Toyo's development department. She has been with the company since her graduation 18 months ago from Tokyo Women's College, where she majored in English literature.

"We are not treated as equals in the office," she said. "We are always relegated to assistant duties. We are never given responsibility."

The still widely practiced custom requiring women employees to serve tea to the office staff in the mornings and afternoons rankles many B.G.s. Some of the larger companies have recently adopted a serve-yourself system.

But despite the male attitude, Akiko says she enjoys her life. She realizes she has been thrown into an experience that girls of previous generations were never permitted to know. And if tradition remains strong in the business world, democracy, it seems, has penetrated more quickly in personal and family relationships.

When does she plan to marry? "When the right man comes along," Akiko said.

ANGUISH OVER ALBANIA—Small, mountainous, 10,000-square-mile Albania (slightly larger than Maryland) is the target of renewed verbal attacks by its onetime Communist big brother, Russia. Albanian leaders, headed by strongman Enver Hoxha, have been accused of clinging to Stalinist philosophies, which went out of style when Khrushchev took over the U.S.S.R. But Albania has a strong friend in Red China, which also disputes Khrushchev's policy of peaceful coexistence with the West. Newspaper traces main events in Albania's history. The country lies between independently Communist Yugoslavia and democratic Greece. Two-thirds of its 1.6 million people are Moslems.

Watch The 'Gobble-Uns' Please

The Halloween "Gobble-Uns" will be on the dark streets of our city Tuesday evening. Both the Police Department and all concerned would like to warn motorists to be on the lookout for children on their trick or treat prowls.

It would be well to drive 5 to 10 miles an hour slower than usual on residential streets where there are parked cars. Children shouldn't be playing between parked cars nor should they be running across the street, especially in the middle of a block.

But kids are kids, and no matter how much they are lectured by parents and school teachers, some of the youngsters will be running into the streets in the dark during the Halloween season. No motorist wants to hurt a child for making this mistake.

Parents CAN reduce this annual hazard by supervising the Halloween festivities. They can also help by inspecting the costumes for avoidable risks.

Children playing out of doors should not wear masks that interfere with their range of vision as so many ill-fitting masks do. For them to be wearing these blinders is too much of a handicap to their safety in crossing the street even in daylight.

After nightfall, the all-black ghost costume and blackened face can be responsible for a child's death. In this attire, a child is difficult for a careful motorist to see until it is too late for him to stop even at a moderate speed.

The visibility of the child can be increased by wearing reflective tape on the wrists and ankles of the Halloween costume. The tape is rather inexpensive but if you have none, a white handkerchief tied on the lower legs are a big help. Headlight beams reach the feet before they reach other parts of a pedestrian's body.

Let's all help motorists and parents alike in seeing on Wednesday morning that all our children are still with us.

World War II Wrote First Chapter in the Rocket Plane Story

Nazi's stubby Messerschmitt 163B rocket plane could briefly attain speeds over 600 m.p.h.

America's manned missile, the X-15, designed to hit over 4,000 m.p.h. and climb into near-space, is a far cry from any airplane ever flown — except one, Germany's Messerschmitt 163B. Smaller and slower than the X-15, the Me-163B was similar in many ways. It too was powered by liquid fuel; its flights lasted only a few minutes; it glided to a landing on a skid. Unlike the X-15, it took off by its own power on an undercarriage that was then dropped. Its operating altitude was only about 30,000 feet, below that from which the X-15 is released by its mother ship. First flown in late 1942, the Me-163B was intended as an interceptor to break up bomber formations, but it was never put into mass production. One of its first test pilots was the famed aviatrix Hanna Reitsch.

Larger, more powerful X-15 research ship operates at 4,000 m.p.h. on the fringe of space.

You'll Be Surprised At How Much You Own

By Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Even a young family which is having its possessions appraised by a mover for insurance purposes can be amazed by the total value of furniture, clothes and knick-knacks.

Replacement costs for your household and personal effects could easily run three or four times what you would imagine. It makes good sense, then, to take pencil in hand and set about estimating the worth of the family belongings.

The advantages of such a list could be many. When moving to another house or apartment, for instance, any lost goods can be readily checked for insurance action. Even if no move is contemplated, a list can be invaluable should a fire or theft ever take place.

How to make an inventory? From the experience of Jean Kinhead, women's consultant for Travelers Insurance, comes this advice:

Write on separate pages of a large pad of paper the names of the various rooms in the home, as well as cellar, attic and garage if they apply. On a page entitled "miscellaneous" will be listed sports and hobby equipment, jewelry, furs and luggage.

On the right-hand side of each page make heading for "when purchased" and "original cost."

Pad and pencil in hand, enter the first room, noting down the rug and other floor coverings. Then walk around it, listing on the first trip furniture, lamps and books. Then, around again for bric-a-brac. Then list items in the closet, then go to the next room. If you can't remember what you paid for certain things—say, if they were gifts or antiques—do not enter the price. Complete the list. Then estimate the cost of those items you had trouble with.

If necessary, call in help, such as a friend who knows antiques. Your canceled checks or filed receipts should help in most cases. Also, a handy aid in your estimating job will be a mail order catalogue. You often can find a comparable article there.

When your list is finished, keep it handy if you move. As you unpack, check off the various articles.

You should review and revise your inventory list from time to time—especially if you redecorate the home or make a number of substantial purchases.

PRINCE CALLS CINDERELLA

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cinderella fable still comes true on Broadway. At least for Elizabeth Ashley.

Miss Ashley auditioned for a lead role in "Take Her, She's Mine" for director George Abbott and producer Hal Prince. As she walked toward the elevator, Prince called after her: "Miss Ashley, I know this is unheard of, but the part is yours."

The 21-year-old actress previously had been understudy to Barbara Bel Geddes in "Mary, Mary." She arrived in New York from her native Baton Rouge, La., three years ago.

TIGER TOUCHDOWN TWINS

The two senior halfbacks for ISD's Tigers, Jim Marquis, left, and Bob Poncar, are the two reasons Coach Jim Bonds' squad is ahead of their 1960 season in the win column.

Between the two touchdown twins, they have contributed 22 touchdowns and rolled up 1424 yards for ISD's Tigers who presently stand 5-1 for the season, thus bettering their 1960 season of only three wins.

Poncar, a 5-11, 195-pounder from Chicago, operates from the left half post, and has only averaged 16 minutes on offense for the Tigers—but, the steamroller has amassed 978 yards rushing in 38 carries for a 16.8 yards per carry, scoring 14 touchdowns and 12 extra points.

On punt returns the burly half has carried 11 times for 305 yards, and a 27.7 average, and when he punts they travel for a 30-yard average.

Running mate Marquis, a 5-10, 156-pounder has a creditable 446 yards rushing in his column on 35 carries for the 12.5 average, scoring eight touchdowns in the Petersburg, Bluffs, Routt, and Winchester contests.

On the second play of the third quarter, halfback Loyd ran 68 yards for a touchdown, Vaughn again kicked the PAT.

With three and a half minutes left in the game, Moss ran 11 yards for the final score of the night. The PAT failed.

Moss and Loyd carried the offensive load for Beardstown while a Pittsfield bright spot was the defensive play of Curt Fudge.

By virtue of this victory, Beardstown takes over first place in the Midwest Conference with a 2-0 mark, while Pittsfield is 0-2 in conference action.

Don Bell scored Virginia's last touchdown in the fourth quarter on a two yard plunge. The try after failed. Bluejay James Babington scored Petersburg's only TD on a 60 yard gallop with one minute remaining in the game.

Will Norris blocked three Bluejay punts and was outstanding on defense.

Virginia now has a 3-3-1 record and Petersburg is 2-6.

Bellamy Scores 35 In Packer Win, 117-106

CHICAGO (AP)—Walt Bellamy jammed in 35 points in leading the Chicago Packers to a 117-106 victory over the St. Louis Hawks in the return of professional basketball to Chicago after an 11-year lapse.

The Packers scored their first National Basketball Association victory after two losses and led the Hawks all the way.

The Packers, with Bellamy and Barney Card scoring and controlling the backboards, pushed off to a 32-27 first quarter lead. They expanded it to 56-49 at halftime before a crowd of 6,381.

He shot a 4-over-par 76 for a two-round total of 156—his worst tournament in years. Palmer is tied for 18th in a field of 36.

In the lead is 47-year-old Eric Cremin of Sydney with 72-71-143. Two strokes behind on 145 is the best known Australian, Peter Thomson, 74-71, and one stroke behind him is South African Gary Player at 146.

John R. Chuckran, former Penn State athlete, is football coach at Allegheny College.

Ayres Tallies Four To Dump Calhoun 27-8

HARDIN — Southwestern's full-back Ayres racked up all of his squad's tallies with runs of 10, 2, 2, and 40 yards as Southwestern rolled over Calhoun's Warriors 27-8 in an IVC tilt at Hardin.

Ayres scored on the opening kick-off series of downs going over from the 10. In the third period, the fullback went in from the two capitalizing on a Calhoun fumble on their own 30. Again Southwestern grabbed the advantage of a Calhoun loose ball on the 40 and Ayres dove over from the two.

Calhoun's Chuck Holloway went 40 yards for the Warriors' only score in the third stanza.

In the final frame it was Ayres annexing a 40 yarder as the PAT failed. The two-point safety was added when Holloway was trapped in the end zone looking for a Warrior receiver.

Chapter XXIV

"Please listen to me," Beecher said quietly. They stood ten yards apart, and the rocky ground between them glowed with soft light. "You won't see Goulamine until they've got full value from you. And that might take the rest of your life."

"You've been reading the Arabian Nights," she said, with a hard smile. "This is the twentieth century, or haven't you heard?"

"Come back to the plane," he said.

"I can take care of myself," she wheeled and ran into the silver wastes of desert, her boots slipping and twisting on the deceptively gilded rocks. Suddenly two grotesque silhouettes rose against the horizon: an instant before the desert had been serenely still and silent, but then, lurching upward with fantastic deliberation, camels and riders emerged from the sand, stood black and heavy in the silver moonlight.

He saw Laura's bright head one last time; it glimmered in a pale swift arc as a rider stooped and swung her up into the air.

It seemed to Beecher that Lynch had willed himself to die; with Laura gone he had given up the struggle to live. "Try hard to understand me," Beecher said. "If we get out of this, Ise and I will be in trouble. There's nothing to prove we weren't involved in Don Willie's plans."

Lynch nodded weakly. "No good saying you had a gun against your head, unless you can prove it."

"And it's only Ise's word that she wasn't involved," Beecher said. "I'm going to write a statement explaining how we got into it. Will you sign it?"

Lynch's eyelids fluttered. He moved his head slowly from side to side. "Wish you hadn't asked that. I can't do it, you know."

"Why not?"

"She's still got a chance. Laura. She took all your money. I may as well tell you."

Lynch drew a slow, cautious breath, and his eyes fixed themselves on Beecher's with a pathetic intensity. "Very hard to go out like that. I can promise you," he said faintly. "Lis. Lis. Laura's a peculiar girl. She's a liar. Not only when it's necessary, it's some need. He drew another tentative breath, like a man tapping the last few shillings from his bank account. "She'd go to tea with friends, lie about it. Say she'd been shopping. Go shopping, tell me something else. No sense to it. But she knew the truth. I didn't. Gave her an advantage. Couldn't really help it. The landrover is—"

"The landrover? What about it?"

"It's a half mile from here. Due south. The axle isn't broken. Feed line's clogged. Laura insisted we lie about it. Gave her advantage."

A few seconds later Lynch's hand moved and touched Beecher's arm. He opened his eyes with an obvious effort. "Shouldn't have cheated you out of that match," he whispered. "No need to. Could have won, anyway."

Ten minutes later Lynch died.

At first light Beecher set out to find the landrover; and it was as Lynch had said, a half-mile south of them, parked behind a sloping ridge of black shale and half buried under sand swept against it during the storm. He blew out the gas lines, cleaned the pump and carburetor, and got the motor running.

In a stout aluminium locker he found a supply of tinned foods and biscuits, and several bottles of gin and whisky.

Ise was waiting for him in the mouth of the clearing. She had found her purse, empty of both dollars and pesetas. It was deep in the trees that circled the pond; it had obviously been thrown there.

"We've got a good chance to get to Goulamine," he said. "Then the fun starts."

"What fun?"

"I mean trouble," Beecher took out his wallet and counted his money. Six hundred and fifty pesetas, a bit more than ten dollars.

"What does the money matter for?" Ise asked him.

Beecher twisted around to face her. "Look. I took a job with Don Willie. That's a known fact. I had a row with a Frenchman who ended up murdered on my doorstep. Another known fact. I flew the plane down here."

Beecher sighed wearily. "You knew what was planned, but didn't go to the police. How do you imagine our stories will sound? We'll look like a pair of liars trying to pin the blame on dead men. Candles are burning now for those murdered pilots. Their wives have put on black for life. Somebody's going to pay for it. Can you think of better prospects than you and me?"

"Why not stay here and die?"

Trickery In Treats Halloween Vandalism Replaced By Adult-Sponsored Activities

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Staff Writer

The superstitious folk of old had a way of handling the serious problem of witches and demons who played tricks on them at Halloween. They disguised themselves as imps and joined them. Their descendants are adapting the old methods to the less spooky but no less serious Halloween problem of handling their prankster offspring. They're doing it with some success, too.

The kids are still soaping windows. But in Hastings on Hudson, N. Y., they do it with water soluble paint and the best designs win cash prizes from the local Lions Club.

They still dress as ghosts and witches. But in Atlanta they display their disguises publicly in a mammoth Mardi Gras-style parade, with awards going to the most ingenious costumes.

And they still play "trick or treat." Only in Seattle the funds collected by such juvenile extortion may go to a worthy cause like the United Nations Children's Emergency Fund.

Some communities have been engaged in turning youth's seasonal exuberance into constructive channels for several decades. It's called "Treating the Tricksters"—and everyone wins.

With many, it was a matter of self-defense. Arkansas City, Kan., for example, had a serious Halloween vandalism problem until "Arkalah" came along in 1928.

Arkalah is a combination of "Ark," the city's abbreviation, and "Alallah," and Indian word meaning a good time. The kids of Arkansas City really have a good time during Arkalah.

It has grown into a three-day pre-Halloween affair now with dances and parties on Thursday; the coronation of Queen Alalah on Friday; street stunts and a five-mile-long parade through the roped-off downtown business district on Saturday.

Groups enjoy Arkalah, too—but for a different reason.

"This celebration has put a complete lid on any damage or vandalism here during Halloween," says Arkansas City Police Chief Frank Robertson. "The kids are busy all the time."

The contrast between the old and the new in Halloween is nowhere stronger than in Nevada, Mo.

The little city of 10,000 in western Missouri recalls the dismal holiday season of 1946 when 100 extra men had to be added to the police force and some residents sat up with guns to protect their property.

Then the Nevada High School Student Council hit upon "Anti-Van."

Anti-Van has turned Halloween into the biggest social event of the year for junior and senior high school students, with parties, dances and home talent shows.

Admission to the social activities is simply a signed pledge to renounce vandalism during the holiday. As a result there has not been an act of Halloween vandalism reported in Nevada since 1947.

"We anticipate a quiet, routine Halloween season," says Police Chief Preston Dixon.

At least two cities have devised methods of making sure that the kids go straight home when the organized festivities are over.

In Torrington, Conn., when the last big outdoor party is ended at Pussenich Park and the band has played "Good Night, Ladies!" at the dance in Torrington Armory, the kids hustle home to tune in radio station WTOR.

If they miss its "Hobgoblin Radio-Telephone Party" they also might miss the special award and a chance to answer a jackpot prize question offered to those youngsters who are home when the phone rings.

Two years ago, Pittsburg, Kan., initiated a similar incentive.

As youngsters left a party at the city auditorium, they wrote their names and phone numbers on slips of paper. Half an hour later, party sponsors called them. The first five found at home received two silver dollars each.

In Fort Wayne, Ind., the Park Board and the Parent-Teachers Association sponsor 17 costume parties for grade school pupils, four for junior high students and a dance for high schoolers. All free.

Merchants in suburban Dallas sponsor contests for the best soap designs on their plate glass windows—and some young artists have even stayed up late to guard their works of art.

For the past 35 years, Los An-

Soviet Will Set Off 50-Megaton Bomb Blast

U.S. Sends Plane Circling Over Berlin

Both Sides Withdraw Their Tanks

BERLIN (AP) — The U. S. Air Force sent a plane circling over Berlin at low level Saturday, reasserting American rights to fly there despite a Soviet protest.

The two big powers had ended a 16-hour warlike face-down only a short time before by withdrawing tanks from Berlin's perilous border front.

Through the night the tanks guns had pointed at one another at pointblank range of 200 yards.

The 10 big Soviet tanks were the first to withdraw from the Friedrichstrasse checkpoint.

About 75 minutes after the Soviet behemoths withdrew to a point 1,200 yards away and out of sight, the four U. S. Patton tanks that had been facing them pulled back to a point 800 yards from the frontier, and the atmosphere at the checkpoint suddenly became relaxed.

Less than an hour and a half after Berliners drew a long sigh of relief, a U. S. C-47 transport plane circled repeatedly at 600 feet.

President Calls For Observance Of Thanksgiving

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy called upon all citizens Saturday to observe Thanksgiving Day Nov. 23 in a manner "that only preserves the blessings, but also to extend them to the four corners of the earth."

"Let us by our example, as well as by our material aid, assist all peoples of all nations who are striving to achieve a better life in freedom," Kennedy said in his formal proclamation.

He urged all citizens to make this Thanksgiving not merely a holiday from their labors, but rather a day of contemplation, to be observed "with reverence and with prayer."

Just as the country's early pioneers faced perils, Kennedy said, awesome perils again remain to be faced, but he added:

"Yet we have, as in the past, ample reason to be thankful for the abundance of our blessings. We are grateful for the blessings of faith and health and strength and for the imperishable spiritual gifts of love and hope. We give thanks, too, for our freedom as a nation; for the strength of our arms and the faith of our friends; for the beliefs and confidence we share; for our determination to stand firmly for what we believe to be right, and to resist mightily what we believe to be base; and for the heritage of liberty bequeathed by our ancestors which we are privileged to preserve for our children and our children's children."

Rule Out Surrender In Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk Saturday ruled out "any surrender of the vital interests" of the Western powers or the West Berliners in an effort to come to terms with the Soviet Union on a peaceful Berlin settlement.

Rusk also rebuffed suggestions for creation of a buffer zone in central Europe, including Germany. He said the Communist bloc would seek to use any such neutralized area for its own "exploitation, exploration, penetration."

Rusk spoke in an interview recorded Tuesday by the Voice of America for broadcast Sunday and made public Saturday night by the State Department. Rusk made no mention of the current U.S.-Soviet dispute over the 100-a-plate event in Chicago Nov. 2, said:

"As the Republican party prepares for the crucial election of 1962, it is heartening to witness the overgrowing vigor and enthusiasm that is being demonstrated on behalf of our national and local objectives."

"Needless to say, Illinois has a key role in the major task the party faces. I am referring, of course, to the urgency of returning control of the House of Representatives to the Republican Party."

"This, I am sure everyone, at all party levels, recognizes must be done if the Republican Party is to exert a meaningful influence on the destiny of the nation in the years ahead."

"The party must in addition strive to gain as many Senate seats as possible."

"I am confident that Republicans in Illinois will respond so effectively in every precinct, county and district with heart, energy and resources that this state will lead the way toward the victory we so earnestly desire and the fulfillment of the nation's needs."

Confident GOP Will Gain House Control, Ike Says

CHICAGO (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower told Illinois Republican leaders Saturday he is confident Illinois will lead the way toward returning control of the House of Representatives to the GOP party.

He made the statement in a communication to William Harrison Forde, general chairman of the "Win in '62" Dinner of the United Republican Fund.

His statement, which will appear in the printed program of the 100-a-plate event in Chicago Nov. 2, said:

"As the Republican party prepares for the crucial election of 1962, it is heartening to witness the overgrowing vigor and enthusiasm that is being demonstrated on behalf of our national and local objectives."

Hurricane Hattie Goes North, Cuba Lies In Its Path

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Hattie, lashing the western Caribbean with winds up to 125 miles per hour, headed northward Saturday in the direction of Cuba.

The season's eighth tropical storm was termed "a dangerous hurricane" by the Miami U.S. Weather Bureau, which said in its latest advisory that Hattie was centered near latitude 14.8 north, longitude 81.5 west or 385 miles southwest of Kingston, Jamaica. That is about 800 miles south of Miami.

Why Did Soviets Pull Tanks Out?

By WILLIAM L. RYAN Associated Press News Analyst

BERLIN (AP) — Withdrawal by the Russians of their tanks from Berlin's explosive sector border ended a situation that hourly was becoming more ugly. The Russians gave the impression of giving in, of backing away first from the confrontation of U.S. and Soviet armor.

The big question is: Why? One answer could be that the Russians have too many problems in their own Communist orbit to permit the confrontation to go on any longer.

The guns of 10 Russian tanks pointed for 16 long, tension-packed hours at the guns of 4 U.S. Patton tanks before the Russians withdrew.

The episode could not have been to Moscow's liking in advance of prospective talks on Berlin. For one thing, it tacitly admitted Soviet domination of East Berlin as a Communist capital.

In the second place, backing away gave the world the idea that the Americans had stared down the Russians in a test of nerves. But figuratively, perhaps, the Soviet tank guns were pointed in the other direction, at the East Berliners themselves. The whole episode could have tended to create a sense of uneasiness.

Believe Kennedy Disenchanted With Administration Ag Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy shows signs of becoming disenchanted with his administration's farm policies, sources close to the White House said Saturday.

This feeling is ascribed to two factors: Disappointment that the policies have not brought a speedy reduction in troublesome farm surpluses, and the knowledge that continuing heavy subsidy costs jeopardize the drive to balance the budget.

Various sources familiar with the President's views on the matter emphasize, however, that there are no indications Kennedy is thinking of retreating from present policies—at least not in the foreseeable future.

His administration seeks to strengthen the role of the government in agriculture—a direct break with efforts of the Eisenhower administration to get government out of farming. Present policies envision management of supplies of farm commodities with the goal of stabilizing prices at levels deemed to be fair to producers and at the same time eliminating surpluses which are costly to the government.

The administration placed great store in a new feed grain program under which farmers are being paid an estimated $780 million to reduce plantings of corn and sorghum grain. The purpose was to reduce surpluses of these grains. But results are falling short of expectations.

Nuclear Blast Fallout Poses Dairy Price Props Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet nuclear explosions raised potentially serious dairy price support problems for federal farm officials.

Should Russia fire off a 50-megaton bomb, those problems possibly would reach emergency proportions next spring. That is when the heaviest fallout of radioactive material from the blast is expected to descend over the United States.

Milk production is heaviest in the spring, and milk is one of the foods that quickly and readily absorb radioactive material. That's because cows obtain the bulk of their feed from grazing.

The government has reported that Russian nuclear tests already have resulted in high levels of radioactive iodine in milk tested in the southeastern part of the country. Officials said this has created considerable anxiety among consumers.

The American Dairy Association has taken cognizance of the problem. It has this to say in its latest news letter:

"If the Russians proceed to test their 50 megaton bomb, as (Soviet Premier) Khrushchev promised (Continued On Page Seven)

Adolph Spreckels, Sugar Heir, Dies Following Fall

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Adolph Bernard Spreckels II, an heir to a multimillion-dollar sugar fortune, died Saturday of a brain hemorrhage.

Police said Spreckels fell after leaving the cocktail lounge of a plush motel, striking his head against a stone pillar.

Dr. Frank Videl, assistant county medical examiner, said the hemorrhage apparently was the result of the fall and head injury.

Spreckels, who would have been 50 Monday, checked into the motel Friday with a companion, Mrs. Larreto Miller of Los Angeles. She was registered in a separate room.

Spreckels was one of three children of Rudolph Spreckels, who inherited the sugar empire from his father, Claus A. Spreckels, founder of the Spreckels Sugar Co.

State Lawmakers Desperately Optimistic Over Civic Organization's Remap Plan

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Desperate optimism about bi-partisan acceptance of a civic organization's plan for congressional redistricting prevails among Illinois lawmakers. They start their fourth week of special session Monday.

Patience with lack of progress over this last week as the chance for filling a "home by Halloween" slogan faded. Legislators are not likely to consider sticking around for so remote a goal as "home by Thanksgiving."

The current stumbling block to agreement is how to arrange Cook County with 12 districts, a number both parties agree upon. Republican leaders held out hope for the Better Government Association's plan for cutting up Cook County.

The BGA plan would arrange seven Cook County districts leaning to Democrats; three districts leaning to Republicans; and two city-county areas which either party could capture in a normal election.

Republican spokesmen said they would introduce this plan in the Illinois House Monday. The downstate map accompanying it presumably would be the downstate version of the Republican map.

Reach No Accord At Caterpillar; Near Deadline

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — Company and union representatives continued negotiating Saturday night as they neared a midnight strike deadline for 1,800 workers at the Caterpillar Tractor Co. plant.

Ralph O. Harper of the Federal Mediation Service said there have been no significant changes by either side in the contract bargaining sessions which have gone on most of the day.

A plan-by-plan strike deadline was set by the United Auto Workers union for 17,000 workers at seven Caterpillar plants in Illinois, Iowa and Pennsylvania.

Negotiations between the union and the company are conducted on a plant-by-plant basis. Wages and payment of fringe benefits costs are basic issues.

In Peoria, UAW vice president Duane (Pat) Greathouse said talks are continuing and the strike deadline still stands.

Local 145 in Aurora, said there have been no important changes and negotiations are continuing. Caterpillar also has plants in Davenport, Iowa, and York, Pa.

'Hysterical' Khrushchev Calls Appeals To Refrain From Test

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev has implied the Soviet Union will go ahead with the explosion of a 50-megaton nuclear bomb despite what he called the hysterical clamor of bourgeois propaganda and the concern of even fair-minded people.

In the face of world appeals to halt Soviet nuclear testing, Khrushchev declared before the Soviet party congress Friday that the Soviet Union "cannot refrain from carrying out those tests" because of what he called preparations for war by the Western Allies.

Khrushchev had said previously the 50-megaton nuclear bomb—equal to 50 million tons of TNT—might be fired Monday or Tuesday.

The premier's statement came before the U.N. General Assembly voted 87-41 urging cancellation of the superbomb test.

The text of his speech was withheld from publication until Saturday night.

Khrushchev denounced as "strange logic" assertions that the Soviet nuclear tests with their accompanying fallout were crimes against humanity in view of U.S. atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki in World War II.

He called this an act of "senseless brutality and without any military necessity" and said "some American politicians were still are proud of this mass killing."

He said the Soviet decision to resume nuclear testing was "precipitated by all who cherish peace and refuse to shut their eyes to the dangerous intrigues of the enemies of peace."

"In adopting that decision," he said, "the Soviet government realized, of course, that the reasons (Continued On Page Seven)

Pope Dedicates Daily Prayer To Newborn Babies

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII, nearing his 80th birthday, prays daily for every newborn baby in the world.

The pontiff, elected to the papal throne just three years ago Saturday, disclosed this to newsmen this week in a special audience he described as a family affair.

His broad, good-natured face beamed—several times he smiled and chuckled—the Pope spoke casually:

"You know," he said, "at 80, sleep does not always come as it does to a baby. I am waiting for sleep," he said, "he turns to newspapers, books, or prayer. He prays for the world in those moments, he added, with the comment that his daily prayers include the entire 15 mysteries of the Rosary. He said that while contemplating the third mystery—the Birth of Christ—he dedicates his prayers to newborn babies.

"Those prayers," he said, "I devote to all the babies born in the preceding 24 hours. This way, I pray for all of them."

Earlier, in a formal address in French to the newsmen, who had come to give their birthday greetings, the pontiff urged dedication to truth.

"By working for truth," he said, "you will also be working for human fraternity. Because it is error and the lie that divide men."

Next week, combined celebrations will be observed here to honor Pope John's birthday and the anniversary of the election of the supreme ruler of the Roman Catholic Church. Highlight of the observance will be a papal capella in St. Peter's Basilica next Saturday.

Pope John was born Nov. 25, 1881, at Soana, Montre, a little town in northern Italy, whose name means "Under the Mount."

He was elected Pope Oct. 23, 1958 and crowned seven days later, on Nov. 4.

U.S. Urges Allies Push Big Buildup Of Military Power

LONDON (AP) — The United States has urged West Germany, Britain and France to meet the Soviet threat to Berlin with the biggest buildup of military power in Europe ever seen in time of peace.

Dependable sources, reporting this Saturday, said U.S. Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell Gilpatric outlined the buildup in a weeklong swing through West Europe.

The program already has brought the United States to semi-mobilization. The sources said the movement of 57,000 new U. S. troops to Europe is under way and an additional two to six divisions may follow around the first of the year.

These reinforcements for six U. S. divisions already in West Germany are designed to show the Soviet Union that the United States means to fight in defense of Berlin, if necessary.

An added although unspoken implication of the roundup Gilpatric gave to Defense Ministers Franz Josef Strauss of West Germany, Pierre Messmer of France and Harold Watkinson of Britain is that the three countries should contribute more to Allied power in Europe.

Gilpatric ended his talks evidently hopeful that:

1. West Germany will act swiftly to help fill the present $200 million gap between U. S. spending and earnings in deutchmark.
2. France soon will assign two extra divisions, withdrawn from Algeria, to the supreme Allied commander in Europe, Gen. Lauris Norstad.
3. Britain will strengthen its strategic military reserve and step up training of reservists. The present intention of ending conscription this year may be reviewed.

The pattern of Gilpatric's talks in Bonn, Paris and London suggested the performances of these countries do not yet match their capabilities.

Gilpatric proposed that German armed forces begin sharing cost

VEGETABLE MILK COULD REPLACE COWS' MILK

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A dairy here says it has developed a vegetable milk that could replace cows' milk contaminated by radioactive fallout.

The vegetable milk is canned and will keep for a year without refrigeration, according to the Rich Products Corp. It tastes like cow's milk and contains equal or greater amounts of nutrition, the dairy said.

The company said it has no plans for marketing the vegetable milk but would make it available to hospitals in an emergency.

Cambodia Prince Threatens Break With Free World

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk, who has severed diplomatic relations with Thailand, threatened Saturday to make a complete break with the non-Communist world.

The neutralist chief of government said in a radio address bitterly complained that the United States will not permit military aid to neighboring Thailand.

"American military aid, in effect, does not permit us to defend our territory and independence except in the unique case when we are attacked by Communists, who in the present case do not menace us," he said.

The prince declared he already had warned "the free world, and the United States in particular, that Cambodia was being used as a base for Communist attacks against neighbors. Later, the Cambodian Foreign Ministry offered to open its borders to prove non-Communists were operating in Cambodia."

(Government officials in South Viet Nam Saturday charged Cambodian militia invaded Wednesday 110 miles southwest of Saigon, the Vietnamese capital. They said one Cambodian was killed and three were captured in a minor clash.)

"This appeal to make the free world understand is my last appeal," the prince said. "I point out that there is nothing but some twenty millions of dollars in American aid that still ties us to the free world."

"If the United States wishes to persuade itself that we are disinterested, let them take back the aid which is accompanied by too much suffering."

He told his auditors that they could count themselves fortunate, that in Russia the women did most of the hard work, that consumer goods are scarce, poorly made and costly, that state medicine does not protect the health of the women, that food is scarce, high priced and of little variety, that housing is crowded and expensive, and Russian women simply cannot imagine the freedom and abundance the American woman enjoys.

The meeting opened with a morning business session with the president, Mrs. Lawrence Mallicoat, presiding. Reports were made by Mrs. Olin Clark, secretary; Mrs. Russell Vernon, treasurer; Miss Hazel Graves, home adviser; and her assistant, Mrs. Shirley Franklin Jones.

THE FIRST STEP
BOSTON (AP)—Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston tells of a succinct answer he received during a visit to a school for girls in Latin America.

"I introduced my remarks with this question: What is the first thing to do to make good chicken soup?" he wrote in 'The Pilot,' official publication of the Boston Archdiocese.

"After a brief silence, a hand went up and a 10-year-old girl said: 'Kill the chicken, your eminence.'"

The Adena Indians were the first food producers and first potters among the various prehistoric Indian tribes of Ohio.

Why Young Men Under 25, Unmarried, Pay Higher Premium For Car Insurance

DETROIT (AP)—A man of 21 at or near his physical peak, his coordination may never be better and his senses are at their sharpest.

Despite these attributes when this young man buys a car and applies for insurance he will be asked to pay, on the average, 2 1/2 times the base rate. If he isn't married; roughly 1 1/2 times the base rate if he is married or only drives the family car part time.

Even then many companies aren't eager for his business.

The insurance people say they probably lose money on the policy despite the much higher premium.

His particular age group—unmarried male under 25 in insurance company parlance—appears more accident-prone than any other. Men and women in this age bracket make up only 18.4 per cent of all licensed drivers, yet are involved in 28 per cent of all vehicle accidents and more than 28 per cent of all fatal vehicle accidents.

As yet young women drivers are not penalized by higher insurance rates, mainly because they are outnumbered by the men. But one insurance executive says "we are making a serious study of the situation. It certainly may become necessary to charge them more, too."

Motor vehicle accidents are the leading cause of death for both males and females from 15 to 24 and one of 17 in this age group gets injured in a car every year.

One conclusion, by Dr. Ross McFarland of Harvard University, is that such high accident rates must be regarded in terms of "inexperience, emotional and social immaturity, and temperamental qualities associated with youth."

A spokesman for Allstate Insurance, one of the nation's largest auto insurers, cites this hypothetical example:

"John is an excellent boy, president of the senior class, a straight-

A student, a good family background. Friday night he's got the family car and he's driving home from a football game 30 miles away. Four of his friends are with him. He starts out at a conservative 30 miles an hour. His friends urge him to hurry up. He sticks to his guns until someone, somewhere along the line, asks sarcastically, 'What's the matter? You chicken?'

John is forced to decide 'do I want to be acceptable to my friends?' He speeds up—too fast—and suddenly there is a tragic accident.

"Historically the facts in front of you about this boy say he'd never do it. But we know that under given circumstances, under social pressure from within his group, he has done it."

Robb B. Kelley, vice president-secretary of the Employers Mutual Casualty Co. of Des Moines, Iowa, puts it this way:

"We know we are penalizing the good drivers in this age group. The problem is how to find the good ones in advance."

The insurance companies are searching vigorously for some new answers, other than just raising rates to everyone. One method has been to support financially driver education programs in high schools. Almost all companies grant graduates of such courses 10 to 15 per cent discounts on their property damage and personal liability premiums, but these discounts come from the already high rate.

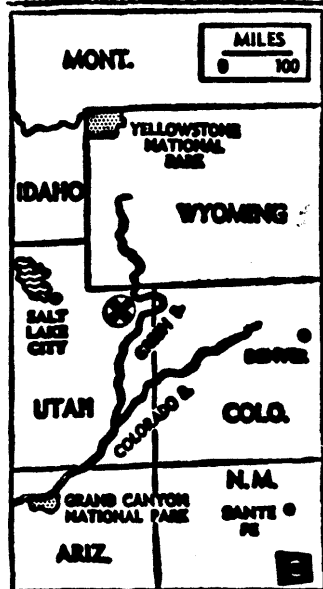

Another approach is being tried by Kelley's company along with four others—Allied Mutual Insurance Co. of Des Moines, Meridian Mutual of Indianapolis, Celina Mutual of Celina, Ohio, and Auto Owners Insurance Co. of Lansing, Mich. They have formed the Mutual Drivers Psychological measuring Bureau under the direction of Dr. A. C. MacKinney of Iowa State University.

MacKinney has set out to develop a test which will anticipate which drivers are likely to be involved in accidents, working on the assumption that temperament or personality traits hold the key for the under-25 males.

The tests have been written, examined and now are being tried by the companies for comparison against actual accident claims. Kelley, as spokesman for the bureau, says no decision has been made on final use of the test, which includes 300 questions.

WHITE GOLD
BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Dentistry has solved the problem of using gold for its good filling qualities without making a patient's mouth look like a jewelry store window.

Dr. John F. Johnson of the Indiana University School of Dentistry told a dental meeting here recently that porcelain veneers baked to the gold filling surface cover the gold and closely resemble the color and surface texture of natural teeth.

ISD Homecoming Win Led By Poncar's 5 TD's

By JACK FAIRFIELD

Bob Poncar put on a one-man-scoring-show for the estimated 700 Homecoming fans Saturday afternoon as he carried for only four times and scored four touchdowns the first half and added a 60-yard punt return for a TD the second half, to lead Coach Bond's Illinois School for the Deaf Tigers past the Missouri School for the Deaf, 39-6.

Poncar went 66, 52, 42, and 19 yards for touchdowns in the first half the only times he carried the ball from the line of scrimmage. On two other occasions the senior halfback had his hands on the ball but one was the initial kick-off which was fumbled and the other was a short punt which Poncar downed deep in the visitors' territory.

The Tigers' general play was a little below par as they committed several fumbles which could have been costly and although their line did good job charging throughout most of the contest, the Eagles offense was a little less than outstanding.

ISD received the opening kick-off and after some undecided steps by the prospective ball carrier it was fumbled and the Missouri Deaf recovered on the ISD 25 yard stripe. On the second play MSD fumbled and five Tigers finally took the ball on the 40. Marquis picked up eight yards off tackle and then Poncar took a Clausen pincushion and romped 52 yards for his first TD.

The snap from center on the PAT was fumbled, so Poncar picked up the ball and stormed into the end zone for the seven to nothing ISD lead.

Poncar kicked off for the Tigers and the Missouri school seemed to perk up just a little. The Eagles picked one first down and were within two yards of another when they fumbled again. Jackson got 20 yards with a wide end sweep, the key to the ISD defense all afternoon, and then with the ball resting on the Missouri 42, Poncar took the ball on a reverse and rammed over three tacklers to score again. The powerful senior then kicked the extra point, 14-0, ISD.

Following the ensuing kickoff the Eagles couldn't move and were forced to punt. ISD took over on the visitors' 25 and promptly fumbled on the first play, but recovered their own mucus. They were penalized and lost yardage twice and finally yielded the ball to Coach Clarence Davis' Eagles on the 32 to end the first quarter.

On the first play of the second period, Gene Manion swept around his own left end and went 40 yards before being knocked out of bounds on the ISD 16 by, you-know-who, Bob Poncar. In three downs the Eagles got only two yards to the Illinois Deaf 14 but with a fourth and eight situation facing the gritty visitors, Manion dropped back and fired a pass to Frank Morris who shook off one tackler and scored standing up for the Missouri school's only touchdown. The attempted run for the point after was stopped short.

The Tigers continued to play hard ball and following the MSD kickoff the host fumbled and Bryan Glascock recovered for Missouri on the ISD 42. The Eagles couldn't move the ball again and tried the airway but Marquis intercepted for ISD.

On the first play Poncar rolled around his own left end and "plopped" 66 yards for the third Illinois Deaf six-pointer. The attempted kick for the point after was stopped short.

The field deteriorated into a swamp, and the only other scoring was Skip O'D's 27-yard field goal late in the third quarter. The game was set up by an Iowa mistake—halfback Bernard Wyta's fumble which Purdue guard Stan Szurek pushed into the mud at the Iowa 43.

Butler also scored the only touchdown.

Winter scored on runs of 10, 1 and 2 yards while Mark Amos added another pair of touchdowns on a plunge and a 34-yard pass from Steve Greenfield.

The loss dropped Knox to 1-5 while St. Olaf moved to 4-2 in conference play.

Fan Breezes

By JACK FAIRFIELD

With all of the fine college scholarships that are offered in the present day we were still quite surprised to read of the latest one that came through the Information Bureau at the Journal-Courier. The $10,000 Grantland Rice Memorial Scholarship for future sportswriters is a golden opportunity for some aspiring journalist. We suggest that any who feel that they might be slightly qualified investigate this golden opportunity and not let it pass unnoticed.

—O—

The Friday afternoon tussle between ISD and Triola is shaping up as one of the most interesting of the current football year. The Tigers have been rolling over their last three opponents in such fashion that some of the starters and first string players don't see as much action as the second team.

Triola, on the other hand, has never been a believer in the theory that the game is stacked away at 30-0 and their first team has played almost every contest throughout. They have played many common foes and naturally the scores will be compared by many, but we chose to ignore these irrelevant indications of the two's similarities.

It will be most interesting and probably most exciting before the final gun has sounded. The key seems to rest with Bob Poncar, the Tigers' powerful halfback. If he is stopped, ISD will be stopped but if Poncar, as we suspect, can run roughshod over the Trojans as he has everyone else, except Roadhouse, this year then Coach Jim Bonds and his Tigers might very well have a PMSC championship in their pocket.

It is no doubt very disappointing to many that Merritt Norvell was unable to play in Saturday's televised contest between Ohio State and Wisconsin but to aggravate an injury would not help anyone's chances of future activities. Merritt has done an outstanding job for the Buckeyes and this was one of the few times that the home town fans had an opportunity to see their favorite Big Ten football player in action. Maybe later on in the NBC television production plans and Merritt will be at full strength.

Iowa Fumbles, Interceptions Give Purdue Win

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Modest Purdue held Iowa scoreless for the first time in nine seasons and splattered the No. 5 ranked college team 9-0 Saturday.

Happy as a pack of otters in the steady downpour, Purdue's agile young men grabbed three Iowa fumbles and intercepted two Hawkeye passes.

Purdue center Don Pallant snatched a Matt Szokowyn pass at the Iowa 46, shortly after the opening kickoff, and sophomore quarterback Ed Grady carried off a touchdown. Di Grady hit halfback Tom Bloom with a 19-yard pass and halfback Dave Miller with a short one in the important early drive, and a 15-yard Iowa penalty helped considerably.

Purdue had not intercepted a pass in four previous games. The field deteriorated into a swamp, and the only other scoring was Skip O'D's 27-yard field goal late in the third quarter. The game was set up by an Iowa mistake—halfback Bernard Wyta's fumble which Purdue guard Stan Szurek pushed into the mud at the Iowa 43.

Illini Attempt Fails In Final Quarter As Trojans Triumph 14-10

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Illinois made a long and exciting journey in a vain attempt to escape the football wilderness Saturday — but Southern California hung on to win 14-10.

Southern Cal's Trojans went into the game as two-touchdown favorites, but had to come from behind in the third quarter. Sophomore quarterback Pete Beathard took to the air in a 55-yard scoring drive to turn the trick.

The rangy thrower connected with Hal Bedsole for gains of 24 and 10 yards and then to Ben Rossin for 15 to the Illini two. Big Ben Wilson and the Trojans got the two point conversion on a pass from Beathard to Lynn Gaskill.

Few of the 26,994 in Memorial Coliseum left as Illinois began its march from the Illini 11 with 5:50 left. The Illini sophomore quarterback, Ron Fearn, cut loose with a 27-yard gallop to ignite the threat and the Big Ten visitors pounded on down to the Trojan 25. As the minutes ticked away, Illinois tried the airway.

From a shotgun-like formation, Mel Romani passed to Doug Mills for 19, to the Trojan six. But a second aerial was knocked down in the end zone, Romani lost two, and the gun sounded.

The Trojans scored after taking the opening kickoff and traveling 80 yards in six plays with Beathard passing for 29 to Bedsole for the score. The conversion try failed.

Southern Cal fumbled the ball away three times in the half. After Illinois had driven 80 yards in 16 ground plays to score and convert, the fumbles popped up. One led to an Illinois field goal, a 22-yarder by Jim Flannahan. It gave the Illini a 10-0 halftime lead.

With the clock running out and Illinois on the Trojan 25, quarterback Mel Romani suddenly dropped back into the short punt or shotgun offense. It caught the Trojans by surprise and Romani completed a pass to Doug Mills for 19 yards.

OSU's 364 Yards Rushing Halts Wisconsin 30-21

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Ohio State, a precision-like football machine ranked sixth in the nation, withstood an aerial bombardment by Wisconsin's Ron Miller and ground out a 30-21 victory over the Badgers Saturday in a bruising Big Ten duel.

The Buckeyes put on a brilliant display of ball control in posting their fourth straight triumph since an opening 7-7 deadlock with Texas Christian.

Ohio State rolled to a 10-0 lead, then had to fight off the passing wizardry of Miller, who tossed for two touchdowns and scored once himself. But the Buckeyes' crunching overland attack proved too much for the upset-minded Badgers before a homecoming crowd of 38,411.

The Buckeyes, who had surrendered a mere 10 points in four previous outings, scored on a 63-yard march the first time they had the ball.

Ohio State gave the national television audience a lesson in ball control as it piled up 364 yards by rushing. The Buckeyes rolled up 24 first downs on the ground, tying the Big Ten record set by Michigan State against Indiana in 1957.

Domestic's Lead Millikin To 6th Straight 27-16

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP)—Unbeaten Millikin ran up its sixth straight football victory Saturday, defeating Illinois Wesleyan 27-16 in a College Conference of Illinois game.

Jerry Domescik scored twice for Millikin and his brother, Al, once. Bob Lawry's 26-yard field goal put Wesleyan ahead in the first quarter, but Millikin then took the lead 6-3 on Del Ruiz' 29-yard pass to Russ Cook.

Millikin rolled up a 15-3 margin at halftime, scoring a safety and then a touchdown on Jerry Domescik's 44-yard runback of the ensuing kickoff.

Al Domescik's five yard run put Millikin ahead 21-3 at the outset of the third period. John Hawthorne hit Dick Hood with a 35-yard scoring aerial for Wesleyan to cut the margin to 21-6.

Millikin came back to pad a 27-9 edge at the end of the third on Jerry Domescik's six-yard run.

Wesleyan scored in the fourth on a 27-yard pass from Hawthorne to Chuck Wolfe.

Illinois State did not score until the final period when it trailed 34-0.

Carroll Annexes 19-13 Victory

NAPERVILLE, Ill. (AP)—A four-yard end run by halfback Ken Hill gave Carroll College a 19-13 victory over North Central in a College Conference of Illinois football game Saturday.

Carroll now has a 5-0 record to lead the conference. North Central has a 3-1 conference record.

Field Goal Wins For Northern 11-0

MOUNT PLEASANT, Mich. (AP)—A field goal and a touchdown in the final quarter gave Northern Illinois an 11-0 victory over Central Michigan in an Interstate Conference football game Saturday.

With 7:43 to go in the final period, Northern's tackle, Floyd Deyo, kicked a 35-yard field goal to break a scoreless tie. Three minutes later, quarterback George Bork passed 57 yards to fullback Gary Stearns for a touchdown.

Bork passed to Hugh Rohrschneider for two extra points.

Western Trounces Evansville 26-0

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Western Illinois dampened Evansville's Homecoming enthusiasm Saturday by handing the Aces a 26-0 trouncing.

Booker Edgerson led the Leathernecks from Macon, Ill., with two touchdowns, on a 21-yard pass thrown by Bill Roper and the other on a 16-yard jaunt from scrimmage. Roper also scored one from the one-yard line.

Ron Hartman racked up the final Western Illinois touchdown by recovering an Evansville fumble in the end zone.

Yates And Coulter Score For JHS's Fifth Season Win

By BUFORD GREEN

SPRINGFIELD — Jacksonville's Crimsons slipped by the Lanphier Lions 9-0 on a muddy field which hampered the running game of both teams, but were sparked by the running of halfback Ron Yates and fullback Tom Ferry as the Saturday night contest at Memorial Stadium saw coaches Kraushaar and Rosenberger's squad do all their scoring in the first half then hang on to take their fifth game of the season.

The muddy condition of the field was the cause of several fumbles and the small yardage picked up by both teams rushing. Jacksonville's scoring came midway in the first quarter on a 26 yard run by Yates and with four seconds left in the half when Wes Coulter kicked an 18 yard field goal.

The Crimsons received to open the game and Tom Ferry took it on his own 15 and carried the ball back 20 yards to the 35. Ferry and Yates picked up two and six yards before Yates picked up the first down to the 48. Halfback Willie Brown carried on the next play for eight yards to the 44 of Lanphier. After a Sims to Roland pass fell incomplete, Yates fumbled and Lanphier recovered, taking over on Jville's 44.

Three running plays by the Lions netted only five yards and Rodgers was forced to punt.

Yates gathered it in on his 20 yard line and rambled all the way down to the 35 of Lanphier before being hauled down. After Ferry carried for five yards to the 36, halfback Yates broke loose and went all the way for the 26 yard TD gallop. Wes Coulter's kick for the extra point was wide.

The ensuing kickoff was taken by Lanphier's Williams on his own 20 and ran back to the 35. Lanphier then put on a sustained drive downfield which carried them all the way down to the 40 of Lanphier. Four yard line where quarterback Mike Rodgers had two passes fall incomplete on third and fourth downs.

Jacksonville took over on their own four yard stripe to start the second quarter. Three running plays picked up 9 yards and the Crimsons elected to punt on fourth and one. Yates booted to the 40 of Lanphier where halfback Eandi took the ball and ran it back to the 42 of Jacksonville.

Fullback Heininger picked up ten yards and a first down on the next play from scrimmage. Rodgers carried for five yards on two plays before Eandi carried to the Crimsons 15 for another Lanphier first down. On the next play, Rodgers fumbled and Alvin Smith of the Crimsons recovered on the 12 yard line.

Three running plays picked up a first down for the Crimsons and they had the ball on their own 25. Then the Lion defense tightened and they were forced to punt again.

Ron Yates punted to the 15 of Lanphier where the ball rolled dead. After two Lanphier running attempts were stopped at the line of scrimmage, Rodgers quickly kicked to the 36 where Bill Sims fell on the ball.

On the next series of downs, Rodgers intercepted a Yates pass and ran it back to the 35. Wes Coulter intercepted a Lanphier pass on the next play and was downed on Lanphier's 25.

MSU Homecoming Show Dumps IU

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Top-ranked Michigan State sparked with brilliant scoring plays in the second half for a 35-0 victory over Indiana Saturday.

The outcome was expected although a higher score had been predicted.

The Spartans looked uninspired in the first half except for a 59-yard scoring drive made the first time they took the ball.

Michigan State buckled down to business and delighted the homecoming crowd of 55,361 with four more efficient scores in the second half.

MSU powered 60 yards for one touchdown in four plays as Charon scampered 48 yards for the score. George Salinas, The Associated Press back of the week last week, ran six yards for another.

Quarterback Pete Smith, back of the Indiana 49, hit end Lonnie Sanders with a pass on the 20 and he skipped into the end zone from there.

First-string fullback Roger Lopez shook off two tacklers and went seven yards for the final touchdown to cap a 51-yard march that took only seven plays.

End Art Brandstatter, a left-footed kicker, had a perfect average for the day as he booted five of five for the extra points.

Northwestern Dumps Irish On Benz Pass In Final Quarter

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Halfback Larry Benz tossed his only completed pass this season but both went for touchdowns to give Northwestern a come-from-behind 12-10 victory over eighth ranked Notre Dame Saturday.

A spectacular 50-yard pass play from Benz to Bill Stinson provided Northwestern's first touchdown early in the second half and the payoff loss was a short 7-yard basketball heave to Albert Kimbrough midway in the final quarter.

The triumph was the third straight for Northwestern in the renewed series and kept Coach Ara Paraghi's record of never having lost to the Irish.

Northwestern, kept from scoring touchdowns in its last two games against Minnesota and Ohio State, recorded its third victory against two losses in a crowd of 39,075 saw the Irish suffer their second successive defeat after triumphing in their first three games.

Bungled Punts Give St. Joseph's 8-7 Squeaker

RENNESLAER, Ind. (AP) — Bungled punts set up both touchdowns and a two-point conversion made the difference Saturday as St. Joseph's edged DePaul 8-7. St. Joe quarterback Dave Beam hit Dick Hayge with an aerial two-pointer in the second quarter after Denny Mudd punted over from the three for the Pumas' only touchdown.

It was Beam's bad punt which set up the Tigers' first period touchdown. Kicking from his own 40, Beam boomed the ball off the back of a teammate, and it rolled to the St. Joe two-yard line. Duff Gula went over for DePaul on the next play.

Argentine Scores Decision Over Teddy Wright

NEW YORK (AP) — Famed Middleweight champion, won an unanimous 10-round decision over journeyman Teddy Wright of Detroit Saturday night in Madison Square Garden.

Sullivan outwitted Wright, 1601 to 1601, but it was his long reach that really counted for him.

Wright, a world traveler, had all sorts of trouble reaching the lanky Salim, who outreached him by a good three inches. Time and again, Wright literally jumped off his feet to connect with a right lead.

Salim, who has lost only one of his 34 bouts and never had been knocked out of his feet, did not begin to take advantage of his reach until the second round.

But once he discovered he could connect almost without resistance, he controlled the nationally televised (ABC) bout all the way.

Joe Brown Floors Somodio In 11th

MANILA (AP) — Fast-punching Joe Brown of Houston, Tex., twice knocked out the younger opponent, easily outpointed Bert Somodio of the Philippines Saturday night while making a record 11th successful defense of his world lightweight championship.

Brown, 35, sent the 27-year-old challenger to the canvas for the count in the fifth round and for a nine count in the 11th. He also ripped open a cut on Somodio's left cheek and staggered him with a solid right cross in the seventh. The champion also scored repeatedly with sharp jabs and uppercuts.

The decision was unanimous. Referee Aro Hindman scored it 74-62 under the 5-point system. Judge Tony Petronella had it 71-65 while Judge Rafael Torres of Manila had the tiebreaker in Brown's favor 10-9.

Brown, a prohibitive favorite, took the offensive suddenly in the fifth. He landed a hard right to the jaw that knocked the Filipino down on one knee. Somodio got up immediately.

The victory was the 81st for the Houston veteran. He won the crown from Wallace (Buddy) Smith, Aug. 14, 1958. Somodio's record is now 19-2 with 10 knockouts. He was ranked sixth in the most recent NBA ratings.

Brown, who previously broke Benny Leonard's record nine defense of the 135-pound title, was guaranteed $50,000. Somodio will get $15,000.

Fish Forecasting An Exact Science

NEW YORK (AP) — Now don't get excited, but fish forecasting has become a science.

It's reliable only to a certain degree, however. Like listening to the weather forecasts before planning a weekend picnic.

"An exact science," was the way Dr. L. E. Cronin, director of the National Resources Institute of the University of Maryland, described it Thursday.

He likened it to weather forecasting and told delegates of the Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission that fish forecasts often will have to do as weather forecasts do—qualify predictions with "probably."

The fish forecasters, seeking to supply commercial and sports fishermen with beforehand knowledge, are scientists who are members of the commission. Dr. Cronin gave the delegates a couple of long-range forecasts for next year.

Loosebait, Maine only: "Good." Oysters, the North and mid-Atlantic and Chesapeake Bay: "Extremely poor."

He said the forecasts are built on a number of variable factors, including current, water temperature, water salinity content, spawning rates in known hatching areas, feeding rates, pollution and predator abundance.

Still another variable which must be taken into consideration for such fish as cod and haddock, he said, was the presence of a fleet of Soviet trawlers fishing off the New England coast.

After all the variables are weighed and evaluated, he said, they are assessed against the predictions of "wise old heads" in the commercial and sport fishing industries.

In four trips to the post in The Garden State, Jockey Eric Guerin won with Sumner Tan in 1955, was second with Carter Boy in 1956, third with Rose Trella in 1957 and third with Edward Dancer in 1958.

LSU Rides High In 23-0 Fifth Victory In Row

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Dramatic touchdowns by Ray Wilkins and Dwight Robinson sparked seventh-ranked Louisiana State to a 23-0 football victory Saturday over Southeastern Conference rival Florida.

The triumph was the fifth in a row for LSU, unbeaten since a season opening loss to Rice, Florida, taking its first SEC loss, has three victories, two defeats and a tie.

Halfback Wilkins capped an 88-yard scoring drive by racing 33 yards for a touchdown in the second period. Quarterback Robinson, a defensive specialist, intercepted a Florida pitchout minutes later and sprinted 25 yards for another.

The Tigers covered 66 yards after the interception in only five plays for a third score on the passing of quarterback Lynn Amedee, who pitched 16 yards to end Danny Neuman for the touchdown.

A 33-yard field goal by halfback Wendell Harris completed the LSU runaway.

Eric Cremin of Australia was second with a 289 followed by Peter Thomson and Bruce Crampton, also from Australia, with 290 each. Stan Leonard of Canada was ninth with a 304.

Hornung May Stay At Green Bay As Army Hits Browns Next

By JIM KACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Green Bay Packers, powering their way toward a second straight Western Division title in the National Football League, may have high-scoring Paul Hornung on hand longer than they thought.

But the Cleveland Browns, struggling to stay in the Eastern race, are due to lose some of their prime offensive strength to the Army after Sunday's game.

Hornung, Green Bay's man of many talents, was to have reported for military duty this week but instead will check into the hospital for a physical examination which could take 10 days to evaluate.

However, the Packers still will have two regulars bound for the Army this week—linebacker Ray Nitschke and flanker back Floyd Dowler. And Cleveland will be hard hit by the military call-up with whippet runner Bobby Mitchell slated to go in.

The Packers' Western leaders with five victories in six starts, have a return match Sunday with the Minnesota Vikings (1-5) at Milwaukee, and the Browns (4-2) are at St. Louis (3-3). Also on the schedule: Philadelphia (5-1) at Washington (0-4), Dallas (3-3) at New York (5-1), Chicago (4-2) at Baltimore (3-3), San Francisco (4-2) at Pittsburgh (1-5) and Detroit (3-3) at Los Angeles (1-5).

With Hornung out for much of last week's game with a bad knee, the Packers uncovered a skillful replacement in Tom Curney. He was a running star as Green Bay smothered the Vikings 37-0. But as a point producing machine, the Packers don't have a man of Hornung's abilities. He set an NFL record last year with 176 points and is the only player with 62.

Ole Miss Unleashes 47-0 Blockbuster On Vanderbilt

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP) — Potent Mississippi launched a massive attack Saturday and the second-ranked Rebels rolled to a 47-0 victory over outmanned Vanderbilt in a lusterous Southeastern Conference football game.

The Rebels, starting slower than at many times this season, showed little in punching across one touchdown in each of the first two periods, then picking up the tempo against the think Vanderbilt team after intermission.

The scoring parade featured two touchdowns by Reb Fullback Billy Ray Adams and one each by end Wes Sullivan, halfback A. J. Holloway, end Ralph Smith and quarterbacks Doug Elmore and Perry Lee Dunn.

Adams' 20-yard run in the first quarter was the longest touchdown play and the score was all his. The 210-pound senior pile-driver intercepted a pass by Vanderbilt's Hank Lesene and returned it 25 yards to the Vanderbilt 35. Adams carried to the 28 on the first play and scored on the next.

Colorado Looks To Big 8 Title In 22-14 Win

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Tenth-ranked Colorado recouped twice Saturday to put down a fighting but out-manned Oklahoma football team 22-14.

It was the undefeated Buffaloes' fifth consecutive victory of the season as they continued driving for their first Big Eight Conference title in 15 years of membership.

The defeat was Oklahoma's fifth straight this season and eclipsed the school's all-time losing streak of four straight set in 1931 and matched in 1960.

Fullback Loren Schweninger scored the winning touchdown early in the fourth quarter, capping a 50-yard drive.

Halfback Bill Harris gave the Buffaloes good field position for the clincher by returning a kickoff after Oklahoma had gone ahead, 44 yards to the midfield stripe.

That gave Colorado a 16-14 lead and it proved to be enough.

But the Buffaloes took advantage of an Oklahoma fumble to add another tally midway through the fourth quarter.

Tulane Smothered By Georgia Tech

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Quarterbacks Stan Gann and Billy Lott, backs and a mighty Georgia Tech line smothered Tulane 35-0 before 20,000 homecoming fans Saturday as the highly ranked Engineers rolled to their fifth victory of the football season.

Tech, ranked ninth in this week's Associated Press poll, kept Tulane bottled up throughout the rain-soaked afternoon.

The Engineers rolled up a quick lead in the first nine minutes, marching 57 yards in 12 plays with halfback Zolte Sirey circling left end from the 10 for the score.

The victory kept alive Tech's flickering hopes for a Southeastern Conference title. The Engineers are 2-1 in SEC play and a 6-1 over-all record.

The Tech attack rolled for 85 yards on the soggy Sugar Bowl turf, but the Engineers had 123 yards through the air with six completions in 13 attempts. Tulane, crippled by injuries to a half dozen regulars, lost its fifth game in six outings.

Ga. Tech 14 7 6 8-35

Carry Back Takes Trenton Feature

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Carry Back won the $75,000-added Trenton Handicap at Garden State Park Saturday but had to sweat out a claim of foul before the victory became official.

Jockey Johnny Sellers moved the winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness from sixth place to the halfway point leading section, a half length ahead of Brookfield Farm's Intentionally who had led virtually all the way.

Through the stretch Carry Back and Intentionally along with Ambipose raced in close quarters. It was Bill Hartack on Ambipose, the third horse, who lodged the claim of foul against Sellers.

Carry Back, with eight wins, a second and two thirds, was the first thoroughbred to earn more than $500,000 in 1961. When he reached that mark, Kelso had earned $61,700.

Comets Tally All In First Half; IC Starts In 2nd Half

OLIVET, Mich. — Freshman quarterback Forest Bone of Olivet College's Comets scored once on a nine yard run and fired two touchdown passes to pace the homecoming victors to a 40-20 decision over Illinois College's Blueboys Saturday afternoon.

The Blueboys opened up the final half to score after tackle Dale Williams recovered a fumble on Olivet's first series of downs. Ten plays later, Carrollton sophomore Ron Carter scored from the one-yard marker and Ted McDonald added from Winchester added the two points after.

With 52 seconds remaining in the third quarter Gary Duffield and Jacksonville's Gerald Brockhouse teamed up to recover another Olivet loose ball on IC's 48-yard stripe.

A Volk pass to senior end Ed Puck netted 14 yards as Francis went 15 yards to the 22, where Volk again hit Puck on the three. Three attempted runs put the Blueboys back on the nine from where Volk fired to sophomore end Bill Baker from North Norwich, N.Y., for the second IC score. The attempt for another two-point conversion failed.

Three minutes and 21 seconds remained in the game as the Blueboys scored their final tally.

Starting on their own 23 yard line, Volk passed, Harry Lee Sweet, senior half, rushed, as Francis busted loose from the Olivet 27 for the score after two decisive blocks from Frank Mori and Bob Downer cleared the way.

The Blueboys started their scoring in the third period when Ron Carter scored from the one and again in the final period as quarterback Bob Volk opened up and passed the Blueboys down to the three where he hit Bill Baker for the first score. Again the senior co-captain opened up and hurried IC aerials which put Coach Joe Brooks' squad to the 27 where sophomore Tom Francis from Franklin, centered 27 yards for the last tally.

The game was hampered with bone-chilling rain during the first half, and at the start of the second half, both schools agreed to shorten the game by three minutes per quarter because of the severe cold dampness.

Freshman point guard Roger Reinhardt opened the Comets' first half run as he broke into the IC secondary from the 10 yard marker and went in for the initial tally. Senior Danny Dienoff boosted the conversion.

Again the Comets chalked up a touchdown on a quarterback bounce. Freshman point guard Scott Engraff scored three touchdowns in the final quarter and assured coach Jerry Lake's squad of its second victory.

The determined Highlanders rallied in the second quarter and scored twice on goals by Engraff and Cohoon to tie the game.

Blackburn went ahead again on a penalty kick by Proff but the Highlanders fought gamely back and, relying on fine teamwork, scored twice to take the lead in the third period.

The MacMurray defense held off several Blackburn threats in the final quarter and assured coach Jerry Lake's squad of its second victory.

Wayne Mansfield, Ray Bonner, Craig Ford, John Chipman, and Bill Winkels again sparked the Highlanders defense. All five repeatedly kicked the ball deep into Blackburn territory while the Carlinville coach threatened.

Brian Varner, playing goalie in place of Dick Trout, who has been lost with a broken foot, had 14 saves for the Highlanders.

More AFL Knots Forecast Today

By HAROLD V. KATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Eastern division of the American Football League, already tied into knots, could become worse than a jungle of grapevines Sunday.

Already there's just one-half game difference between first place and last with New York and Boston tied for the lead, Buffalo third and Houston, the league defending champion now driving back from a near-disastrous fourth.

New York makes its second straight trip to the West, playing Oakland. If the Titans are no more successful on this one they'll lose the top spot in the Eastern Division. Denver beat them last week 27-10.

Houston will be at Buffalo and Boston at Dallas. If Houston should beat Buffalo while New York and Boston lose, then the Oilers could move into first place. That's just how close the race is in the Eastern Division.

San Diego, leading the Western Division, hasn't a worry in the world despite the fact that it's great quarterback, Jack Kemp, is ailing. The Chargers have won seven straight games and arrived at the halfway point leading section and place Dallas by 3 1/2 games.

San Diego plays Denver at San Diego Sunday. Denver has won its last two starts and has shown strong indications of a revival.

Houston also is in defense. Buffalo 52-21 last weekend. It was the Bills who whipped the Oilers 22-12 in Houston.

Oakland is the only club in the league below .500 in offense. Oakland also is last in defense. Prospects of the Raiders beating the Titans don't appear bright.

Dallas is crippled up and will be minus its versatile fullback, Jack Spikes for the game with Highlanders. Dallas is last in defense, 52-21 last weekend. It was the second highest score of the season.

Jimmy Clark scored nine birdies in succession in the California Open this year but finished second.

Quarterback Bone served up another scoring aerial, this time to senior fullback Chuck Clibb as the play netted 25 yards. The insurance boot was good by Dienoff.

A Blueboy fumble by halfback Ted McDonald, gave the Comets the ball on IC's 12 yard stripe as they capitalized, scoring with freshman Allan Burnett passing to Roger Reinhardt for the counter. Again Dienoff added the point after as the Comet scoring ceased with a 40-0 margin.

Yesterday, playing before a large crowd of parents and students, the MacMurray Highlanders downed Blackburn College 4-3. It avenged an earlier 3-2 loss to Blackburn in Carlinville.

Blackburn, now 4-3, jumped to an early lead on two successive goals by Hans Proff.

The determined Highlanders rallied in the second quarter and scored twice on goals by Engraff and Cohoon to tie the game.

Blackburn went ahead again on a penalty kick by Proff but the Highlanders fought gamely back and, relying on fine teamwork, scored twice to take the lead in the third period.

HALSEY PILOTS CARTHAGE WIN OVER LAKE FOREST

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) — Senior quarterback Bob Halsey scored two touchdowns and passed for two others to pace Carthage College to a 43-13 victory over Lake Forest in a College Conference of Illinois football game Saturday.

Halsey scored his two TDs on runs of 1 and 28 yards. He connected with end Dave Werner on a 62-yard touchdown pass and hit end Pat Schrader on a TD aerial covering 25 yards.

Halsey shared the scoring spectacle with fullback Ev Olson who scampered 78 yards for a touchdown with end Dave Werner on a 62-yard touchdown pass and hit end Pat Schrader on a TD aerial covering 25 yards.

Lake Forest's first tally came on a 32 yard play starting on a pass from quarterback Herb McDowell to halfback Dave Olson, who lateraled to fullback Jim Harris.

The long scoring strategy ended when Lake Forest quarterback Tom Duman hit end Pat Wood on an 80-yard touchdown pass.

Voters To Select Justices Of Peace, Constables Nov. 7

Morgan County voters will visit the 49 precincts to select their choices for County Commissioner, Justices of the Peace and Constables on Tuesday, November 7. Traditionally, off-year elections draw meager crowds at the polls and most veteran forecasters expect a very light vote compared to the 20,000 or so registered voters in the county. Most predictions range from 2,500 to 3,500 total votes cast for the county.

Republicans and Democrats will strive to generate interest for their respective candidates during the next seven days in an effort to offset the general apathy on the part of prospective voters.

Top County-Wide Race

Top race in the county and the only candidates whose names will appear in all 49 precincts on the ballots will be the race for County Commissioner.

Republican William H. Jones of Waverly will attempt to unseat F. Byron Smith of Franklin, Democrat, for a three-year term.

District Races

All other election contests will be decided on a district basis. Three districts, drawn earlier by the county commissioners, will each select a Justice of the Peace and Constable. Both Republicans and Democrats have a full slate of candidates on the ticket. This will be the first election on a district basis and may be some what confusing to some voters. Careful attention to the precinct numbers in each district and candidates running should resolve any questions.

Alton Driver Dies Saturday After Attack

William Rodney Elsner, 47, of Alton died at 3:45 a.m. Saturday at Our Saviour's Hospital after being admitted about noon Friday. He had apparently suffered an attack or become suddenly ill while unloading glass at the Anderson-Clayton Company plant east of the city about 10:30 a.m. Elsner was employed by the Evans Truck Lines of Alton, Illinois, and was accompanying his 17-year-old son, William, on the Jacksonville trip. He was rushed to Our Saviour's Hospital by Slaven ambulance for treatment. Coroner John B. Martin conducted an inquiry into the death. The remains were being held at the Streper Funeral Home in Alton. Further arrangements are incomplete.

Inland Waterway Traffic Increases On Mississippi

Inland waterway traffic on the Mississippi River between the mouth of the Ohio and the mouth of the Missouri Rivers amounted to 30,021,316 tons during the year 1960. This tonnage on the Mississippi has been progressively increasing over a long period. For comparison, in 1951 the tonnage for the same reach was 12,040,875 tons.

Colonel Alfred J. D'Arezzo, District Engineer, U. S. Army Engineer District, St. Louis, said that the tonnage presently being carried reflects the continued growth of the mid-continent area and complements the navigation facilities on the river which makes possible this continued growth. It is also due to the fact that the towing industry has kept pace with transportation requirements in furnishing suitable equipment conducive to the increase in commodities carried by the inland waterway industry.

The Port of St. Louis maintained its status during 1960 as the leading inland port on the Mississippi River. It is well above any other Mississippi River inland port and 50 per cent greater than its nearest competitor, Memphis. The inbound-outbound traffic for St. Louis was 9,991,940 tons, a marked increase over the 1951 traffic of 4,684,110 tons.

The statistics so far do not include a breakdown of the commodities that are foremost in the makeup of freight, but in previous years, petroleum products have been the leader with grain and coal competing for second place.

Franklin Youth Wins 4-H Corn Contest

Bruce Bryant, 15, of the Franklin Straight Shooters is the 1961 4-H corn champ.

His peck sample in five acre contest sponsored by the Morgan County Service company was slightly inferior to some entered in Saturday's corn show held at the Farm Bureau. But the yield, 154.98 bushels per acre, and low production costs brought him the championship.

The judge was Dale Hewitt, Scott county farm adviser.

This is the second time Bryant has won the county title. He represented this county in the state contest sponsored by the Illinois Farm Supply Co. in 1959.

He and winners from other Illinois counties will be honored at a banquet to be held in Champaign next spring. At that time regional and state champions will be named.

Saturday's winner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bryant of rural route 1, Franklin. He planted a mixture of three popular hybrids in an insecticide band on May 28, 1961, and secured a stand of 19,000 plants per acre. His costs, including a 20c per bushel soil fertility charge, amounted to $21.08 for the 774.9 bushels produced on the five acres.

For bookkeeping purposes the value of the corn was set at $1 a bushel. He's not going to sell any of the crop, though, but will feed it to his eight sows and pigs and the 17 head of sheep he has for two of his future farmer projects.

The leaders of the Franklin Straight Shooters 4-H club are

Editorial Comment

Poor Example To Follow

In this age of newly emerging nations, it has become a commonplace to say that many are drawn more to the Russian and Red Chinese example than to the American because what Communists have done seems more attainable to them.

The argument runs that the emerging peoples are impressed with the Sino-Soviet performance as having been achieved from a peasant society base much like their own today. "If these countries can do it, so can we," is supposed to be the insistent tune.

How ironic it is, then, that both Russia and Red China should have failed so dismally in the field of agriculture — fundamental to all growth and crucial to the lifting of living standards. A good proportion of the new nations need to master food and fiber problems before all else.

What do we actually find? The Soviet Union, for all its remarkable industrial advances over 40 years, today employs some 48 million people to feed and clothe a population of roughly 210 million. By contrast, the United States uses not much more than 6 million to supply the needs of 184 million—and has so much left over that it is a costly burden.

Accurate accounts of what transpires in Red China are of course impossible to get. But such fragmentary information as does filter out suggests that Peiping's whole economic development is threatened by inadequate farm production and crop failures.

In fairness, a few things must be pointed out in reference to the Soviet farm economy. The devastation and strains of World War II set agriculture development back to precollectivization levels. And Russian farmers are constantly and heavily troubled by the menace of drought.

War wiped out most of whatever mechanizing gains the Russians had managed and also slashed into vital fertilizer output and use.

In effect, the Communists had to begin all over again. But that is not the full story.

Specialists in the Soviet economy assert that Moscow's farm problem has not just been lack of machinery plus the accident of drought.

The Russians consistently misuse the machinery they have. Furthermore, their vast, collectivized "farm factories" have proved massively inefficient.

Their ambitious tree shelter belts designed to conserve moisture against the threat of drought are now judged a costly mistake. Many of their original irrigation programs were so badly conceived and managed they had to be scrapped. New ones, dependent on an intricate canal and ditch system, often conflict with the mechanized farmers' need for broad stretches of uninterrupted land surface.

Russia has learned painfully that machinery is not necessarily its own reward. Men must be properly trained in its organization and use.

And they must have incentive to work it.

Thus far neither Moscow nor Peiping have found these important keys. It would seem time that the emergent countries looked elsewhere for their "example."

LANDERS
Dear Ann Landers: Your cornball advice is making me sick to my stomach. When teenage girls write and ask how to be popular, why don't you level with them instead of fishing out that goo about being loyal, friendly, interesting, and "fun to be with?"

Anybody whose skull is on straight knows that the way to be popular is to have a rich beautiful home and buy the latest gone platens for your stereo. It also helps if you have a new car.

If a girl doesn't have any of this she absolutely must have a beautiful face or at least knock-out measurements.

So muffle that 18th-century drawing-room rattle, Granny Landers and give the cats the hip scoop. —SAPHIRE NEEDLE

Dear Needle: I receive plenty of letters from girls who are sitting in their lovely homes—alone, with their beautiful faces and knock-out measurements, listening to the gone platens. The kids are gone. They left when they became bored. And it didn't take long.

The way to have friends is to make people want to be around you. This takes warmth and sparkle. The expensive trappings may attract a few bees, but they slip the honey and then fly away.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter signed "Getting Tired" was the story of my life. My husband is wealthy. He owns eight apartment buildings. I used to clean the apartments when a tenant moved out, just as "Getting Tired" did. Finally I got tired, too, and quit. He had to hire two men to replace me.

My husband neglects his teeth and they are falling out of his mouth. He refuses to see a dentist because "they charge too much." His eyes are bad but he wears dime store glasses because eye doctors are "too expensive."

Our old car is falling apart. Our home is a disgrace to the neighborhood because it needs painting and repairing.

I make all our child's clothes because my husband won't give me money to buy anything. I haven't had a new dress in five years.

He claims he loves me, yet he says if I don't like the arrangement I can move out. I'm thinking of doing just that, but I must find a way to support myself and our daughter. Please help me. —GIVING UP

Dear Giving Up: Your husband sounds like a dingbat. Tell him to give you a decent allowance at once or you will leave and he'll have to pay for two homes—yours and his.

SCARED STIFF: You can't keep this kind of a "secret" much longer. Tell your parents immediately.

Peace Corps Tries Kennedy-Brand Touch Football

By WASHINGTON STAFF

Washington Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The Kennedy tribe's touch football pastime reportedly is on the verge of dying out. What with stalwarts burning the weekend candle behind huge mahogany desks or traveling halfway round the world on diplomatic missions, it's getting hard to scrape two teams together.

Recent recruits, drafted in desperation from office personnel and the press corps, have had their difficulties in keeping up with the rigorous demands of the Kennedy game. Says one:

"Those boys play touch football for keeps."

are introducing their own brand of the Kennedy pastime with a weekly touch game on the Ellipse. "We're not in the big leagues yet," says one of the Peace Corps razzle-dazzlers, "but just give us a chance."

THERE IS SOME speculation in Washington to the effect that one of the few "good guys" in the 1958 novel, "The Ugly American," was patterned after John F. Kennedy.

ARCHITECTURE INFLUENCES

HONOLULU — Architecture is playing a leading role in Japan's social passage "from feudalism to industrialization," an American architect believes.

Antonin Raymond, who first went to Japan in 1919 to assist the late Frank Lloyd Wright in designing Tokyo's Imperial Hotel, told a conference of architects in Honolulu:

"Structures in Japan are huge today. The architects who design these buildings seem to be carried away by a vision of permanence, solidity, power and enormity of scale as an end in itself.

"They have opened the door for a number of social changes in Japan and have helped bring the country into the industrial age."

Raymond has designed a number of buildings in Tokyo, including the U. S. Embassy, St. Luke's Hospital, Women's Christian College, St. Anselm's Church and Gunman Music Hall.

TIME OF YOUR LIFE

Only 57—She Sounds 157

Dear Arthur: When I was in my teens and early 20s, I had either one your life expectancy such hopes of being a great person, compasses the length of most known and loved by everyone, and should make long range plans.

It's time to see if you can't go back to nursing school, finish your training, and realize the goal of your lifetime.

Dear Arthur: I'd like very much to give blood to the Red Cross, but I guess I'm too old.

DEAN

Dear Dean: I truly admire your desire to donate blood to the Red Cross. When you stop to think about it, blood is the most intimate gift one human being can give to another.

If you are between the ages of 18 and 59, you can make this gift to the Red Cross. Should you be older than 59, you might want to donate your services to the organization as a volunteer.

Dear Grandparents: You are certainly justified in leaving your $12,000 estate to your grandson only if he graduates from college. But let him select his own school.

Dear Reader: Please send your questions to me, Arthur Lord, in care of this newspaper. Look for an answer to those of general interest in future columns.

HELPLESS

Dear Friend: You sound as if you were 157. If you were a child, I'd spank you. Not to punish you, but to startle you into your senses. You old? You're too old to sit around feeling old, lonely, depressed, useless, and sorry for yourself.

It is just as necessary for you to make plans for your own happiness and social usefulness at 57 as it is at 20. As a matter of fact, your initiative to determine your own activities is more completely yours at these ages than interest in future columns.

A GLANCE Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

Chris Wolskopf, a pioneer automobile tire dealer in Jacksonville, died Sunday at Oaklawn sanatorium. He was born in Springfield 68 years ago.

Over 125 masked and costumed youngsters were in the grand march at the Junior High Halloween party held at the Youth Center Monday night.

Dr. Clarence P. McClelland, president of MacMurray College, was elected president of the Illinois State Historical society Sunday at the close of the annual convention held in Bloomington.

Kent Soybeans Make 47 Bushels Per Acre

The test plot of a new soybean variety, Kent, was combined Monday, Oct. 16, and yielded 47 bushels per acre. This was the best yield of any of the soybeans tested on the Chester A. Thompson farm this year, beating Clark, the next best variety, by 1.9 bushels. "Kent is truly a fine soybean, but it's not for us," says Farm Adviser George Trull, "it is too late in maturity. It worked alright for Morgan county this year, but in years with early frost Kent wouldn't yield anything."

The new variety was developed by USDA researchers working in conjunction with land grant colleges. It looks like a winner for the southern part of Illinois, and Mississippi and Arkansas. Both states are coming to the front in soybean production. Arkansas now ranks as the No. 4 soybean producer in the U.S., and many observers feel it will become much more important in the decade to come.

Feels Dairymen Apt To Turn Down Quotas

URBANA—Proposals to establish a milk marketing quota for each producer may not have the support of a majority of the milk producers themselves, a University of Illinois dairy marketing economist believes.

R. W. Bartlett cites the results of a recent survey among Michigan milk producers. This survey showed that 63 percent of the members opposed quotas and 71 percent opposed freezing of production bases. On another question, 50 percent opposed transferring or selling bases.

The most common reasons these milk producers gave for opposing a quota plan was that it would hurt small farmers and new farmers. Those who opposed quotas or freezing of bases believed that such moves would only help dairymen who were well established or who had money to invest.

The proposed quota system would attempt to raise prices by setting a quota for each dairy farm. Those who produced more than their quotas would receive a very low price for their milk. Bartlett believes that raising prices through a strict quota system would result in increased use of margarine in place of butter, increased use of margarine in place of ice cream, more use of chicken and other low-priced meats in place of cheese, stepped-up use of bottled milk in place of evaporated milk and substitution of lower cost fresh and sterile concentrated milk for fresh whole milk.

Such a plan might raise prices temporarily, but in the long run the result would be lower incomes for dairy farmers, Bartlett concludes.

The new process is based on a natural binding that exists between gold and porcelain when they are baked together.

Illinois Swine Men To Attend National Meet

Top authorities from all segments of the swine industry will gather in St. Louis Nov. 9-10 for the fourth national swine industry conference.

Producers, market representatives, processors and research workers will discuss some of the most pressing problems now facing the industry. Such topics as improving the demand for pork, producing to meet consumer preferences, artificial insemination, hog cholera eradication, trends in hog marketing, preventing swine diseases, new ideas in equipment and manure handling, and feeder pig production are scheduled for discussion during the two-day meeting.

University of Illinois livestock extension specialists H. G. Russell and G. R. Carlisle urge all Illinois hog producers to attend the conference. The conference presents more top swine authorities than will appear at any meeting in the state for several years to come.

Illinois participants on the program include A. H. Jensen, U. of I. animal scientist; Don Jedicke, U. of I. agricultural engineer; O. B. Ross, head of the U. of I. animal science department; Dr. J. D. Ray, White Hall; Alvin S. Lehmann, Pleasant Plains; W. D. Goeke, Hampshire; LaVerne Johnson, DeKalb; and Dr. Charles Greene, Whitehall and Clifford Cox, J. Russell Ives, Harvey Daxman, and Merle LeSage, Chicago.

Winner Named In Farm Bureau Poster Contest

PITTSFIELD — Gaye Hoskins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hoskins of New Canton, was judged top county winner in the Farm Bureau school poster contest. Her poster, "To Stay on Top of the World, Eat Good Food for Fitness," will be judged on a district basis to determine the six state poster winners.

Gaye was the winner in the 5-8 age group. Vicki Banette, of Hull, was the winner in the 9-12 age group and Curtis Akin, Pittsfield, was winner in the 13-16 age group.

The top 21 posters are on display in the Farm Bureau office. More than 200 posters were made by students in the Pike County schools. The purpose of the contest was to create better eating habits among school children. Members of the Farm Bureau women's committee judged the posters.

4-H Achievement
The Pike County 4-H Achievement program will be held on Monday, Nov. 6, in the auditorium of the Pittsfield Senior High school. 4-Hers will present the entertainment. County and state awards and recognitions will be given to the 4-Hers.

Attends Church Meet
Rev. Ernest Duling of the Methodist church will be in Springfield next Friday to attend a meeting of the church extension committee, to be held at the Laurel Methodist church in that city.

ACROSS THE FIELDS AND FURROWS
Today Mrs. Agnes Pine, Bluffs, a business woman of efficiency, who was at his side in helping amass his holdings, his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Dunham and his grandchildren, Sondra and Tom Pine of near Winchester, will carry on where he left off, although the cattle feeding is out. Harvest of corn crops, etc., are now underway. This family is close to kinship to the No. 1 farmer now deceased has ability too and he was proud of them.

But that isn't all about Mr. Pine the farmer and car dealer who had his own business which he sold out some years ago. He owned a building at Jacksonville and had the Ford agency there and at Winchester. He was a banner dealer for the auto industry and he thought he had not accomplished much if the volume of sales did not reach far more than a half million dollars annually. They always did. This meant the distribution of 1,000 cars and 1,500 trucks—some new and some not too new.

Writing in the March issue of National Business about that time Clyde W. Johnson described Mr. Pine's ventures as a modern counterpart of the well known "horse trader" of the old days because he accepted most anything the farmer wanted to sell on payment on a Ford.

Tells Of Trading Ventures
In becoming a "trading fool" as competitors called him, Mr. Pine has only taken a page from his history, writer Johnson said. Two centuries ago the French traded beads and gunpowder for the Indians' furs and skins in the vast land east of the Illinois river. Mr. Pine in the same territory in his hey day exchanged automobiles and trucks for corn and hogs.

Mr. Pine also followed up his newspaper advertising which told the farmers that the Pine Motor Company would also take livestock and farm produce on balances for cars and trucks. Thirty per cent of his business was transacted thus with Mr. Pine's men picking up their commodities in the corn field or barn.

A story that will continue to be told many times in the future as it has in the past is the Pine transaction that sets a record. Deeds of the "Hamburger King" of Jacksonville was opposite the Pine Motor Company and he offered 2,000 hamburger sandwiches as a down payment on a car. The deal was made and the Pine employees were given a bonus, as many hamburgers as they could eat. Customers were also invited to have a hamburger and in three months that down payment was consumed. The hamburger deal reveals how deeply ingrained was Mr. Pine's love for trading. More than 20 men worked for Mr. Pine in the 100 square mile area and another 50 were on his farms. Mr. Pine the farmer-auto dealer, was proud of his rural patronage.

Mr. Pine often made trips to St. Louis, to Detroit, Mich., Dallas, Texas, etc., to accept checks for being in the banner club of those in all the states that sold the greatest number of Fords and trucks in a given area. At Dallas he was one of 73 dealers who were in the "100" club. He sold 100 cars in two months.

Remained In Native Land
Much more could be written about Mr. Pine but brevity must follow and no one could tell all there is to tell. He was the son of pioneer parents and his life has centered more or less around Bluffs, Winchester and Jacksonville areas. There were five sons as City and St. Louis and also in the Chicago, Ill. stock yards that he and his employed farmers marketed thousands and thousands of cattle and hogs. They went to market by the train shipping methods in the early days; later by his fleet of trucks. The thousands of cattle that he bought on the plains of Texas, to feed were also brought into his shipping in point by rail and trucks.

Had Much Farm Land
Today Mrs. Agnes Pine, Bluffs, his widow, Mrs. Agnes Pine, Bluffs, a business woman of efficiency, who was at his side in helping amass his holdings, his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Dunham and his grandchildren, Sondra and Tom Pine of near Winchester, will carry on where he left off, although the cattle feeding is out. Outline Group Plan For Veterinarians

The group veterinary practice plan proposed at the recent University of Illinois Conference for Veterinarians could revolutionize the role of today's practicing veterinarian.

These changes would definitely benefit the livestock owner, according to Dr. J. F. Knappenberg. Formerly a practicing veterinarian in Nebraska, Dr. Knappenberg is now president of Haverlock Laboratories in Kansas City, Mo.

Dr. Knappenberg's plan calls for each member of the group to specialize in one type of animal. The men would maintain their own mixed animal practices, but would be free to consult with the specialist.

"Specialization is absolutely necessary," Dr. Knappenberg explained, "because the field of veterinary medicine is so broad that no man can possibly know everything."

Each veterinarian would maintain his own office with integrated developments in agriculture. The greatest problem would be the human element. The success of the plan would depend on the ability of individual veterinarians to work closely together, Dr. Knappenberg said.

John M. Pine Of Scott, A Farmer And A Trader

By MRS. E. J. KEARNEY

General Douglas MacArthur once said "Old soldiers never die, they just fade away." This phrase seems to hit the nail on the head insofar as the late John M. Pine, Bluffs, who for years also lived in Jacksonville and Winchester, is thought of and discussed by hundreds of people since his death on Oct. 12. He is just away, they feel.

Mr. Pine, 81, truly a landmark in a wide range of territory, not less than 100 square miles, traveled the countryside in his early days in horse drawn vehicles, then by automatic cars and trucks. He was ever, until the past few years, active and was here there and everywhere in western Illinois, etc. Too much rest wasn't in his plan of life for he wanted to be up and doing. "If you have in mind to make money," he said "stay on the job and see it through." He did.

His way of life paid off well in friendship—also in dollars and cents for he was a wealthy land owner. His holdings were extensive but he remained common and well liked. He was a man who combined visiting, business and salesmanship and success was his and the story of his life will be retold over and over to a younger generation, particularly in Scott, Morgan and Pike counties where his acquaintance was large. It was in Missouri at Kansas City and St. Louis and also in the Chicago, Ill. stock yards that he and his employed farmers marketed thousands and thousands of cattle and hogs. They went to market by the train shipping methods in the early days; later by his fleet of trucks. The thousands of cattle that he bought on the plains of Texas, to feed were also brought into his shipping in point by rail and trucks.

Had Much Farm Land
Today Mrs. Agnes Pine, Bluffs, his widow, Mrs. Agnes Pine, Bluffs, a business woman of efficiency, who was at his side in helping amass his holdings, his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Dunham and his grandchildren, Sondra and Tom Pine of near Winchester, will carry on where he left off, although the cattle feeding is out. Harvest of corn crops, etc., are now underway. This family is close to kinship to the No. 1 farmer now deceased has ability too and he was proud of them.

But that isn't all about Mr. Pine the farmer and car dealer who had his own business which he sold out some years ago. He owned a building at Jacksonville and had the Ford agency there and at Winchester. He was a banner dealer for the auto industry and he thought he had not accomplished much if the volume of sales did not reach far more than a half million dollars annually. They always did. This meant the distribution of 1,000 cars and 1,500 trucks—some new and some not too new.

Writing in the March issue of National Business about that time Clyde W. Johnson described Mr. Pine's ventures as a modern counterpart of the well known "horse trader" of the old days because he accepted most anything the farmer wanted to sell on payment on a Ford.

Tells Of Trading Ventures
In becoming a "trading fool" as competitors called him, Mr. Pine has only taken a page from his history, writer Johnson said. Two centuries ago the French traded beads and gunpowder for the Indians' furs and skins in the vast land east of the Illinois river. Mr. Pine in the same territory in his hey day exchanged automobiles and trucks for corn and hogs.

Mr. Pine also followed up his newspaper advertising which told the farmers that the Pine Motor Company would also take livestock and farm produce on balances for cars and trucks. Thirty per cent of his business was transacted thus with Mr. Pine's men picking up their commodities in the corn field or barn.

A story that will continue to be told many times in the future as it has in the past is the Pine transaction that sets a record. Deeds of the "Hamburger King" of Jacksonville was opposite the Pine Motor Company and he offered 2,000 hamburger sandwiches as a down payment on a car. The deal was made and the Pine employees were given a bonus, as many hamburgers as they could eat. Customers were also invited to have a hamburger and in three months that down payment was consumed. The hamburger deal reveals how deeply ingrained was Mr. Pine's love for trading. More than 20 men worked for Mr. Pine in the 100 square mile area and another 50 were on his farms. Mr. Pine the farmer-auto dealer, was proud of his rural patronage.

Mr. Pine often made trips to St. Louis, to Detroit, Mich., Dallas, Texas, etc., to accept checks for being in the banner club of those in all the states that sold the greatest number of Fords and trucks in a given area. At Dallas he was one of 73 dealers who were in the "100" club. He sold 100 cars in two months.

Remained In Native Land
Much more could be written about Mr. Pine but brevity must follow and no one could tell all there is to tell. He was the son of pioneer parents and his life has centered more or less around Bluffs, Winchester and Jacksonville areas. There were five sons as City and St. Louis and also in the Chicago, Ill. stock yards that he and his employed farmers marketed thousands and thousands of cattle and hogs. They went to market by the train shipping methods in the early days; later by his fleet of trucks. The thousands of cattle that he bought on the plains of Texas, to feed were also brought into his shipping in point by rail and trucks.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

SOYBEAN CROP WORTH $1.5 BILLION

The soybean harvest is almost completed in Illinois, but has been a little later than normal in most other states. Acre yields were disappointing in some spots of east-central Illinois and other areas where late summer drought was serious.

The official crop estimate was trimmed slightly on October 10. The crop total was listed at 710 million bushels or 1 percent less than the estimate made a month before. But the new figure is still big by any past standard. It is 27 percent more than last year and 22 percent more than the previous record crop harvested three years ago.

Compared with last year, the acreage being harvested this year is up 15 percent, and the per acre yield is up 7 percent. Those are national figures.

Illinois, with a yield of 29 bushels per acre, is in a four-way tie for top yield. Other states with 29-bushel averages are Iowa, Indiana and Texas.

Illinois farmers produced 160 million bushels of soybeans this year, or 23 percent of the nation's crop. With the price figured at $2.20 a bushel, the value of the Illinois crop is 350 million dollars.

New, Important
On the same basis the national crop is worth about 1,500 million dollars—or 11 billion, just 30 years ago there was practically no soybean industry in the United States.

The soybean is surely the most important new crop to be developed in the United States in many years.

In 1960 soybeans ranked an easy fifth among the nation's cash crops. Only wheat, cotton, corn and tobacco brought more money to farm communities. Now soybeans have moved into fourth place, ahead of tobacco, as a money crop.

And this has come about with relatively little help from the government in the form of price support.

There was practically no carry-over of old soybeans, so the new crop is the total supply. It appears to be large enough to meet all needs for feed, crushing and exports—and still have at least 10 percent of the crop left over next fall.

The price support for last year's crop was $1.85 a bushel, but farmers sold their beans on the open market at about $1.50.

USDA Sees No Way To Cut Expenditures

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm officials said today it is not possible to make any sharp reductions in Agriculture Department expenditures this year despite a White House request that federal departments cut spending below appropriations.

The big bulk of the department's spending is under farm price support programs. They involve definite commitments to farmers. While there is legal authority to reduce present price support rates for most commodities, such action would be regarded, officials said, as a government renunciation of contracts with growers.

Some limited savings could be made in department spending on research, including construction of new facilities. Likewise, it would be possible to cut down a little on forestry service projects, such as building of roads and trails.

Also, some savings might be made in purchase of foods for distribution to needy families and the school lunch program. At the present time, the department is buying limited quantities of turkeys, chickens, and meats for these uses. But cutbacks here could have an unwanted adverse effect on producer prices of these commodities, department officials says.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A buildup of cattle on feed for fattening continues unabated, an Agriculture Department livestock market report said Friday.

Supplies of feeder and stocker cattle moving to markets last week were the largest for the year. Yet they moved out, mostly to feeders, at steady to strong prices.

"Favorable weather conditions, abundant supplies of grain feeds and in many areas fairly good late pasture conditions all were factors tending to stimulate demand," the report said.

Prices of hogs, on the other hand, declined for the fourth consecutive week, reflecting a seasonal increase in slaughter supplies. The hog-corn price ratio at Chicago dipped from 16.3 to 1 to 15.1 to 1 last week. This means that week before last 100 pounds of live hog were equivalent in value to 16.3 bushels of corn. Last week it was equivalent to 15.1. The lower the ratio the less the incentive to raise hogs.

As I See It
by E. W. BROWN

I guess it's no secret that most male entertainers past the draft age use a little coloring to keep their hair from showing their age. Still, gray hairs are only one indicator of the march of time... as most of us realize after trying to run up a flight of stairs.

But now a couple of university biologists claim that soon you may be able to stay young even at 80. It has to do with the development of the pituitary, which controls growth and much other activity. The glands about as big as a dime... but it can make you feel like a million bucks.

The professors have proved they can work wonders on rats whose age is equivalent to 80 human years, so they feel sure they can get the same results. That's encouraging... but not very complimentary.

The local philosopher who says every time he feels a little mean he remembers a sign he saw once—"Be kind to your friends. If it weren't for them you'd be a total stranger."

The Civil War -- 100 Years Ago DEATH OF A HERO

A Dutchman Bayonets A Skunk

A hundred years ago the 14th Illinois Infantry, which was made up entirely of volunteers from this section of the state, was on the march in Missouri, moving generally to the southwest on the heels of Confederate sympathizers who were not exactly itching for a fight at the time. They had been promised support from Arkansas and were simply staying out of direct trouble with the Union forces until the Arkansas troops arrived.

For news about the regiment let us turn to the diary of William Camm, captain of Co. K, which was composed of Scott county boys.

"October 21st, marched at sunrise and are encamped for the night in the woods and grass near Versailles, in Morgan County. A green German from Company 'G' stationed near our tent bayoneted a skunk just before dark, and now my lieutenants Case and Shibley are trying to neutralize the stench by making the air sulphurous with oaths, and damning the Dutchman to the devil."

"October 22nd, made only 15 miles today. The land was rolling with loose stones. The fresh beef that should have been issued last evening did not materialize until after dark tonight. The men swore and grumbled, but half good-naturedly."

"They are not over the polecat episode of last night. There was a light air blowing up the creek and the swearing went to leeward as far as the laughing went to windward. When a German sergeant came to relieve the sentinel the fun began with 'Ack mein Gott in Himmel,' and there was a sad confusion of the Dutch oaths and English interrogatives and invectives. The men have reconsidered the vote to hang the 'Damn Dutch Fool.'"

"Lying by the campfire I can hardly see to write. If half the rumors we get about the enemy prove true, a whole lot of us will never see our sweethearts again."

Co. C of the 14th Illinois was made up entirely of Germans, most of them from Springfield plus a few from Jacksonville and Carlinville. They were "most proficient" in their drill, since they had been anathema to the Puritan section of Springfield for many years because they drilled on Sundays. On the same day the Germans held shooting matches, listened to band concerts, danced and drank lager beer—all to the consternation of their strait-laced neighbors.

But Co. G made a cracking good infantry outfit. Discipline was the rule with them, and when the regiment told the private to let nothing get past him, he took the order literally. Well, the skunk came ambling along and wouldn't halt and give the countersign, so what should he do? Bayonet him, of course! And right by the colonel's tent.

A Bunch of Singers
Co. G drilled by the bugle, or by commands in either German or English. They loved to sing good old lusty German songs and they helped keep up the morale of the entire regiment when it was marching here and yon.

The Dutchmen did something else that always amazed the rest of the regiment. As soon as they camped they put on the soup kettle. Everybody else had been brought up on hog and hominy and thought soup when it was marching here and yon.

The Dutchmen did something else that always amazed the rest of the regiment. As soon as they camped they put on the soup kettle. Everybody else had been brought up on hog and hominy and thought soup when it was marching here and yon.

But for contrast we might take the two lieutenants, Case and Shibley, mentioned by Camm. Henry Case was a lawyer in Winchester when he enlisted. He didn't see much chance of promotion in the 14th, so he got himself transferred to the 7th Illinois Cavalry, where he made major. In a couple of weeks he resigned and went home.

As the war went on he returned as lieutenant colonel of the 129th Illinois Infantry, and made colonel when Col. G. Price Smith resigned. A short time after the war closed he was brevetted brigadier general; nobody at this date can figure out why.

But he enjoyed the title very much so long as he lived. He certainly didn't see as much of the war as Privates Bell, Reiser, Helmich, Apt, Heinemann, Bellinghausen, Fischer, Gutzman, Gottsch, Greiner, Rucker, Klein, Kopp, Kraemer and their compatriots at Co. G, who went in privates and came out privates.

Like Case, Second Lieutenant William N. Shibley of Co. K also spent much time bucking for rank. But when he was appointed first lieutenant he seemed to have lost interest in the army, resigned and went home.

Death of Colonel E. D. Baker, U.S. Senator from Oregon, at the head of the California Regiment, Battle of Ball's Heights, Oct. 21.—From a sketch by our artist with General Bank's command.—Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper.

DEATH OF COL. E. D. BAKER—The announcement of the death of Col. E. D. Baker, formerly of this State but lately of California, will cast a gloom everywhere. Especial sorrow will be felt here, where he was well known and greatly loved. In the death of Col. Baker the Union cause has lost a patriot and a great statesman. His loss will be severely felt on the Pacific, where he labored so faithfully in the cause of freedom.—Jacksonville Sentinel.

In the fall of 1827 a youth sat on a log alongside Otter Creek in Jersey county. He was 16 years old, of medium height, pleasant featured, with brown hair and blue eyes. He held a book and he was crying.

Edward Dickinson Baker had just learned that he could never be president of the United States, for his parents had come over from England when he was four years old. Although he had been an avid reader for years, this was the first time he had come across a book containing the Constitution of the United States of America.

But if he couldn't be president, he managed to do most everything else until he died in one of the silliest military maneuvers ever recorded.

And he did everything in a most interesting way.

His family first settled in Philadelphia, where young Edward went to school for a few terms before being apprenticed to a weaver. The father was struck by "Western Fever" in 1825 and migrated to Indiana for a year, then to Illinois, where he lived for short periods in Belleville, Jerseyville and Carlinville and other pioneer towns.

Young Baker found a real tutor in Moses Bledsoe, an educated Kentuckian who could do anything he wanted to do—anything. Moses was a natural, and wherever you found him you'd find young Baker. Folks around Carlinville called him "Bledsoe's shadow."

Guided by his unpaid mentor, Baker was admitted to the bar when he was 19 years old. That same year he pulled one that indicated what kind of timber he was made of.

The minister of the Baptist church in Carlinville decided to go back to Kentucky to see his ailing father, so he just shut up the church. Moses decided to try out his protégé in the preaching line, so young Baker took the pulpit. When the regular preacher got back he was startled to see the church full, with crowds of people standing around the opened windows to hear the preaching. Young Baker, in four weeks, had converted the whole town. Even the Congregationalists were on hand to listen to his exhortations.

The regular preacher got back on his horse and Carrollton heard no more of him.

The next year, at age 20, Baker married a 37 year old widow, with two children, the flour mill, a block of commercial buildings, a half-dozen farms and most of the hard cash in the community. A volunteer in the Black Hawk war, he served as a private without distinction and never came across a hostile Indian. But he did meet many interesting folks, including Abraham Lincoln of Clay's Grove.

Defeats Lincoln
In 1835 Baker moved to Springfield and began practicing law and politics in earnest. He had been in Springfield less than six months when he was elected to the state legislature. After three terms he stood for Congress and defeated Lincoln in the convention and then went on to win election, the only Whig Congressman in the state. Good old Democrats from Morgan and Greene helped put him over.

Then he enlisted in the Mexican War, raised the 4th Illinois regiment and was elected colonel. This regiment had a lot of fun traveling around, but met up with few hostile Mexicans.

Upon discharge he glanced around and noticed that the Galena district was not only the wealthiest section of Illinois, but also the most heavily Democratic, so Democratic that no Whig was insane enough to run for Congress.

This didn't phase Baker; he went up there, threw in his name, outed around and won the election although he had been a resident only 19 days.

After that hitch in Congress he took a contract to grade a section of the Lathams of Panama railroad, got the fever, came back to Illinois to recover and then went to California, where he soon became known as the No. 1 orator and political fixer of the territory.

Wins In Oregon
After seeing to it that both U.S. senators were Republicans he went up to Oregon in February, 1860, and was elected U.S. senator the following October.

His last visit to Jacksonville was on Dec. 26, 1860, while on his way to Washington.

Editor Bailey of the Jacksonville Sentinel wrote: "COL. E. D. BAKER—This gentleman, formerly a resident of Springfield, and a distinguished lawyer and politician of this state, but recently elected by the state of Oregon as a senator of the United States, favored our city with a visit on Wednesday, while on his way to visit his aged mother, who resides near Winchester."

"The Senator received his friends at the Dunlap House, and being called out, delivered a short speech in reference to the exciting times upon which we have fallen. He deprecated disunion, and urged the injustice which had been committed towards the South should be abated, the fugitive slave law should be enforced, and that the men in the North who opposed the protection of slavery in the territories, would never submit to have slavery established as a rule, and free-

Conference With Abe
After he visited his mother Baker went over to Springfield for a visit with his friend, President-elect Abraham Lincoln, and a conference on the state of the nation. The two men were friends, no doubt about it, and perhaps Lincoln did name his second son Edward Baker Lincoln in his honor. And perhaps he didn't. A minority says the infant—who died when he was three years old—was named for Edward Baker, the peppy editor of the Illinois State Journal and Abe's favorite pool-playing and beer-drinking partner.

When the war broke out Lincoln promptly offered Baker a commission as general. Baker declined it, but took the colonelcy of "The California Regiment," which wasn't from California at all but was made up of $300 bounty men from Pennsylvania and New York.

There's been a million words written about the courageous action at Ball's Bluff the day Baker was killed. In short, here is what happened: Baker led his men in a frontal assault against an undetermined number of rebels who had infantry and artillery hidden on the wooded hillside; at the bottom of the bluff there was a shallow creek, and the bluff was of absolutely no military importance and could have been made untenable simply by walking around it.

Yes, Baker was a great orator and one of those citizen-commanders "unspoiled by West Point," but who would want him for a military leader?

Moved By Progress
After a dozen funeral eulogies, Baker was buried in the Presidio cemetery in San Francisco. But the grave was in the way of the approaches to the Golden Gate bridge and the casket was moved to another cemetery. A man at the bar the other night said progress has moved him again, this time to make way for a freeway.

That figures. —Cecil Tendick.

DOMESTIC INTELLIGENCE
EXPECTED ATTACK AT JEFFERSON CITY—It is stated positively that Ben McCulloch is marching on Jefferson City with ten thousand men, and warm work is anticipated. It is believed that the Union forces are well disposed to repel such an attack as this is reported. There are 12,000 of our forces at Cairo and Bird's Point, 4,000 at Cape Girardeau, 8,000 near Ironton, 5,000 at Saffar Spring, 5,000 at Jefferson City, Lexington, and Kansas City; 7,000 at Rolla and 20,000 to 30,000 at St. Louis.

HOW HAVE THE MIGHTY FALLEN! — On the 25th ult. James B. Clay, a son of Henry Clay, was arrested with 16 of his men, while on his way to join the rebel General Zollicoffer, John C. Breckinridge, late Vice-President of the United States, was with the party, but succeeded in effecting his escape.

News, Views Century Ago

From the Jacksonville Journal:
BE POSTED — The new election law will be found on the fourth page. It will be seen that it imposes new duties on a certain part of our citizens. The liquor shops and saloons are to be kept shut during the election. Cheating, deceiving or false swearing will give a person a residence in the large stone mansion at Joliet. In fact, the law seems to be just what is wanted to prevent fraudulent voting.

From the Jacksonville Sentinel:
TRANSPORTATION TO CAIRO — The best plan is to leave Jacksonville on the 9:30 p.m. cars, arriving in Decatur at 1 a.m. Leave Decatur at 8 a.m. and arrive in Cairo at 12 midnight. Round trip ticket, $8. (ADV.)

LETTER FROM CAIRO — A letter from a friend in Cairo says he found Cairo very quiet and presenting a much more decent appearance than before he left. The drinking saloons have been closed, and orders of the strictest nature published, which are being carried out to the letter, make a big change. Fort Holt and Bird's Point are now strongly fortified and at the open end of Bird's Point there are a number of straw stacks, which will be ignited if the enemy makes an attack at night. Capt. Brown, from Winchester, is there with his company (Co. C, 28th Illinois Infantry) and the boys are looking fine. Capt. Brown is a splendid officer and bids fair to go still higher in rank, although he says he does not wish to leave the immediate control of his men.

THE RACES — We understand that the horse races to be held south of town on the last three days of October have not been gotten up for gambling purposes, but simply to encourage the breeding of fine thoroughbred horses in this country.

HUMORS of the day

REWARD FOR EARLY HOURS — We say to Young Ladies: "As you prize your beauty, as you value your future prospects, go to bed early. Look at Cinderella! When she went to a ball, she was hidden by her good godmother to leave off precisely at Twelve. And what was her reward? Why, she married a Prince!"

A doctor returned a coat to a tailor because it did not fit him well. The tailor, seeing the doctor at the funeral of one of his patients, said, "Ah, doctor, you are a happy man. You ne have any of your bad work returned on your hands."

"Matchless misery" has been defined to be having a cigar and nothing to light it with.
GET IT? When is a chicken's neck like a bell? When it is rung. In a back township a magistrate, who kept tavern, sold liquor to the patrons until they got drunk and fought in his house. He then issued a warrant, apprehended them, and tried them on the spot, and, beside fining them, made them treat each other to make up the quarrel.
—Harper's Weekly.

FOREIGN

SHELLY'S GRAVE — We hear from Rome that the tombs of Keats and Shelley are about to be restored. Mr. Severn, the newly appointed British Consul to that city, has resolved to give them his early attention. They have fallen into decay.

The rumor is received that the English Court has sought the hand of a continental princess for the Prince of Wales. The selected fair one is said to be Alexandra, the daughter of Prince Christian, of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Glücksburg. The Princess was born in 1844. Her father is the declared heir to the Danish throne by the King under the treaty of 1853.

The vintage of France will this year be magnificent. It is now being carried on with great activity in the southern provinces and in Burgundy. Everywhere the grapes are fine. There seems, therefore, to be some truth in the supposition that come years are favorable to the cultivation of the grape.

DOMESTIC

WHAT WILL THE ARMY EAT — Taking the regulation ration as the basis of estimate, it has been computed that the army authorized by Congress—500,000 men—will require for one year's support in the way of provisions, 684,000 barrels of pork, 1,140,025 barrels of beef, 5,229,563 bushels of wheat, 456,250 bushels of beans. Supposing the army to employ but 75,000 horses, these would require 191,825 tons of hay and 10,265,225 bushels of oats, or their equivalent in corn or barley.

In the election just held, California has proved herself true to the Union. Leland Stanford, the Union candidate for Governor is elected by 3,000 plurality. Both Houses of the Legislature are overwhelmingly Union.

THE PACIFIC TELEGRAPH — The telegraph line to the Pacific is being carried rapidly westward. It already reaches to the city of the Mormons in the Great Salt Lake valley.

In 1772 French chemist Antoine Lavoisier and his colleagues pooled their funds to buy a diamond and proceeded to burn it up, proving that a diamond is nothing but crystallized carbon. The gas that resulted from the burning was carbon dioxide. In 1799, another Frenchman, Guyton de Morveau, furthered the research by converting a diamond into graphite, the form of carbon used in lead pencils.

Japanese Girl Of Postwar Generation Finds Emancipation Far From Reality

EDITORS'S NOTE — A decade and a half after it lost a war, changes are still under way in Japan. One of the most far-reaching is in the new position of women. Officially they are emancipated. Practice has not yet caught up with law, but progress is clear and nowhere more evident than in the new army of business girls.

By KENNETH ISHII
TOKYO (AP)—Akiko Yamamoto is 24, an attractive, good-humored product of Japan's postwar democracy.

She is a college graduate, and she has a job. That makes her a "B.G.," an abbreviation of business girl.

Until a generation ago, a girl like Akiko would have been married and probably a mother by now. In those days nice girls didn't work.

But today there are almost two million of Akiko's kind in Japan, and the Japanese have coined the special term for them—"B.G.," an abbreviation of business girl.

Clerks, typists, receptionists, sales girls and others in white-collar occupations, they are the first generation to reach adulthood under democracy, the first to break free from the bonds of subservience and inferiority that for centuries denied them all rights and shackled them to lives of drudgery.

But emancipation has brought problems of its own. For unlike the gradual social evolution through which women achieved equality in the West, Japan's took place overnight, by occupation decrees, and tradition often has been reluctant to give way to the sudden onslaught.

The postwar constitution guarantees women equality politically, economically and socially. Divorce and property laws have been rewritten to safeguard their rights. Marriage, says the law, shall be only by mutual consent. Yet in everyday life barriers of discrimination remain.

she believes is at the root of the resistance.

"It's the men themselves," she said. "They've enjoyed being superior to women for so long that they don't want to give it up."

Other B.G.s at the Toyo Ryon Co.'s office in downtown Tokyo, where Akiko works, agree.

"In school," Akiko said, "we learn about democracy and equality, but once we go out into the business world, we soon find out how feudalistic things still are."

Akiko is a development clerk in Toyo's office in downtown Tokyo, where Akiko works, agree.

"We are not treated as equals in the office," she said. "We are always relegated to assistant duties. We are never given responsibility."

The still widely practiced custom requiring women employees to serve tea to the office staff in the mornings and afternoons ranks many B.G.s. Some of the larger companies have recently adopted a serve-yourself system.

But despite the male attitude, Akiko says she enjoys her life. She realizes she has been thrown into an experience that girls of previous generations never permitted to know. And if tradition remains strong in the business world, democracy, it seems, has penetrated more quickly in personal and family relationships.

When does she plan to marry? "When the right man comes along," Akiko said.

The conversation took place in the straw-matted living room of the suburban, middle-class Tokyo home where she lives with her parents, her maternal grandmother, a younger brother and sister. Akiko's father is an agricultural engineer who divides his time between Osaka, 250 miles southwest of Tokyo where he has his office, and the Tokyo home.

There was no doubt from the way Akiko answered the marriage question that she meant the choice would be hers. Seated with her were her mother and grandmother, and the talk reflected the change of attitude spanning the three generations.

For example, the grandmother thinks it proper to let the male head of the family bathe first when the bath water is cleanest. Japanese use the same bath water for all the family, washing outside the tub and using the tub only to soak.

Mother observes the custom but not rigidly.

Akiko doesn't believe in the custom at all but is willing to defer to her elders.

Akiko has several boyfriends, mostly men she knew during her conditional high school days or friends introduced through the family. She dates about twice a month.

Inhabitants of the island of Three in the Inner Hebrides walk in a curious manner supposedly recognizable anywhere in Scotland. The islanders develop a shuffling, angle of approach by fighting to stay upright against the wild westerly gales that sweep Three.

The great Plains has suffered often from grasshoppers. The most spectacular invasion occurred in the 1870's. Successive waves of grasshoppers ate grain, vegetables, tree leaves and weeds. When greenery was gone the voracious insects nibbled clothing, harness and pitchfork handles.

Albanian leaders, headed by strongman Enver Hoxha, have been accused of clinging to Stalinist philosophies, which went out of style when Khrushchev took over the U.S.S.R. Watch The 'Gobble-Uns' Please

The Halloween "Gobble-Uns" will be on the dark streets of our city Tuesday evening. Both the Police Department and all concerned would like to warn motorists to be on the lookout for children on their trick or treat prowls.

It would be well to drive 5 to 10 miles an hour slower than usual on residential streets where there are parked cars. Children shouldn't be playing between parked cars nor should they be running across the street, especially in the middle of a block.

But kids are kids, and no matter how much they are lectured by parents and school teachers, some of the youngsters will be running into the streets in the dark during the Halloween season. No motorist wants to hurt a child for making this mistake.

Parents CAN reduce this annual hazard by supervising the Halloween festivities. They can also help by inspecting the costumes for avoidable risks.

Children playing out of doors should not wear masks that interfere with their range of vision as so many ill-fitting masks do. For them to be wearing these blinders is too much of a handicap to their safety in crossing the street even in daylight.

After nightfall, the all-black ghost costume and blackened face can be responsible for a child's death. In this attire, a child is difficult for a careful motorist to see until it is too late for him to stop even at a moderate speed.

The visibility of the child can be increased by wearing reflective tape on the wrists and ankles of the Halloween costume. The tape is rather inexpensive but if you have none, a white handkerchief tied on the lower legs are a big help. Headlight beams reach the feet before they reach other parts of a pedestrian's body.

Let's all help motorists and parents alike in seeing on Wednesday morning that all our children are still with us.

World War II Wrote First Chapter in the Rocket Plane Story

Nazi's stubby Messerschmitt 163B rocket plane could briefly attain speeds over 600 m.p.h.

America's manned missile, the X-15, designed to hit over 4,000 m.p.h. and climb into near-space, is a far cry from any airplane ever flown — except one, Germany's Messerschmitt 163B. Smaller and slower than the X-15, the Me-163B was similar in many ways. It too was powered by liquid fuel; its flights lasted only a few minutes; it glided to a landing on a skid. Unlike the X-15, it took off by its own power on an undercarriage that was then dropped. Its operating altitude was only about 30,000 feet, below that from which the X-15 is released by its mother ship. First flown in late 1942, the Me-163B was intended as an interceptor to break up bomber formations, but it was never put into mass production. One of its first test pilots was the famed aviatrix Hanna Reitsch.

Larger, more powerful X-15 research ship operates at 4,000 m.p.h. on the fringe of space.

You'll Be Surprised At How Much You Own

By Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Even a young family which is having its possessions appraised by a mover for insurance purposes can be amazed by the total value of furniture, clothes and knick-knacks.

Replacement costs for your household and personal effects could easily run three or four times what you would imagine. It makes good sense, then, to take pencil in hand and set about estimating the worth of the family belongings.

The advantages of such a list could be many. When moving to another house or apartment, for instance, any lost goods can be readily checked for insurance action. Even if no move is contemplated, a list can be invaluable should a fire or theft ever take place.

How to make an inventory? From the experience of Jean Kinhead, women's consultant for Travelers Insurance, comes this advice:

Write on separate pages of a large pad of paper the names of the various rooms in the home, as well as cellar, attic and garage if they apply. On a page entitled "miscellaneous" will be listed sports and hobby equipment, jewelry, furs and luggage.

On the right-hand side of each page make heading for "when purchased" and "original cost."

Pad and pencil in hand, enter the first room, noting down the rug and other floor coverings. Then walk around it, listing on the first trip furniture, lamps and books. Then, around again for bric-a-brac. Then list items in the closet, then go to the next room.

If you can't remember what you paid for certain things—say, if they were gifts or antiques—do not enter the price. Complete the list. Then estimate the cost of those items you had trouble with.

If necessary, call in help, such as a friend who knows antiques. Your canceled checks or filed receipts should help in most cases.

Also, a handy aid in your estimating job will be a mail order catalogue. You often can find a comparable article there.

When your list is finished, keep it handy if you move. As you unpack, check off the various articles.

You should review and revise your inventory list from time to time—especially if you redecorate the home or make a number of substantial purchases.

Kleinschmidt And Harbin Lead Triopia To Seventeenth Win

TIGER TOUCHDOWN TWINS

The two senior halfbacks for ISD's Tigers, Jim Marquis, left, and Bob Poncar, are the two reasons Coach Jim Bonds' squad is ahead of their 1960 season in the win column.

Between the two touchdown twins, they have contributed 22 touchdowns and rolled up 1421 yards for ISD's Tigers who presently stand 5-1 for the season, thus bettering their 1960 season of only three wins.

Poncar, a 5-11, 195-pounder from Chicago, operates from the left half post, and has only averaged 16 minutes on offense for the Tigers—but, the steamroller has amassed 978 yards rushing in 38 carries for a 16.8 yards per carry, scoring 14 touchdowns and 12 extra points.

On punt returns the burly half back carried 11 times for 305 yards, and a 27.7 average, and when he punts they travel for a 30-yard average.

Running mate Marquis, a 5-10, 150-pounder has a creditable 446 yards rushing in his column on 35 carries for the 12.5 average, scoring eight touchdowns in the Petersburgh, Bluffs, Routt, and Winchester contests.

Two key Tiger fumbles were capitalized on by Macomb, the first with 50 seconds left in the first half. The Rockets let a fourth quarter blank Coach Bob Winstead's squad 27-0 on the Rockets' home field.

Two key Rocket fumbles were capitalized on by Macomb, the first with 50 seconds left in the first half. The Rockets let a fourth quarter blank Coach Bob Winstead's squad 27-0 on the Rockets' home field.

Macomb ground out 228 yards on the turf to the Rockets' 166, and gained 41 through the air lanes as Rushville gathered in 18 yards of aerials.

Macomb's Terry Mathis talked in the opening minutes of the first frame as he went over from the four and annexed the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

In the second quarter Terry Clark scored in from the three as Rushville scored the PAT on a run. Right half Markland opened the second half scoring as he plunged from the three and the insurance point failed. Bill Hensley, Macomb's halfback, went into the Rockets' end zone from the six yard stripe for the final touchdown of the evening, as Mathis looted the conversion.

Ayres Tallies Four To Dump Calhoun 27-8

HARDIN — Southwest's fullback Ayres racked up all of his squad's tallies with runs of 10, 2, 2, and 40 yards as Southwest rolled over Calhoun's Warriors 27-8 in an IVC tilt at Hardin.

Ayres scored on the opening kick-off series of downs going over from the 10. In the third period, the fullback went in from the two capitalizing on a Calhoun fumble on their own 30. Again Southwest grabbed the advantage of a Calhoun loose ball on the 40 and Ayres dove over from the two.

Calhoun's Chuck Holloway went 40 yards for the Warriors' only score in the third stanza.

In the final frame it was Ayres, scoring a 40 yarder as the PAT failed. The two-point safety was added when Holloway was trapped in the end zone looking for a Warrior receiver.

Halfbacks Tally Five In 47-0 Runaway Over Meredosia

ARENZVILLE—Tuning up for their next Saturday meeting with ISD, Wendell Harbin and Fred Kleinschmidt lead Triopia's Trojans to their seventeenth straight win dumping Meredosia 47-0.

Kleinschmidt scored on runs of 35, 15, and a kickoff return of 70 yards as his 180-pound scoring ace, Harbin tallied with runs of 15 and 60 yards. They both shared extra points with two apiece.

Harbin started the Coach Don Kemp touchdown train rolling as he swept 15 yards for the opening score over the Indians, Partner Kleinschmidt ran the PAT. Kleinschmidt came back in minutes later in the first frame on a 25 yard scamper to tally his evening's first, as Harbin obliged his partner with the extra point.

Still in the first period, Kleinschmidt executed a scoring march as he scored from the Meredosia 15 yard marker standing up.

A stranger broke into the Trojan column scoring in the name of Roger Allen, as he tallied on a six yard scoring jaunt, as Harbin annexed the insurance point.

A former guard, 180-pound junior James Berry took the scoring fever and dove over from the two for another Trojan TD.

The touchdown combination of Harbin and Kleinschmidt put the finale on the evening's scoring in the third period as Kleinschmidt took a Meredosia punt and romped 70 yards into the Indians' end zone, Harbin added the extra point and turned around after the Indians relinquished the ball on downs to center 60 yards for the final score. Kleinschmidt punched over for the extra point.

Pile Passes For Three Wildcat TD's In 34-7 Win

PLEASANT HILL — Wildcat quarterback, 155-pound senior Tom Pile, fired three touchdown passes to pilot Winchester to a 34-7 runaway over Pleasant Hill's Wolves in an IVC contest on the weekend.

The Wolves were led by 175-pound fullback Alan McClure in their initial touchdown of the evening as the senior back went over from the one and also tallied the extra point. Right half Bob Watt, the other Wildcat's scoring ace for the evening, came back in the third frame to center 100 yards for the second score.

In the third quarter, Pile heaved a 20 yard pass to his left end, Alan Hudson, for the third score as another Pile pass to Watt kicked for the insurance point.

The Wolves' only score came in the same quarter as fullback Taylor Steinberg went through a Wildcat hole five yards as Denny Wamble capped the extra point.

Winchester blasted back as Pile went the ground route for one yard to annex the score, and fired the extra point pass to Terry Savage, his right end.

In the final period Pile directed a ten yard pass to Hudson as the left end scored standing up. The run for the insurance counter was pushed over by Watt.

SEVEN LIES SOUTH By William P. McGivern

Chapter XXIV
 "Please listen to me," Beecher said quietly. They stood ten yards apart, and the rocky ground between glowed with soft light. "You won't see Goulamine until they've got full value from you. And that might take the rest of your life."
 "You've been reading the Arabian Nights," she said, with a hard smile. "This is the twentieth century, or haven't you heard?"
 "Come back to the plane," he said.
 "I can take care of myself." She wheeled and ran into the silver wastes of desert, her boots slipping and twisting on the deceptively gilded rocks. Suddenly two grotesque silhouettes rose against the horizon: an instant before the desert had been serenely still and silent, but then, lurching upward with fantastic deliberation, camels and riders emerged from the sand, stood black and heavy in the silver moonlight.
 He saw Laura's bright head one last time; it gleamed in a pale swift arc as a rider stooped and swung her up into the air.
 It seemed to Beecher that Lynch had willed himself to die; with Laura gone he had given up the struggle to live. "Try hard to understand me," Beecher said. "If we get out of this, I'll be in trouble. There's nothing to prove we weren't involved in Don Willie's plans."
 Lynch nodded weakly. "No good saying you had a gun against your head, unless you can prove it."
 "And it's only Ilse's word," he said.
 "That she wasn't involved," Beecher said. "I'm going to write a statement explaining how we got into it. Will you sign it?"
 Lynch's eyelids fluttered. He moved his head slowly from side to side. "Wish you hadn't asked that. I can't do it, you know."
 "Why not?"
 "She's still got a chance. Laura. She took all your money. I may as well tell you." Lynch drew a slow, cautious breath, and his eyes fixed themselves on Beecher's with a pathetic intensity. "Very hard to go out like that. I can promise you," he said faintly. "Listen. Laura's a peculiar girl. She's a liar. Not only when it's necessary. It's some need." He drew another tentative breath, like a man tapping the last few shillings from his bank account. "She'd go to tea with friends, lie about it. Say she'd been shopping. Go shopping. Tell me something else. No sense to it. But she knew the truth. I didn't. Gave her an advantage. Couldn't really help it. The landrover is—" Lynch's voice failed, and Beecher leaned forward and gripped his shoulder.
 "The landrover? What about it?"
 "It's a half mile from here. Due south. The axle isn't broken. Feed line's clogged. Laura insisted we lie about it. Gave her advantage."
 A few seconds later Lynch's hand moved and touched Beecher's arm. He opened his eyes with an obvious effort. "Shouldn't have cheated you out of that match," he whispered. "No need to. Could have won, anyway."

Trickery In Treats

Halloween Vandalism Replaced By Adult-Sponsored Activities

By TOM HENSHAW AP Staff Writer
 The superstitious folk of old had a way of handling the serious problem of witches and demons who played tricks on them at Halloween. They disguised themselves asimps and joined them. Their descendants are adapting the old methods to the less spooky but no less serious Halloween problem of handling their prankster offspring. They're doing it with some success, too.
 The kids are still soaping windows. But in Hastings on Hudson, N. Y., they do it with water soluble paint and the best designs win cash prizes from the local Lions Club.
 They still dress as ghosts and witches. But in Atlanta they display their disguises publicly in mammoth Mardi Gras-style parade, with awards going to the most ingenious costumes.
 And they still play "trick or treat," too. Only in Seattle the funds collected by such juvenile extortion may go to a worthy cause like the United Nations Children's Emergency Fund.
 Some communities have been engaged in turning youth's seasonal exuberance into constructive channels for several decades. It's called "Treating the Tricksters"—and everyone wins.
 With many, it was a matter of self-defense. Arkansas City, Kan., for example, had a serious Halloween vandalism problem until "Arkalah" came along in 1928. "Arkalah" is a combination of "Ark," the city's abbreviation, and "Allah," and Indian word meaning a good time. The kids of Arkansas City really have a good time during Arkalah.
 It has grown into a three-day pre-Halloween affair with dances and parties on Thursday; the coronation of Queen Arkalah on Friday; street stunts and a five-mile-long parade through the roped-off downtown business district on Saturday.
 Groups enjoy Arkalah, too—but for a different reason.
 "This celebration has put a complete lid on any damage or vandalism here during Halloween," says Arkansas City Police Chief Frank Robertson. "The kids are busy all the time."
 The contrast between the old and the new in Halloween is nowhere stronger than in Nevada, Mo.
 The little city of 10,000 in western Missouri recalls the dismal holiday season of 1946 when 100 extra men had to be added to the police force and some residents sat up with guns to protect their property.
 Then the Nevada High School Student Council hit upon "Anti-Van."
 Anti-Van has turned Halloween into the biggest social event of the year for junior and senior high school students, with parties, dances and home talent shows.
 Admission to the social activities is simply a signed pledge to renounce vandalism during the open to apple-bobbing, costume-parade and bonfire-watching. Last year, 325,000 showed up. Vandalism: negligible.
 "We expect a very mild performance from our high-spirited youth," says police Sgt. Ed Hill of San Gabriel, Calif., and he adds nostalgically, "They just don't seem to be as inventive as we were in my day."
 Maybe—but more likely it's the treating that's doing the trick.

Ten minutes later Lynch

At first light Beecher set out to find the landrover, and it was as Lynch had said, a half-mile south of them, parked behind a sloping ridge of black shale and half buried under sand swept against it during the storm. He blew out the gas lines, cleaned the pump and carburetor, and got the motor running.
 In a stout aluminum locker he found a supply of tinned foods and biscuits, and several bottles of gin and whisky.
 Ilse was waiting for him in the mouth of the clearing. She had found her purse, empty of both dollars and pesos. It was deep in the trees that circled the pond; it had obviously been thrown there.
 "We've got a good chance to get to Goulamine," he said. "Then the fun starts."
 "What fun?"
 "I mean trouble," Beecher took out his wallet and counted his money. Six hundred and fifty pesos, a bit more than ten dollars.
 "What does the money matter for?" Ilse asked him.
 Beecher twisted around to face her. "Look. I took a job with Don Willie. That's a known fact. I had a row with a Frenchman who ended up murdered on my doorstep. Another known fact. I flew the plane down here." Beecher sighed wearily. "You knew what was planned, but didn't go to the police. How do you imagine our stories will sound? We'll look like a pair of liars trying to pin the blame on dead men. Candles are burning now for those murdered pilots. Their wives have put on black for life. Somebody's going to pay for it. Can you think of better prospects than you and me?"
 "Why not stay here and die?"
